HORNER FAVORS ELEVATED ROAD AFTER N. Y. TRIP

Inspects Highway in Auto Tour.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 28.—[Special.]—Gov. Henry Horner of Illinois today made an inspection tour over the $54,575,000 worth of elevated highways which have been constructed in and around New York City since 1930. After watching the progress made by solid streams of Sunday trafic moving at 40 miles an hour above all pedestrian crossing points and side street intersections, he said Chicagoans may well take to heart the lessons pointed here.

Today's tour, the governor announced upon completion, may be the prelude to an attempt by Illinois state authorities to seek federal easy money for construction of high level highways which trafic experts say would dissolve the congestion on Chicago's west side streets. The governor said he "is interested in Chicago's trafic problems," but added that he has made no overtures for federal funds. He said he was uncertain at this time about how far the state could go with highway construction within city limits.

Jersey Spends 40 Millions.

The governor's party in two automobiles approached this city from the west after a drive from Philadelphia. At Elizabeth the little motorcade turned into United States route No. 1, which also is New Jersey route No. 25. As the hangars of Newark airport came into view the roadway began to mount a gentle grade on an approach to the Pulaski skyway, the $40,000,000 motor viaduct constructed by the state of New Jersey.

This is the world's largest viaduct for motor vehicles, according to New Jersey engineers who completed it in November, 1932. With its main structure bridging the Passaic and Hackensack rivers and the marshy meadow land which extends between the two streams, it extends for 3.7 miles.

The roadway is 50 feet wide with five trafic lanes capable of accommodating 20,000,000 vehicles annually. The main section cost some $21,000,000. Ninety thousand tons of structural steel were used.

Meets Holland Tunnel.

The cement portion of the skyway extends from the east band of the Hackensack river to the combined entrance and exit ramp in Jersey City. Here the express highway comes to earth for an eighth of a mile until the western approaches to the Holland tunnel are reached. The cement section averages 35 feet above ground level. This portion and the fill cost $19,000,000.

After driving over the skyway Gov. Horner directed his chauffeur to follow the lower level route so details of the construction could be examined.

"I don't have to be sold on these elevated highways," Gov. Horner explained. "The real reason for my interest is to discover whether the problems met here are at all similar to those which must be solved in Chicago."

Save 45,906 Days a Year.

The viaduct shortened the distance between Newark and the tunnel entrance from 4.2 to 3.7 miles. Trafic surveys disclose that the high level route saves motorists 1,101,750 hours or 45,906 days a year.

After passing through the Holland tunnel the Horner motorcade turned north along the east bank of the Hudson river and at Canal street rolled onto New York's west side highway. This is an elevated roadway, four trafic lanes wide, which extends from Canal street north to 46th street, and from 57th street on to 72d street.

The gap between 46th and 57th is now being completed, and work of extending the highway from 72d on north to the George Washington bridge which crosses the Hudson at 179th street, is already under way.

All of the west side highway is constructed on steel girders with steel pillars supporting the upper level roadway at an average height of 45 feet. The street below is clear save for the pillars and on an ordinary day is jammed with trucks and with freight cars pulled by puffing locomotives. This lower level is given over to carriers plying between the docks and the railroad yards.

HAILE DECLARES HE'LL LEAD NEW WAR IN ETHIOPIA

Warns League Not to Lift Sanctions.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, June 28.—Unexpected complications for league of nations statesmen who are preparing to lift sanctions against Italy arose today when the refugee Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia informed Capt. Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary, that he will return to Ethiopia immediately after the meeting of the assembly to take the field against the Italians once more.

The emperor, according to Ethiopian sources, will proceed as directly as possible to Gore, in western Ethiopia, which is the center of the last resistance of mountain tribesmen to the Italian invasion. However, Ethiopians admit they lack information concerning this resistance and have heard nothing from Prince Makonnen, who went to Gore some time ago to lead the tribesmen.

May Be a Bluff.

League observers believe Haile Selassie's announcement is the last card he is playing to forestall, if not the lifting of sanctions, at least formal recognition by the league assembly of the Italian conquest.

To back it up Haile Selassie, contrary to his original plans, will sit in the league assembly himself Tuesday to plead his country's cause.

The Italians sent a new memorandum to the league today in which, it was reported, new efforts were made to prove Ethiopia and not Italy was the aggressor, thereby paving the way for a demand that the league revise its judgment against Italy.

The only official activity in Geneva today was a private dinner attended by Capt. Eden, Yvon Delbos, French foreign minister, and Premier Leon Blum of France. France and Britain are in agreement over the desirability of ending sanctions against Italy.

In the absence of any German reply to a British questionnaire on Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's ideas for a European peace structure, Blum and Eden agreed that no discussions of Germany's violation of the Locarno treaty by her remilitarization of the Rhineland could be held for the time being.

Italy Makes Survey.

ROME, June 28.—(AP)—Italian officials took stock today of the line-up of nations attending the meeting of the assembly of the league of nations Tuesday and asserted sanctions would be buried almost unanimously.

As for recognition of Italy's new empire in Africa, there was little hope it would be granted. A person close to the government said: "Nine-tenths of the nations are in favor of lifting sanctions and nine-tenths are against recognizing the empire."

It was expected here that no decision about recognition would be made and the question would be postponed until September. News that Poland already has lifted sanctions was received with elation.

Follow Britain's Lead.

The following line-up of nations and their probable action, from the Italian viewpoint, was prepared on the basis of statements by well informed persons or leading Italian newspapers:

Britain—"Mr. Eden finds in the attitude of the dominions, Australia, Canada and New Zealand, with the exception of South Africa, an excellent support for the necessary change in his policy."

France—"Will not take the initiative, but will follow the attitude of England."

Jugo-Slavia—"Weeps over the commerce she has lost through sanctions."

Turkey—"Sees there is no foundation to the alarm created with regard to our country."

Soviet Russia—"Sanctionist enthusiasm has cooled and is surrounded by caution."

Norway—"Has held out a hand to Italy."

Latin-American countries—"Some of the most courageous protests against sanctions have been raised there. Chile, Ecuador, Uruguay and Panama are worthy of special mention."

Rep. Zioncheck Leaps Hospital Wall, Escapes

BULLETIN.

Towson, Md., June 28.—(AP)—Four police officers were called tonight to search the grounds of the Sheppard and Enoch Pratt hospital, where Representative Marion A. Zioncheck of Seattle, Wash., leaped a wire fence and escaped during the day. The call, which came from the hospital, said the madcap congressman was back on the grounds.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 28.—[Special.]—Representative Marion A. Zioncheck [Dem., Wash.], congressional cutup and police baiter, escaped today from a private hospital for mental cases ten miles north of Baltimore.

The congressman's exit from the Sheppard and Enoch Pratt institution at Towson, Md., where he had been taken for rest and observation, was accomplished by clambering over a meshed wire fence 7½ feet in height. It was truly the most sensational exploit in his dizzy career.

Shortly before noon Zioncheck and several other patients were conducted to the exercise enclosure. After strolling for a few minutes the congressman speculatively eyed the fence. It was of heavy wire with the rim slanting inward.

Goes Over Barricade.

Suddenly Zioncheck went into motion and went over the barricade with all the speed for which he is noted. The astounded guards lost time by going through a gate while Zioncheck was streaking across an open field for the wooded hillside.

After beating around in the thicket and scratching their hands and faces the disgruntled guards returned to report that Zioncheck had flown.

"It was the impulse of an elated individual," explained Dr. Arthur Ellis Pattrell, well known psychiatrist and assistant superintendent of the institution.

Fugitive Without Funds.

When the elusive legislator was last seen he was wearing blue pants, a white shirt, tennis shoes, and he had no money. Officials denied reports that an automobile was waiting for him, pointing out that he had had no visitors.

Zioncheck was taken from the Gallinger hospital in Washington to the Maryland institution last Tuesday. His wife, the former Rubye Louise Nix, one time PWA stenographer, asked for the transfer and the commissioners of the District of Columbia agreed. The congressman claimed that it took eight men to get him into an ambulance for the trip.

Lunacy Hearing Dropped.

The findings of the psychiatrists here were not made public, but Zioncheck had been scheduled to appear before a lunacy court on Friday to defend himself against charges that he was dangerous and "an unfit person to be at large" and should be committed to a public institution. The hearing was dismissed upon his transfer to the private hospital.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., June 28.—[Special.]—The great political battle of 1936 is at hand.

With the national conventions of the major parties over, their candidates for the presidency and vice presidency nominated, and their platforms of principles and promises proclaimed, the Republican and Democratic hosts are advancing upon each other, soon to close in a struggle more desperate, more momentous to the future of our country than any since the civil war.

Though it would be foolhardy to hazard, at this distance from the event, a prediction of the result of the battle, it takes but half an eye to perceive that history is going to write Nov. 3, 1936, as a red letter day in our national development.

Nation at Fork in Highway.

For on that day the votes of the people will decide which of these two roads America is to take for the next four years, at least:

1. The road marked out by President Roosevelt and the Democratic party leading toward a collectivist, paternalistic state in which prices, wages, hours of work, volume and methods of production, and all other details of private enterprise in industry, agriculture, and trade will be controled from Washington.

2. The road charted by Gov. Alf Landon and the Republican party leading to the restoration of an individualistic economy, involving scrapping of the New Deal collectivism, the removal of arbitrary restraints from private enterprise, the encouragement of individual initiative and thrift, and the balancing of the budget.

For the next four months the electorate will be vociferously plied by the Democratic and Republican guides to take the road guaranteed to lead to prosperity and happiness.

Hectic Campaign Ahead.

Unquestionably it is going to be a hectic four months for all concerned, and we have it on the authority of Postmaster General James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic national committee, who ought to know, that it is going to be the "dirtiest campaign" in decades.

From now on there will be no end of discussion of the relative chances the Republicans and the Democrats stand of winning the election. Already the outstanding factors are being canvassed.

To begin with, the Democrats have in President Roosevelt a candidate with a magnetic personality, who charms almost every one with whom he comes in contact either in person or by the cultivated mellifluous accents of the "most wonderful radio voice in America."

Philosophy That Lures.

He has achieved an extraordinary popularity, preaching a political philosophy that appeals strongly to the unsuccessful, the unfortunate, the jobless, the improvident, and even to many who are none of these, but all of whom are ready to believe his thesis that the times are out of joint because rich men, big corporations, financial buccaneers deliberately have plundered the honest, plodding, unsuspicious populace.

It is a theory well calculated to gain wide acceptance among those who have suffered from the depression—and who hasn't?—for it plays upon a cardinal weakness of human nature, the tendency to blame somebody else for your misfortunes.

But never has Mr. Roosevelt been heard to preach thrift and saving and sacrifice. In his scheme of things all is to be provided by the state and all will foot the bill.

Beer Champion Drinks ½ Gallon in 19 Seconds

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., June 28.—[Special.]—From a field of 500 entries, Ray Du Val of Green Bay today won the Fond du Lac Avenue Advancement association's beer drinking contest and the championship of Wisconsin. He was crowned champion at the association's annual picnic at Hilgen's Spring park, Cedarburg, amid the huzzahs of 23,000 spectators.

Du Val downed one-half gallon of beer from a tin pail in 19 seconds flat, cutting last year's record of 34 seconds almost in half.

A Triumph of Training.

George Fox, introduced as Du Val's manager, announced the victory of his protégé as a triumph of training over mere brawn. For the past year, Fox said, Du Val has been in daily training.

Du Val, who weighs 180 pounds and measures 5 feet 10½ inches, looked like a midget when lined up with 19 other beer drinkers picked from the field in elimination contests to compete in the finals. Verette weighs 330 pounds. Alongside Du Val also was F. Cristanelli, coal miner from Prentice, Wis., measuring 6 feet tall and weighing 285 pounds. John Brockway, 6 feet 2 inches, weight 300 pounds, was a few men away. The other contestants were built in proportion.

Below Average, Says Manager.

Even though it won the crown, Du Val's exhibition was far from satisfying his manager, who declared it was far below his average. In training last week, Fox said, Du Val twice in one day emptied a half gallon measure in 14 seconds.

Mrs. A. Emmcke, Milwaukee, who weighs 280 pounds and is the mother of 14 children, failed to finish. She was one-third finished with the half gallon assigned her when she saw Du Val already had turned his empty tin pail bottomside up. She quit and was one of the first to congratulate the new champion.

The championship cup was presented to the winner by Mrs. Sophia Altman, 93, the oldest living customer of any Fond du Lac avenue store.

SHIRTLESS BATHING BRINGS PROTEST ON HAIRY CHESTED MEN

New York, June 28.—(AP)—Shirtless bathing, permitted at metropolitan beaches this year for the first time, tonight drew a protest from a group of women who said they had no desire to gaze upon hairy chested men.

Grace Donohue, spokesman for the group, said a campaign had been started to compel men bathers either to denudé their shaggy torsos or wear shirts.

"It is a fight to the finish," said Miss Donohue, a professional beauty expert. "In this year of campaigns we are having our own drive and we won't stop until every hairy chested man covers up on the beach or removes the curls from his chest."

With the aid of a score of other women, including several debutantes, she said she had obtained the active support of the Westchester Embassy club. The club has posted a notice requesting "all male members having hair on their chests to refrain from swimming in the club pool without bathing shirts."

ZEPHYR HITS CAR; WOMAN KILLED, HUSBAND MAY DIE

The west bound Zephyr, crack streamlined train of the Burlington railroad, struck a farmer's automobile near Bristol, five miles west of Oswego, in Kendall county, last night, killing his wife and injuring him critically. The front of the engine was dented but the train was able to continue on to Denver after about a half hour's delay.

Mrs. Harley Shoger, 47 years old, was the woman killed. Her husband, who is 50 years old, was taken to St. Joseph Mercy hospital in Aurora, where physicians said he is not expected to live.

The accident occurred when Shoger stalled his automobile on the railroad tracks at the Oswego Mill road crossing. The train, traveling at about 65 miles an hour, hurled the car several hundred feet.

Television Test Under Way in N. Y. Today

New York, June 28.—(AP)—Million dollar field tests which may go far in deciding when individuals will get their own television sets will be officially inaugurated tomorrow by the Radio Corporation of America.

No reports or statements will be issued on the initial broadcasting of television images across the New York area from the ten kilowatt transmitter installed on the Empire State building.

Chicago Coolly Aloof in Midst of Heat Wave

Chicagoans enjoyed cool weather yesterday unaware that they were "in the grip of a heat wave" which sent temperatures above 100 degrees in Illinois and nearby states.

Winds off the Lake Michigan "refrigerator" kept the city and suburban temperature pleasantly cool under a warm sun. The Chicago forecast for today is for warmer weather with showers or thundershowers by night and breezes from the south and southwest.

Maximum Here Is 70 Degrees.

Chicago had a maximum temperature of 70 degrees, with higher readings in western suburbs where the lake breeze failed to penetrate in full force.

At Springfield, the mercury rose to an even 100. It was just as hot at Cairo and 2 degrees hotter in Evansville, Ind., where the dairy farmers are predicting a milk shortage because the drouth has burned out pasturage.

Kansas City Has 106 Degrees.

In other central western states where drouth has become critical, the heat suffering was more intense. The temperature reached 102 degrees at Dodge City, Kas.; Huron, S. D.; Omaha, Neb., and Wichita, Kas.; 104 degrees at Sioux City, Ia., and 106 degrees at Kansas City, Mo.

Forecaster C. A. Donnel declared there is a possibility of local showers generally about the drouth area today or tomorrow. Indeed, the showers began last night in South Dakota, where in some places .75 of an inch fell—too late to save small grains, but at least a boon to stock feeders.

LET DIONNES SEE QUINTS; MEASLES DANGER IS PAST

CALLANDER, Ont., June 28.—(AP)—After being barred from their quintuplet daughters' nursery for three weeks by a measles quarantine at their own home, Oliva and Elzire Dionne were allowed today to visit them.

Their physician certified they would not carry germs from their older children to the quintuplets, who were 25 months old today.

It is believed the parents, who are expecting another child shortly, will now visit the five sisters daily.

About 1,500 persons watched the youngsters in their two Sabbath appearances. Each day last week between 1,000 and 1,200 visited them.

date a man who in many respects is the antithesis of Mr. Roosevelt.

Gov. Landon is a quiet, unassuming business man who made his own way in the world and got into public life only six years ago when he was defeated for precinct committeeman. He came to public notice by being elected governor of Kansas twice in the face of Roosevelt landslides, and he made his public reputation by balancing the Kansas budget, exercising economy, and preaching thrift and self-reliance.

He possesses an attractive personality that is bound to popularize him when he gets into the campaign, moves about the country and gets acquainted with the electorate. He is no orator, his voice hardly would be called dulcet, but he has a knack of penetrating to the heart of a matter and illuminating it with a shaft of homely common sense. Hence his speeches may be expected to expose mercilessly and pungently what he considers the fallacies and dangers of the New Deal collectivism and to become an important factor in the determination of the result.

Would Revive Outlawed Acts.

Although framed in terms calculated to lull the fears of conservatives, the Democratic platform leaves no doubt that, if reelected, Mr. Roosevelt will undertake to revive the NRA, the AAA, the Guffey coal control and other collectivist institutions held unconstitutional by the Supreme court. He will attempt to do this by an amendment of the constitution, if necessary. Hence the paramount question in the election is whether the people want to revive and perpetuate, or to halt, the regimentation from Washington of the activities of citizens that constitutes the New Deal.

The Democrats possess powerful advantages in this contest. They have the prestige of a party in power and they possess the greatest political machine ever put together in any land. Composed chiefly of the New Deal army of job holders added to the pay roll since Mr. Roosevelt became President, it is supported at public expense.

Count on Votes of Idlers.

Another army is counted upon by the Democratic leaders to support Mr. Roosevelt—the army of nine million unemployed, which is part of an army of about 25 million persons supported wholly or partly by the federal treasury.

The Democrats expect to get the votes of those on relief, not only because of their sense of gratitude, but because federal distribution of relief, the continuation of which is pledged by the Democrats, is less discriminating than would be the management of relief by local authorities to which, with federal financial aid, the Republicans would return the whole responsibility.

The Democrats also count upon the progress in the recovery of prosperity, including the improvement in business produced by spending of the veterans' bonus money, which will become impressive in the early fall, to carry the day for Mr. Roosevelt. Feeling better off, the people, as the Democrats figure it, will be content to let well enough alone.

White Sees the Other Side.

The other way of looking at it was expressed by William Allen White, who said that this naturally is a Republican country and that when people feel satisfied they vote Republican, but when they are hard up or otherwise discontented they vote Democratic.

In estimating the chances of the parties in this contest, it is important to note that the Republicans are united as never before while the Democrats are beset by disaffection on both their right and their left flanks.

Vast numbers of conservative Democrats are in rebellion against the New Deal, which in their view is paving the way to socialism and financial ruin. They are going to vote for Gov. Landon or not vote at all. Symbolic of this revolt was the telegram addressed to the delegates on the eve of the convention in which Al Smith and four others announced they would bolt the renomination of Mr. Roosevelt and support the Republican ticket.

Other signs of the disaffection were the absence from the convention of John W. Davis and James M. Cox, both former Democratic nominees for President; Bernard M. Baruch, Lewis W. Douglas, Newton D. Baker, and dozens of other leading figures in the party.

More Defections Loom.

From now till election there will be an endless procession of conservative Democrats of prominence going over to the Republicans with public confession. The threat of the conservative defection is so serious that the convention leaders prevailed upon Mr. Roosevelt to modify the platform in an effort to placate the insurgents.

Likewise, on the left, the Roosevelt ticket is menaced by defections to the new radical third party, the Union party of Congressman William Lemke and Father Charles E. Coughlin. This party, the Democrats realize, will draw more from Mr. Roosevelt than from Gov. Landon, for without this third party in the field the radicals would vote Democratic.

GROUND TO BE BROKEN TODAY FOR '39 WORLD FAIR IN NEW YORK CITY

New York, June 28.—[Special.]—City and state officials will attend the formal ground-breaking and flag-raising ceremonies for the 1939 World's Fair on the 1,050 acre site at Flushing Meadows tomorrow.

Grover Whalen, president of the Fair corporation, will speak at 1 o'clock. Then the formal lease, transferring use of the site from the city to the corporation, will be signed by Park Commissioner Robert Moses, Controler Frank J. Taylor and Mr. Whalen, after which the first ground will be broken.

DOCTOR SHOOTS 'VISITOR'; SAYS HE FEARED HOLDUP

Alex Polatsek, 45 years old, 11125 Watt avenue, was shot in both legs last night by Dr. Mandel Cohen, 43 years old, in the hallway outside the doctor's office at 1400 East 47th street.

Polatsek was found in the hallway a short time later and was taken to the Chicago hospital, where he asserted the shooting was without provocation. He had gone only to pay a social call, he added.

Following the shooting Dr. Cohen fled in his automobile. He surrendered to Lieut. Joseph Berousnky of the Hyde Park police several hours later. Presenting his pistol, empty, to the lieutenant, he declared that three men, one of them Polatsek, came to the door of his office and he fired because he believed he was being held up. The police held the physician while the stories are being investigated.

DEMANDS UNION PICKETS PICKET ANOTHER UNION

New York, June 28.—[Special.]—Picketing of one American Federation of Labor union by another will be added to Union square's experiences tomorrow if instructions issued by A. N. Weinberg, manager of the Paper Box Makers' union, local 18,239, are carried out.

Mr. Weinberg announced that he had detailed six pickets to march in front of the offices of the Paper Box Drivers' union, local 27, of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters and Chauffeurs at 41 Union Square.

He charged that officers of the drivers' union had failed to live up to a verbal agreement to cooperate with the box makers in a strike called on June 2 against the Famous Paper Box company.

LANDON ATTENDS CHURCH HIGH UP IN THE ROCKIES

Does Own Saturday Night Grocery Shopping.

Estes Park, Colo., June 28.—(AP)—Gov. Alf M. Landon, Republican presidential nominee, went up into the high Rocky mountains today to attend church services at the Estes Park conference of the Young Men's Christian association.

There the Rev. Walter M. Horton, professor of the philosophy of Christianity at Oberlin college, Oberlin, O., recalled today was the one hundredth anniversary of the death of James Madison, and said:

"If Madison could return to the America of today he would at first think the American people had become magicians, but if he stayed a while he would begin to see we no longer are masters of our own destiny.

"Powers Beyond Control."

"The powers of the American people in 100 years have become too great for their moral capacity to control—a fact that Madison would recognize."

He added that Madison would see in the America of today a "necessity to return to a commonplace political system."

Gov. Landon was accompanied by Mrs. Landon, his mother-in-law, Mrs. Samuel E. Cobb, and his 19 year old daughter Peggy Anne.

Buys His Own Groceries.

The Kansas governor spent a quiet day at his vacation ranch in the shadow of the Rockies, reading and resting. There were no visitors.

The governor dined on lamb chops, string beans, and raspberries, which he purchased himself at the village grocery on Saturday.

An incident of the governor's vacation that brought smiles today concerned Matilda and Maggie, Negro servants brought by the Landons from Topeka. The servants sleep with windows and doors of their room locked—and not because of the chill mountain air.

The ranch foreman told them that recently a "big black bear came down from the mountains to the ranch—and got away."

CARNIVAL WORKER DIES.

Fred Klann, 40 years old, 6354 Maryland avenue, an employé in a street carnival, died suddenly yesterday while he was being taken to the County hospital.

LINDBLOM GRAD AND ATHLETE IS DROWNED IN SAG

Edward Topolski, 16 years old, 5309 South Marshfield avenue, Lindblom High school athlete who was graduated this month, was drowned yesterday afternoon in the Sag canal near 123d street and Ridgeland avenue.

Forty young people, members of a party with whom Topolski had gone to a picnic ground, saw him start to swim across the canal, then sink, apparently because of cramps. His brother, Chester Topolski, 15 years old, and Edward Heinrich, 19 years old, swam out to aid the stricken youth, but were too late. The body still was being sought last night.

Topolski was a member of the Lindblom Glee club and was on the track, golf, basketball, and boxing teams.

LEHMAN GUEST OF ROOSEVELT; 'NO STATEMENT'

Governor Has Breakfast at Hyde Park.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., June 28.—[Special.]—Gov. Herbert H. Lehman shied away from a breakfast with President Roosevelt today without committing himself to lending his vote getting ability to the New Deal in New York in the November campaign.

"We had a most enjoyable family breakfast," the governor told reporters waiting at the gates of the Roosevelt Hudson river estate. "We discussed events at Philadelphia at some length. I have absolutely no further statement to make."

Mrs. Lehman Also Invited.

White House aides conceded Gov. Lehman had been brought to Hyde Park for exposure to the Roosevelt personality with a view to effecting a reconsideration of his decision to retire from public life. He was invited to the breakfast and the invitation included Mrs. Lehman, who is reported to have insisted upon his retirement, before Mr. Roosevelt left the White House to deliver his acceptance speech at Philadelphia last night.

The President and Mrs. Roosevelt, together with the entire Roosevelt family excepting the sons, Elliott and Franklin Jr., reached Highland, across the river from Poughkeepsie, N. Y., at 7:30 this morning. The party, which included the governor and Mrs. Lehman, motored to the Hyde Park breakfast immediately.

Visit Lasts Three Hours.

The breakfast drive to enlist Lehman to carry the New Deal banner in New York in order to give Roosevelt a chance to carry his home state was spun over almost three hours. Gov. Lehman left shortly before 11 o'clock to motor with his wife to his summer home at White Plains, N. Y.

Although White House aides were disappointed by the governor's failure to yield to the pressure brought upon him at the convention and by the President, they pointed out that Gov. Lehman has until early fall to reconsider his declaration against seeking reëlection.

From the breakfast table Mr. Roosevelt went to ivy walled St. James Episcopal church, of which he is senior warden, for services. On the way to the church he found waiting to greet him about 100 members of the Roosevelt home town club, who congratulated him upon his renomination.

President Responds Briefly.

The President responded briefly to his meager strength in his home town—which has voted Republican consistently. He gave thanks for their interest in his candidacy and told the club members he wished they could have been in Philadelphia.

"It literally was the greatest scene of my life," he said.

Following the church service the President visited with his mother who came to Philadelphia to hear his acceptance speech despite a recent hip injury. His presence here was occasioned by a desire to visit with his mother as much as to rest after his Philadelphia address.

During the afternoon Mr. Roosevelt worked upon his campaign plans for the coming months of political warfare. Those close to the President predicted his campaign will follow the one he waged in 1932.

1932 Formula Followed.

The prediction was based upon the drawing out of the Democratic convention at Philadelphia. It was said that the convention would have closed Thursday had not Mr. Roosevelt desired to deliver his acceptance speech on Saturday as he did in Chicago in 1932. The formula of the 1932 convention was followed in the selection of Senator Barkley as keynoter, Senator Robinson as temporary chairman, and Judge John E. Mack as nominator.

Aides of the President pointed out that while Mr. Roosevelt is a man of learning he belongs to the knock on wood school of Americans. In following his pet superstitions, they said, it is not unlikely that the President will repeat his 1932 campaign tour.

Former Tour Recalled.

This tour brought him to Chicago in the height of the 1932 campaign. It also took him to Topeka, Kas., the home town of the opponent, Gov. Alf M. Landon, Denver, Salt Lake, Seattle, Portland, Ore.; San Francisco, Los Angeles, Detroit, Boston, Atlanta, Baltimore, New York, Pittsburgh, Indianapolis, St. Louis, and other politically strategic points of the country.

LANDON DEFEATS ROOSEVELT 3 TO 2 IN POLL ON TRAIN

Congressman B. W. Gearhart [Rep., Cal.] visited the Republican national committee's headquarters in the Palmer house yesterday and said that during his trip here from Washington on the Capitol Limited of the B. & O. he met Clifford Scott, president of the Reclamation Levee and Irrigation association of Little Rock, Ark., an ardent Democrat.

"You've got a good candidate in Landon, but Roosevelt will win," Mr. Scott told Gearhart. "See these little cards? I've been taking my own private straw votes. As I go about, I get people to mark their choice for President and hand the card back to me. Roosevelt will win in November."

"Let's take a vote right here on the train," Gearhart suggested. "I'll help you pass out the cards."

Every passenger on the train was given one of the ballots. When they were counted Mr. Scott registered distinct surprise. The score was: Landon, 54; Roosevelt, 36; Lemke, 1; Thomas, 2.

"And the Landon total is growing daily," said Representative Gearhart.

HOLDUP VICTIMS NAME SLAYERS OF POLICEMAN

Three paroled convicts who have confessed slaying Policeman Jerome McCauley on May 29 were identified by 10 robbery victims at a showup at the detective bureau yesterday. McCauley was fatally wounded while pursuing the bandits in a squad car.

The three ex-convicts are Andrew Bogacki, Frank Korczykowski and Paul Jenkot. They had been paroled from the Pontiac reformatory during the last year. Indictments for murder will be sought against the three before the grand jury today.

Louis Tipescu, said to be a member of the bandit gang, was identified with the others in several holdups. An indictment for robbery will be sought against him.

CLEANSING RAIN ERASES DEBRIS OF CONVENTION

Week of 'Whoopee' Over, Delegates Go Home.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., June 28.—[Special.]—The heavens thundered and the dark clouds poured a cleansing deluge over Philadelphia today as the last weary remnants of the Democratic hosts departed from the scene of their week's greatest whoopee convention.

It certainly has been a great show for the delegates, who had little to do but enjoy themselves in the warm hospitality of the city of brotherly love, with many sisterly smiles thrown in.

Beginning last Sunday partisanship and blue laws were forgotten while the smiling police took care of the wants of the thundering herd. There has been no lack of liquid refreshment until today, when the city reverted to its customary Sabbath puritanism.

Rains Wash Away Débris.

The rains washed away the débris from the hotel battlefields. The broken bottles were swept up into garbage cans, and the delegates counted their bank rolls sadly. It cost the city $200,000 to bring them here, and it is estimated that they left a million dollars in the way of incidental expenditures. Some delegate is going to win a $1,000 prize for the best story written about the city, and there will be plenty of competition here.

The final sessions of the hotel courts convention were off the record. The hotel cleaning squads at the Bellevue Stratford and the Walton were sent out to sweep up the remains of this session, which lasted most of the night. Broken bottles, light bulbs, and various articles of wearing apparel were in the discard.

Motion Made and Seconded.

The chairman of this session leaned out of his window on the 14th floor and called for order at 5 a. m.

"Shut up, you!" [various picturesque and uncomplimentary epithets directed at a blonde with a shrill voice who had one arm and a wavering bottle outlined in a window a few floors below.]

The blonde retaliated in good form and the chairman sought to enforce his order by throwing a glass at the reveling arm. His aim was poor and the glass crashed against the window of another delegate, who began to second the motion for order in impassioned oratory.

The chairman had a bright idea. He unscrewed a light bulb and sent this with surer aim. It exploded against the blonde's bottle, but her voice was still uninjured and she insisted on continuing her nominating speech, which was highly in favor of making Philadelphia the new capital.

Blonde Votes to Adjourn.

An unofficial delegate from Illinois came to the aid of the chairman. He didn't fool with light bulbs, which make a noise like exploding bombs, but which produce little results. He picked up a spittoon from the third floor and hurled it with golf practiced eye. It crashed with a noise like the roof's caving in and carried the motion. The blonde withdrew from the scene and the session was declared ended. Even the baritone on the floor, who had taken to practicing high notes from 2 a. m. on, was silent.

"Pipe down—this convention is over," said the chairman.

And at 7 a. m. it was. This morning the normal world appeared. The streets were quiet, the barrooms closed, the hotel lobbies comparatively deserted. It looked like heaven to some of the delegates.

Democratic donkeys, flags, and posters were removed from the streets and life began to take on a normal aspect.

GEO. H. MOSES TO SEEK G. O. P. NOMINATION FOR SEAT IN SENATE

Concord, N. H., June 28.—[Special.]—Former Senator George H. Moses announced tonight that he will be a candidate in the Sept. 15 Republican primary for a nomination to return to the senate, from which he was retired four years ago.

Senator Henry W. Keyes has announced that he will be a candidate for reëlection and Gov. H. Styles Bridges has announced his candidacy for the Keyes seat.

"The constant acquiescence in the enactment of New Deal legislation which has been given by members of congress from New England who should have opposed it vigorously," Mr. Moses said, "has carried with it a most depressing thought to me. Long ago New England should have raised its voice against a set of policies so fatal to our interests. This voice I think I can raise."

McCARL TO LEAVE U. S. CONTROLER POST TOMORROW

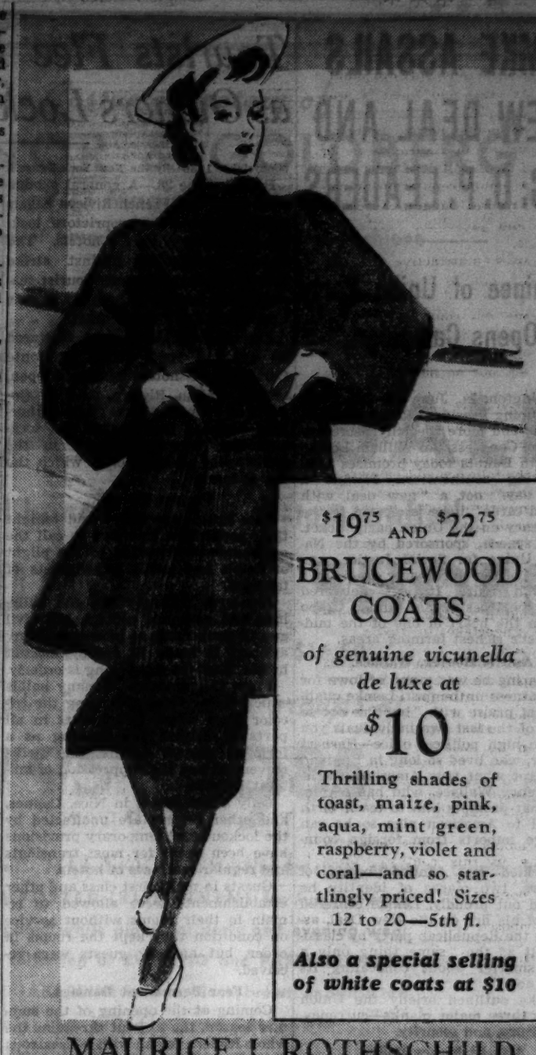

Washington, D. C., June 28.—(AP)—A vacancy in a key post of administration machinery looms 48 hours hence, without indication of who eventually will succeed J. R. McCarl as controller general.

At the close of business Tuesday McCarl will step out of the post he has occupied for 14 years, his term expired. President Roosevelt left the capital yesterday, making no announcement of a successor.

Possible appointees mentioned in capital gossip are Daniel W. Bell, acting director of the budget, and Francis J. Carr of the Tennessee Valley Authority, who worked out several systems of budget control for private firms before entering government service.

OAK PARKER'S FALL FATAL.

Herman W. Schroeder, 78 years old, 1005 South Wesley avenue, Oak Park, died early yesterday in his home of complications resulting from injuries incurred April 18 in a fall in his home.

LEMKE ASSAILS NEW DEAL AND G. O. P. LEADERS

Nominee of Union Party Opens Campaign.

Burlington, Ia., June 28.—[Special.]—Larruping President Roosevelt, Gov. Landon, and more specially Secretary Wallace, Congressman William Lemke of North Dakota today promises 5,000 perspiring southeastern Iowans a "new day," not a "new deal with stacked cards" if he is elected to the presidency on the Union party ticket.

The speech, sponsored by the National Union for Social Justice, was the first of the third party candidate's campaign tour. It was delivered under the trees of sun tanned Crapo park in the heart of one of the middle west's richest farming areas.

Assails Hoover, Wallace.

Declaring he was proud of Iowa for its greatness in the past, Lemke qualified that praise with "but I'm not so proud of the last two individuals you sent to high political office—Herbert Hoover, who lived so long in England he forgot what true Americanism is, and Henry Wallace, who has a complex that prompts him to teach birth control to American pigs so he can arrange imports from foreign countries."

Freckled and tanned, baggy of trousers, two marks of identity he pointed out proudly, Lemke centered most of his fire on the New Deal, assailing the Republican party by classifying it as the "same thing only a little smarter about concealing its faults now."

Lemke outlined briefly the Union party's three major planks—currency, agriculture, and security.

Attacks Money Policy.

Stressing the Father Coughlin term of "International bankers," the candidate declared that the Roosevelt administration "may have led the money changers gently from the temple, but it wasn't long before they were back in the choir.

"Inflation is just a parrot-like term used by idiots who don't know what it means," Lemke said.

"The real inflation is carried on by the Federal Reserve bank with its notes that go to international bankers in return for nothing, and backed by nothing but hot air."

The Union party, he said, through a bill similar to the Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage refinance measure, would create a central bank of the United States to control all currency and retire all of the tax exempt interest bearing bonds now in circulation.

Calls Money Yardstick.

"Money," he said, "is nothing more than a yardstick to measure wealth. Henry Wallace didn't know how to use the yardstick on high so he asked you farmers to cut the piggies' throats. Then you wouldn't have any use for the yardstick."

Labeled "the greatest vandal ever produced by the world," Secretary Wallace was charged with having taken a dollar from the pockets of the farmer for every dime he put in through the "triple A."

"The triple A," he added in an aside, was made the "crippled A" by the Supreme court, which was wise enough, he said, to see through the administration's "farcical" schemes to help the international automobile manufacturers and bankers by boosting foreign imports in an attempt to save their foreign investments.

"The only overproduction we are suffering from," he declared, "is an overproduction of ignorance in Washington. We no longer have representative government. We have laws written by a brainless trust and steamrollered through a bunch of representatives of the people,' who don't know as much about the issues as do the page boys in congress."

Quoting the Roosevelt statement that "even presidents make mistakes sometimes," Lemke wondered if the biggest mistakes hadn't been made by the voters on election day.

"But they had you going and coming," he said. "Both parties were and are the same. Now I'm giving you a choice. And I'd like nothing better than to help you make that choice by appearing in a public debate against both Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Landon, if they can find time to get away from their fishing trips and horseback rides."

Relief Program "Farce."

Of relief he said that the administration program was a "monumental farce," and that in spite of the tremendous pay roll, the election would "not be won by the dole."

The candidate was introduced by Dr. J. F. Walsh, a chiropractor, president of district one of the National Union for Social Justice. He was preceded by the Rev. C. E. Riddington, local Social Justice leader, who belittled Landon's "rubber platform" and declared that the old parties of Jefferson and Lincoln are "dead and should be buried."

Tourists Flee French Riviera as Owners Lock Up 750 Hotels

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, June 28.—A general exodus from the whole French Riviera began today following the proprietors' lockout of employés at 750 hotels. The owners' retaliation against strike threats upset the summer tourist season, which usually is heaviest at this time along the "azure coast."

Foreign tourists tonight scattered by rail and road, going to Monte Carlo, where hotels remained open, to the Italian Riviera, and to the north of France. Monte Carlo authorities declared that strikes and lockouts are "unconstitutional" in the principality of Monaco, in which the city is located.

Protest Taxation.

Nice hotel proprietors said tonight their action was intended to call the government's attention to the plight of hotels and obtain adjustments of taxation.

Employés willingly left the buildings and stationed pickets, but civil guards were ready to intervene if any attempt is made to occupy lockout hotels. Thus far everything is orderly.

From the windows of many hotels which closed today are flying the tricolor flags which nationalists in all parts of France are showing as a form of protest against the strike movement and the suppression of militant leagues.

Only a few hotels in Nice, Cannes, and other resorts are unaffected by the lockout, and temporary provisions have been made for most transients and regular residents of hotels.

Guests in many first class and other establishments were allowed to remain in their rooms without service on condition they kept the rooms in order, but no new guests were received.

Fear Permanent Damage.

Coming at the opening of the summer season, the lockout threatens the whole Riviera region with a disastrous situation, as visitors driven off now will scarcely risk returning for fear of renewed difficulties later.

The lockout decision was taken by Cannes hotel proprietors and followed by those at Nice, Antibes, Monton, and other resorts who joined in sympathy.

A dispatch from Cannes tonight states that by noon guests had been removed from hotels of all classes there except four left open by mutual agreement between the proprietors and striking employés. The four hotels remaining open will accommodate travelers solely for one night at a price decided upon between the hotel keepers and employés. This precaution was taken so as to reduce the inconvenience occasioned tourists who would otherwise be left on the streets.

Hardship to Residents.

In many cases closure caused hardship to aged clients who have occupied the same hotel rooms for many years and now have been forced to move.

Tonight it appeared likely the lockout movement will spread to other parts of France. Many Paris hotels, including some of the largest, had been previously forced to close because of the depression and others have been doing business with greatly reduced staffs for many months.

Asylum Guards Strike.

NICE, France, June 28.—(AP)—The 58 guards of the municipal insane asylum struck today, leaving no way of stopping inmates if they sought to escape. The prefect of police called an emergency conference and indicated he might summon troops to keep order.

Government representatives today attempted to arbitrate the three most serious remaining strikes—bookies in Paris, naval shipyard workers at St. Nazaire, and iron and steel workers in the Lorraine region. Pari-mutuel offices in Paris were closed for the second day, but the strike did not interfere with the Grand Prix. Bets were accepted at the course and the provincial betting service was normal.

Some 30,000 workers in Lorraine and 10,000 at St. Nazaire continued their "folded arms" occupation. Several rightists and leftists were wounded in clashes at Toulouse. Three were injured and 10 arrested in a similar incident at Tours. Paris police arrested 20 nationalists in a crowd of 200 which sought to parade, crying "France for the French!"

EXPECT LEAGUE TO PICK HUDSON OF HARVARD AS WORLD COURT JUDGE

GENEVA, June 28.—(AP)—The league of nations was expected today to elect Dr. Manley O. Hudson, American writer and legal expert, to the permanent court of international justice.

Hudson is professor of international law in Harvard law school. He was born 50 years ago in Missouri and is widely known through his writings and lectures and his various public positions.

Hudson, if he is elected by the league assembly and council, will fill the vacancy in the court caused by the resignation of Frank B. Kellogg, former secretary of state of the United States. The United States, although not a member of the league, always has had a judge on the world court bench. The first was John Bassett Moore, the second was Charles Evans Hughes, now chief justice of the Supreme court, and the third was Kellogg.

The world court, as now constituted, has 15 judges.

GERMANY BACKS DANZIG NAZIS IN FIGHT ON LEAGUE

Instructs Press to Open "Freedom" Campaign.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 28.—The German press received instructions today to be prepared for a big general campaign against the league of nations in general and Sean Lester, Irish high commissioner of the league of nations in Danzig, in particular in the course of the next week.

"It is time we compelled the league of nations to comply with the wishes of the Nazi element in Danzig," a Nazi spokesman said.

Assert Poland Willing.

It is assumed that Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler, who intended to make a flying visit to Heidelberg university on the occasion of its 550th anniversary celebration, was detained all day by conferences about the Danzig situation. The Nazi leaders are demanding that the high commissioner overrule anti-Nazi opposition.

The Nazis assert that Col. Josef Beck, the Polish foreign minister, when in Berlin recently, indicated that Poland would not object to abolition of the league of nations' government of Danzig and the introduction of a completely Nazi government there, provided the Germans guaranteed "to help Poland obtain customs collections on her eastern frontier at a later period."

Germany is waiting to observe the outcome of conferences in Geneva before taking drastic steps in Danzig, where Nazi representatives are bitterly attacking the high commissioner appointed by the league.

Professors Disappointed.

In Heidelberg Reichsfuehrer Hitler's failure to appear before 7 p. m. caused great disappointment. Foreign and German professors who had looked forward to meeting him spent much of their time trying to ascertain which of them would be granted honorary degrees of doctor during the anniversary ceremonies of Heidelberg university, but this was kept secret.

Heidelberg started the day with a memorial service to war dead, in which Dr. Schmitthenner, professor of military science, extoled the glories of peace, and expressed confidence that the war dead had found a reward in the Valhalla of the old Germanic heroes.

SUFFRAGETTES STEAL SHOW FROM HORSES AT FRENCH RACETRACK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 28.—Suffragettes caused an uproar this afternoon among a crowd of 300,000 persons assembled at Longchamp race course for the Grand Prix, France's greatest turf classic, by demonstrating for votes for French women.

The demonstration was neatly timed, coming just after the horses had done their preliminary gallop past the stands before the big race when the whole crowd was waiting tensely for the start. Suddenly a dozen suffragettes jumped over the fence to the track and paraded past the presidential box where President Albert Lebrun was sitting. They waved posters saying: "French women want votes."

The crowd was momentarily stunned, then broke into a pandemonium of jeers: "Go back to darning socks," "Stay at home," "Care for your children," "Back to the kitchen," and "Beat them up," spectators cried. There was not a single note of sympathy. A squad of police handled the suffragettes roughly, pushing them off the track. The crowd recovered its good humor, as the favorite horse, Mieuxce, won, and the Aga Khan's Sind, another favorite, was second.

Il Duce Hurries to Summer Home; Rumor Daughter Ill

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

ROME, June 28.—Premier Mussolini's sudden departure yesterday for Riccione, where his family is spending the summer, caused insistent rumors in Rome that his youngest daughter, Anna Maria, is seriously ill. She is variously reported suffering from infantile paralysis and meningitis. It has been impossible to obtain confirmation of Anna Maria's illness because Mussolini hates any publicity about his personal affairs. News about his family is strictly taboo with the Italian press.

GERMAN PILOT KEEPS GLIDER IN AIR 9½ HOURS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 28.—A new gliding record was set today when Alfred Helm, pilot, remained in the air above Berlin for nine and a half hours. Germans point out that this thermic flight was over flat territory where the glider is unable to use the upward currents of air which occur in hilly regions.

Helm's glider was carried to a height of 1,500 feet by an airplane and then he cut the connection and succeeded in soaring to a height of 7,500 feet.

Helm is a regular pilot for Deutsche Lufthansa, Germany's subsidized air line, but he and his colleagues use their spare time to study and perfect gliding. Germans hold that gliding enables flyers to discover more about atmospheric conditions than does flying with motors.

HANGS SELF IN BRIDEWELL.

Frank Cichocki, 30 years old, 2119 West Grand avenue, hanged himself yesterday in the Bridewell where he was serving a year's sentence on a charge of destroying property.

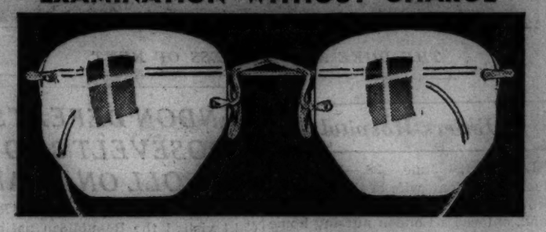

POLICE TO QUIZ GEM SPY TODAY IN 2 ROBBERIES

Police today will try to question Meyer Bogue, 50 years old, former convict and police informer, who was found unconscious Saturday from sleeping tablets in his room at 2026 North Clark street, as to whether he knows anything of two jewel robberies, staged last Thursday and Friday, in which the loot totaled $135,000.

Bogue, who confessed recently he had engineered a fake jewel robbery so as to hold his job as an investigator for the Chicago Jewelry association, was semi-conscious yesterday at the Bridewell hospital and could not be questioned.

Police were checking finger prints found on an abandoned stolen automobile, used in one of the holdups, which was set afire late Saturday night in a vacant lot at Luna and Elston avenues. Police were told a man and woman, after setting fire to the car, had fled in another one.

TACKLE RELIEF REVENUE CRISIS HERE TOMORROW

Council Committee Hunts for $1,400,000.

With the city facing a large shortage in relief funds for July, the finance committee of the city council will confront one of the gravest of Chicago's recurring relief crises when the group meets tomorrow to discuss raising funds for this purpose. On Wednesday the city and all townships throughout the state must take over the relief burden from the Illinois Emergency Relief commission.

Chicago's relief needs for July are estimated at $2,847,986. The city expects to get about $1,002,000 from sales tax funds on the basis of $2,000,000 which will be allocated to all the counties in the state. If the city council adopts the proposed 30 cent levy on each $100 of assessed property valuation, sale of tax anticipation warants against the levy would bring in about $400,000 a month. These revenues would leave a shortage of $1,445,986 in the estimated relief needs of the city for july.

Tax Alternatives Ruled Out.

A law passed at a special session of the legislature provides that after Sept. 30 no township in the state will be eligible for a share of the sales tax funds unless it obtains supplementary funds by means of the local property levies.

Ald. James Bowler [25th], president pro tem of the city council, said yesterday that he believed ultimately the aldermen would have to pass the 30 cent levy although they are opposed to putting this additional burden on property owners.

"We do not want to raise city taxes," Bowler said, "and will do so only as a last resort. I won't vote for the measure until I see there is no other way out."

Plan to See Horner Again.

Bowler and other city and county officials were trying yesterday to arrange another conference with Gov. Horner tomorrow to urge on him the need for further relief legislation. Efforts to hold such a conference at the Democratic national convention at Philadelphia were unsuccessful.

NEW LIQUOR BAN PUTS VOYAGERS 'UP AGAINST IT'

New York, June 28. — (AP)—More than 100 southern cruise passengers returned today to find Uncle Sam had reduced the free import liquor limit in their absence. As a result there was much scurrying around for money to pay the extra levies, while many bottles were put in escrow.

The passengers, arriving on the Peten, had bought their liquor under the old rule permitting as much as $100 worth to come in duty free. Regulations imposed yesterday put the limit at one "wine gallon."

Inspectors refused to take checks.

About 800 passengers returning on the Carinthia, who received wireless notice of the new rate Saturday night, were reported by ship's officers to have opened up their stores and treated everybody to free drinks, down to the last "wine gallon."

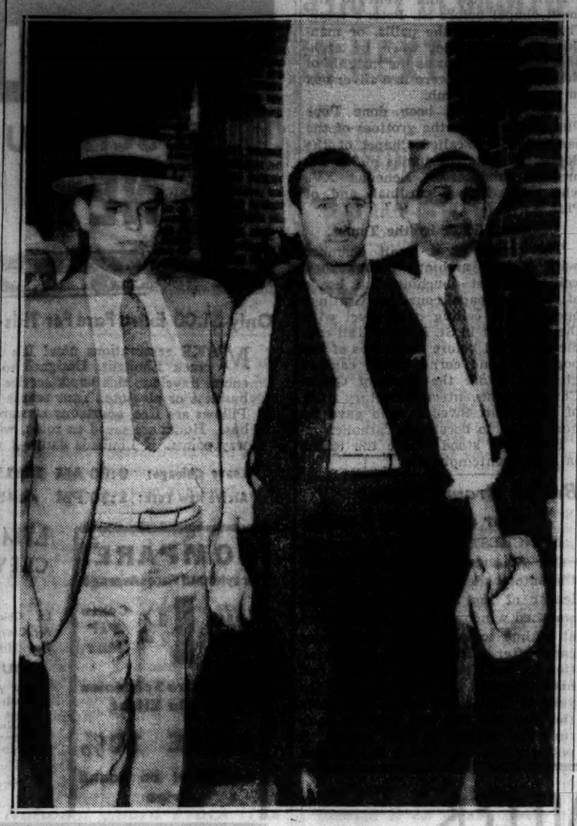

Stones Fraternity House; Killed by Police in Chase

Harry Kienear, 45 years old, colored, a cook at the Armour institute chapter of the Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity house, 3236 South Michigan avenue, was shot and killed early yesterday during a chase with Park Policemen George Gierloff and James Gorman. The policemen were called to the house after Kienear threw a number of bricks through the windows during a quarrel with the watchman there. The policemen fired into the ground when Kienear attempted to run away and one of the bullets ricocheted off the sidewalk and struck him.

WOMAN INJURED IN FALL; DIES.

Miss Hannah Krahenbuhl, 68 years old, 1814 Howe street, died in the County hospital yesterday of injuries suffered May 28 when she fell from a window as she was adjusting a screen in the home of Arthur W. Mayo at 5203 Kenmore avenue.

CHILDREN'S DAY TO OPEN STORES' VACATION SHOW

Exhibit Outing Supplies Today on State St.

Boy Scouts will help mounted police handle loop trafic today as a symbol of youth's importance on the first of five busy days on State street. Today is Children's day, the opening of the State Street Council's Vacation exposition, and will be devoted to young people's vacation needs.

Henry G. Hart, president of the council, said the shopping center will feature everything that could possibly add to children's vacation happiness.

Tents of Every Variety.

New outlays of tents illustrate how far the manufacturers have gone in catering to the romantic summertime urges of the family juniors. Primitive tepees splashed with brilliant figures are available if Junior wants to be an Indian. If he wants to be a Bedouin, there is the Arab type of canvas home. Beach toys range from complete sand modeling outfits to rubber animals that bob over the waves, and treated canvas pens that keep the very young in shallow water.

The Scouts will be escorted to their trafic posts this morning by mounted police following an assembly for their assignments at State and Madison streets.

Travel Day Tomorrow.

Tomorrow will be Travel day, featuring travel clothing and accessories. Wednesday will be devoted to sports and recreation. Thursday will be observed as Motorists' day and Friday as Chicago Vacation day, with special programs emphasizing Chicago's importance as a vacation resort.

Miss Martha Purnell, chosen by the Chicago Federated Advertising club to carry a vacation invitation from Chicago to the Texas centennial, will make radio talks and shopping tours during the exposition as the city's "summer queen."

AGE PENSION DUE, LOUIS AND MARY SEE BETTER DAYS

A Grateful Couple Await Their First Checks.

BY KAY HALL.

Louis Weil and his wife, Mary, both 67 years old, live in a bedroom on the second floor back at 677 North Dearborn street. They have a canary in a golden cage, bright curtains, potted plants at the windows, clean newspapers over bad spots in the wallpaper, and everything in spotless order. They cook on a gas plate and they are still in love after forty-one years of marriage.

They will be among the first Chicago old people to receive state payments of the old age pension this week. The checks are ready for mailing in Springfield.

"We'll Be Lots Better Off."

"We are going to be lots better off," said Mrs. Weil, a tiny woman who keeps her gray hair nicely crimped. "We have been on relief. My husband is a good man and we have been doing our best all these years. Five or six years ago he lost his job as an apartment manager. We have lived in Chicago twenty-six years."

Mr. and Mrs. Weil will get the maximum state payment of $15 a month each and they expect to get the full pension of $30 each as soon as the federal apportionment is available.

Mrs. Annie Harrison, 69 years old, another on the first pension list, lives with her daughter and son-in-law at 1240 North Dearborn street. Her son-in-law is a WPA worker who was formerly an electric welder. Mrs. Harrison will get $11 from the state.

Resident Since 1890.

"It will be a great help for mother to have her own money," explained the daughter. "She feels she is a burden to us no matter how much we try to convince her she isn't." Mrs. Harrison has lived in Chicago since 1890 and is the widow of an insurance man.

Austin B. Hayes, who is almost 69 years old, lives with his daughter, Ethel, at 736 Barry avenue, in an attractive apartment. She earns $18 a week and has supported him for several years since he lost his job as a mechanical engineer in Milwaukee. He will get $11 a month from the state.

"I am grateful," Mr. Hayes said, "though the sum is small. The Townsend plan is foolish, however, because it promises too much."

Vacation for Daughter Now.

For seven years Miss Harriet Lesick, an auditing clerk in a loop department store, has supported her father, John, 73 years old, and her mother, Valeska, 67 years old. The parents hope that their joint pension of $15 a month each will enable their daughter to have a short vacation this year. They live at 2248 North Halsted street.

"We must get the rent paid first, though," said the daughter. "I was sick for fourteen weeks last fall and it put us badly in debt."

SCAN CIRCUIT CLERK'S RECORDS TODAY FOR FRAUDS IN HIS OFFICE

Records in the office of John E. Conroy, clerk of the Circuit court, will be examined today by state's attorney's investigators in a search for frauds upon the clerk similar to the $9,451 swindle disclosed last Thursday.

Warants charging conspiracy to defraud the Circuit court clerk will be sworn out in the Felony court this morning against Nick Juffra, one time head of Al Capone's beer delivery service, and Ernest Eckels, a saloonkeeper, in connection with the $9,451 swindle, according to Assistant State's Attorney Robert Wright. Juffra and Eckels are in custody, and a third man, who used the name of Carl S. Williams, the same as that of the victim of the swindle, is being sought.

The $9,451 was awarded to the real Carl S. Williams, who lives at 2233 Orrington avenue, Evanston, by the Illinois Supreme court. The sum represented insurance on the life of his son, Weir Williams, who committed suicide a year ago. A previous order in the Circuit court had given the money to Weir Williams' divorced wife, Mrs. Beryl Williams, but this ruling was upset by the higher courts. When the senior Williams went to claim the money he learned the swindlers obtained it from the court clerk last Jan. 7.

Report 54 Arabs Killed in Week, Fighting British

JERUSALEM, June 28.—(AP)—The Hebrew daily, Doar Hayom, said today fifty-four Arabs were killed and ninety-eight wounded in battles last week with government troops at Nablus, Tulkarem and Lubban. Police using machine guns last night beat off a group attacking the Hadarga settlement near Petach Tikvah. The British 8th Hussars, a mechanized regiment, arrived here from Cairo to reinforce the garrison.

TOYS

by CALEB

THE toy committee of the Russian People's Commissariat of Education approves as an automobile, four wheels attached to a flat board for a chassis—a box for a body—and a plain block of wood for a motor. Mr. Holoday, a Russian psychologist, condemns such attempts to pass off crude representations on intelligent children. The toy industry is producing Red Soldiers and baby dolls, he says, that resemble pollywogs.

In our country, toy manufacturers must succeed—by getting not the approval of a political committee for their products, but the child's approval. As a consequence, our American toy industry is one of the most foresighted and progressive in the national picture.

Does a Shirley Temple appear on the screen and attract favorable attention? A dozen manufacturers are in a scramble to present Shirley Temple dolls to the nation's children—dolls with real hair and perfect Shirley Temple features. Even the little star's dresses are copied exquisitely.

Cartoon strips attain popularity—and Dick Tracy watches and Orphan Annie dolls appear. A radio program appeals to young listeners and a Rocket Car Toy exuding fire from its tail sweeps across the toy horizon.

Before the Queen Mary was fitted and sailing the high seas, American manufacturers had perfect scale model sets available for boys and their fathers to assemble and finish. It was so with the Normandie.

For many weeks before a new line of cars is announced to the public, a privileged manufacturer of toy automobiles will wait impatiently for the Ford Motor Company to release confidential drawings which will enable him to prepare perfect models six or seven inches long. When the new car first appears on the streets, the toy manufacturers want to have accurate miniatures on toy counters. It's a long cry from shapeless wood makeshifts to skilfully modeled miniatures.

As we walk through our toy department we are impelled to wonder what a country would be like where such wonderful things could not be made for children.

It doesn't take a seventh son of a seventh son to predict that children will ultimately win, even in Russia. Although they were little more than impersonal communal property to the bigwigs of the Soviet Union not so many years ago—more recently the Russian high lords have been seen in movies gently patting children's cheeks.

The family relationship took ages to evolve. The mores of the race are not to be submerged and thwarted in a decade or two. Some day the little Russians will have toys as carefully and skilfully made as a Russian war plane. Doubtless they will be played with—those toys—in the re-established family circle.

JAP'S ADVICE TO 'MAKE WAR NOW' ANGERS RUSSIA

Reds See New Support for Army's Program.

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

MOSCOW, June 28.—Surprise and indignation was caused here by the threatening challenge of the soviet union issued a week ago in Harbin by M. Makiyama, president of the Japanese delegation on the way to the international interparliamentary meeting at Budapest.

Sees War Inevitable.

In an interview published in the anti-soviet Japanese newspaper, Harbin Simbun, on June 21, Makiyama is reported to have said:

"In the ministry of foreign affairs at Tokio I received information about the Manchukuo-soviet and Japanese soviet relations which gave me the impression they are in critical condition. The present situation has reached a point where the soviet ought either to evacuate its armed forces from the far east or declare war on Japan. At the coming international session, the far eastern question will occupy central place and I am ready to declare openly that everything depends on the U. S. S. R. If the U. S. S. R. continues to carry on its provocative policy, war is inevitable."

Reveals Truth.

The communist newspaper Pravda comments as follows:

"The Makiyama interview has not been denied by the Tokio authorities or the speaker himself. It must therefore be reckoned that on this occasion Harbin Simbun, which is famous for its anti-soviet fakes, is telling the truth. Every one knows Japanese ruling circles are directing a frankly aggressive policy—Japan already has seized Manchuria and now is preparing to seize one Chinese province after another and the Japanese government has refused to sign a non-aggression pact with the U. S. S. R. But Makiyama upon coming to Harbin, which is the center of the Japanese militarist aggressors, has decided to startle the world with a terrific discovery. On the basis of material supplied by the Japanese foreign office he accuses the U. S. S. R. of a provocative policy.

"That is to say, he is trying to represent the defensive measures of the soviet in the far east as a threat attack upon 'pacifist' Japan and therefore roughly demands the withdrawal of soviet troops. Such a demand is not only ridiculous, it is a record of shameless insolence. Here indeed is direct provocation which is all the more striking because accompanied by an overt threat of war."

Two Jap Soldiers Killed.

HARBIN, Manchukuo, June 28.—[Havas.]—Two Japanese army officers were killed and two more wounded in a new soviet-Manchukuo border incident near Pogranitchnaya, it was disclosed here today. The shooting occurred yesterday morning about 50 miles south of the Japanese barracks in this area, according to dispatches received here. Details were unavailable, but the reports said the firing was done by "unidentified persons," and did not mention whether there had been a direct clash on the frontier.

[The Japanese government soon will propose to Moscow a soviet-Japanese-Manchukuo committee to investigate and fix responsibility in the bloody border incidents which have been recurring frequently in the frontier area, it was reported from Tokio yesterday. The committee would be based on the April soviet-Japanese accord on frontier claims, and would contain an equal number of soviet, Japanese, and Manchukuo experts.]

China and Japan on Brink of War, U. S. Observers Say

SHANGHAI, June 28.—(AP)—American observers said tonight they feared an open Chinese-Japanese rupture which might break into war as the result of growing tension between the two nations over recent occurrences in North and South China. One of the sorest points is the smuggling scandal in North China—for which the Chinese have blamed Japan—which was climaxed when Chinese customs cruisers fired on two Japanese boats.

"Never was the situation in China more explosive or potent of evil possibilities," said an American military observer. "Chinese-Japanese relations are so tense that a serious incident might possibly cause Japan to declare hostilities.

"If war can be averted, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek [dictator of the central Chinese government in Nanking] will be as great a statesman and peacemaker as he is a politician and soldier."

Officer Detained.

Besides the smuggling incident, tension was further aggravated when Japanese military officers at Fengtai, near Peiping, declared Chinese had imprisoned a Japanese officer who was investigating the reported Japanese seizure of four Chinese army horses. Japanese officers declared his alleged detention was an insult to Japan for which Japan demands an apology.

Other events which, American observers said, have further embittered relations between the two countries are Japan's continued augmentation of troops in North China, her apparent attempts to dismember China by detaching the provinces of Hopei, Chahar, Suiyuan, Shantung, Fukien, and others from China, and Japan's repeated encroachments in Inner Mongolia.

Army Budget 325 Millions.

China plans to earmark a half billion dollars for military equipment and education in its budget estimates for the fiscal year beginning July 1. The national government has announced its intention of expending more than 325 millions for actual military equipment and about 50 millions for education.

The educational budget could be more correctly included as militaristic, however. Many of the millions of subsidies will go to regional war lords and bosses as insurance against open revolt or failure to coöperate with the central authorities, while military training and development of "fighting consciousness" have become an important part of China's educational program.

Verify Jap Smuggling.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, June 28.—Sir Frederick Maze, a British subject who holds the high post of inspector general of the Chinese customs administration, declared today that both the Japanese cargo vessels captured by a Chinese anti-smuggling cruiser last week carried illicit cargoes. They consisted of sugar and artificial silk, he said. He asserted Chinese customs ships were within their rights in firing on the smuggling ships.

Maze also declared both boats resisted when Signaled to stop, and in the case of one vessel thirty rounds were fired by the customs cruiser before the ship hove to. When the ship, with smugglers wounded in the shooting, was brought to shore armed Japanese consular police and gendarmes raided the Tangku customs house and assaulted officials, Maze said.

Maze stated a Japanese flag accidentally dropped into the sea during one of the encounters and said an apology was tendered to Japan. The Japanese have sent destroyers both to Tientsin and Tsingtao, and filed protests at both places as well as at Nanking.

Yank Buys World's Fair 'Man' in Germany for Tour

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 28.—Dr. Gustav Oberlaender of Reading, Pa., has purchased the "transparent man," which was shown at A Century of Progress in Chicago and the main exhibits of the Dresden health exhibition, it was learned today. He will send them on a tour of America and Canada with doctors who will lecture on the human constitution. Oberlaender is spending nearly a million dollars for the venture, it is said. He holds that it is important for people of the present generation to learn all that is known about their bodies.

Moscow to Raze Arch Built After Napoleon's Retreat

MOSCOW, June 28.—(AP)—The arch of triumph, built by Alexander I. to celebrate Napoleon's retreat from Moscow, is to be razed to make way for trafic. The arch, more than 100 years old, stands on Gorky street near the White Russian railway station, used by tourist trains.

LABORITES HEAP SCORN ON BRITISH SANCTIONS STAND

LONDON, June 28.—(AP)—Opposition leaders denounced the British government as "afraid of its own shadow" today on the 17th anniversary of the signing of the treaty of Versailles.

Maj. Clement Attlee and Herbert Morrison, Labor party members, addressed a huge pro-sanctionist meeting in Hyde Park, where thousands of Socialists and pacifists massed around six platforms. A resolution was adopted unanimously protesting the imminent lifting of sanctions from Italy and what was termed the British government's evasion of "its obligations for the preservation of peace."

"We are cursed by a government that shivers even if it hears a rumor a foreign dictator has frowned on it," said Morrison.

POPE PIUS PAYS VISIT TO GROTTO UNDER ST. PETER'S

Sees Resting Places of Other Catholic Pontiffs.

VATICAN CITY, June 28.—(AP)—Ageing Pope Pius XI. visited the tombs of his predecessors in the grottoes under St. Peter's tonight and meditated on the place he has chosen for himself. On the eve of the feast day of St. Peter, the pope, now in his 80th year, knelt at the tomb of Peter and prayed.

He thereby followed a custom of more than sixty years. But tonight's visit was deeply significant in view of the pope's age and the belief he has expressed that he may not live long.

Only a small group of ecclesiastics and Swiss and Noble Guards attended the pontiff as he descended from his apartments into St. Peter's by an elevator reserved for himself.

Pope Prays in Silence.

All other persons were escorted from the great basilica and the doors were closed. The edifice was completely illuminated.

Pope Pius walked directly to the altar of the confession, which is directly over the tomb of St. Peter. There he knelt on the damask covered steps. He recited the Rosary and concluded with several minutes of silent prayer.

Then he arose and went to the small chapel before St. Peter's tomb. There he blessed the pallia, or mantles of lamb's wool worn by archbishops and bishops as the insignia of their rank. They were in a silver box in front of the tomb.

When this had been done Pope Pius proceeded to the grottoes of the basilica, the so-called Chapel of the Popes. He saw the tombs of his immediate predecessor, Benedict XV., who made him a cardinal, and of Pius X.

Candles Flicker by the Tombs.

The chapel is a small chamber with a low, arching, whitewashed ceiling almost touching the heads of the taller papal courtiers. Gratings open in the ceiling on a level with the pavement in St. Peter's. Tall candles flickered before the tombs of the popes. In one corner other candles gleamed before the tomb of Queen Christiana, seventeenth century ruler of Protestant Sweden, who gave up her throne to become a Catholic.

British Crowd Stones Car of Fascist Leader

DOCTOR'S BABY DIES IN TRAGIC MOTOR CRASH

Father, Himself Injured, Operates in Vain.

The start of a happy vacation ended in tragedy last night for the family of Dr. Harry Cotell, 3701 West Division street, when his daughter, Charlotte, 14 months old, died at St. Therese's hospital, Waukegan, after he operated in vain to save her life from automobile injuries.

With his wife, Mrs. Shirley Cotell, and their baby and another daughter, Marian, 7 years old, Dr. Cotell was driving north in Waukegan road to their summer cottage near Kenosha.

Avoids Collision, Turns Over.

Half a mile north of the Waukegan airport Dr. Cotell met an oncoming car as he was trying to pass an empty school bus and in a desperate effort to avoid a crash he turned off the road. His car plunged into a ditch, turning over three times.

Two deputy sheriffs of Lake county, driving a few yards behind Dr. Cotell, saw the accident. They took the family to the hospital where Dr. Cotell, despite his injuries, helped other physicians in their vain efforts to save the baby who died an hour and a half later.

Two Others to Recover.

Dr. Cotell said that his wife and other daughter would recover.

Dr. Cotell is a graduate of the Loyola university school of medicine and is an attending physician at the Chicago Memorial hospital. His office is at 2701 West Division street.

Charlotte Cotell's death and seven others yesterday in the Chicago area brought the number of trafic fatalities this week-end to fourteen. Six of these occurred on Saturday, including two accidents in which a girl and two boys riding bicycles were killed. In Cook county, from Jan. 1 to 4 p. m. yesterday, automobile accidents cost 480 lives. In Chicago during that time 374 were killed and 8,297 injured.

Chicagoland trafic fatalities yesterday included:

Albert Klautsch, 19 years old, 3651 Wabansia avenue, whose fatal injury by fleeing robbers is recounted in another story on page 11.

Alexander Crowley, 17 years old, 7704 South Laflin street, in the Auburn Park hospital of injuries received in the afternoon when he was struck at Loomis and 78th streets by the automobile of Peter Johnson, 65 years old, 5949 South Elizabeth street.

Sylvester Micele, 24 years old, 1408 North Kolin avenue, killed where U. S. route 30 crosses state highway 47 near Elburn in Kane county when two automobiles collided. Nine other persons were hurt.

John Levan, 28 years old, 2040 West North avenue, fatally injured at Des Plaines and Lake streets when his automobile collided with a truck. Levan's passenger, Paul Morecki, 26 years old, 1845 Armitage avenue, incurred a skull fracture.

George Morris, 79 years old, 7540 West 61st place, Argo, in the County hospital of injuries incurred Saturday night when he was struck by an automobile at 61st street and Archer avenue in Summit.

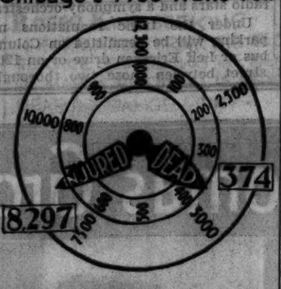

John O'Connor, 30 years old, 1213 Winnemac avenue, an insurance underwriter, in the Edgewater hospital of injuries incurred June 24 when he fell asleep at the wheel of his car and it crashed into a tree at 1644 Foster avenue.

Thomas Fotias, 45 years old, 1045 North California avenue, a waiter, killed when he was struck as he was changing a tire on his own automobile in the Outer drive at 24th street. Edward E. Rawlings, 55 years old, 1755 East 55th street, driver of the other car, said Fotias had stepped into the path of his machine. Rawlings said the tail light on Fotias' car was out.

When Emil Shattacker, 1725 West 24th street, apparently nodded at the wheel near Edinburg, Ind., yesterday, the car hit a bridge abutment. Shattacker was killed and his companion, William Wanek, 7445 Colfax avenue, was injured.

Over 98 per cent of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

Bicycle Rider Knocked Down by Stolen Taxicab

Corbett Blair, 41 years old, 525 West 38th street, was injured last night when a stolen Yellow taxi knocked him down while he was riding a bicycle at 38th street and Normal avenue. Police discovered the cab was stolen a few minutes before from Eugene Simansky at 442 West 37th street. Blair was taken to St. Paul's hospital.

National Guard Truck Hits Pole; 4 Infantrymen Hurt

Peekskill, N. Y., June 28.—[Special.]—The week-end movement of 5,300 New York National Guard members was marred today when four infantrymen of Company G were injured as the motor truck in which they were riding struck a pole. They were returning to their home armory after two weeks of training at Camp Smith.

CCC TO ENROLL 51,871 RECRUITS IN NEXT MONTH

11,789 Discharged in May to Take Private Jobs.

Washington, June 28.—(AP)—Robert Fechner, director of the Civilian Conservation corps, today said 51,871 recruits would be enrolled next month to maintain the CCC at its authorized strength of 350,000.

Reporting that in the 12 months ended May 31 there were 145,383 CCC members discharged to accept private jobs, Fechner renewed his invitation to business men to visit the camps and select young men for employment.

308 Millions Appropriated.

The July 1 to July 15 enrolling period, officials said, is to fill vacancies for the first period in which the CCC operates with a regular appropriation instead of with work relief allotments. The $308,000,000 appropriation bill provides for 325,000 junior members and 25,000 war veterans during the 12 months beginning July 1.

In contrast to dimculties encountered last spring in recruiting 100,000 new members, Fechner said he believed the 43,706 young men between 17 and 28 would be available. In addition, 5,241 war veterans and 2,924 experienced men living near the camps will be enrolled.

11,789 Get Jobs in May.

Fechner said 11,789 CCC members left the camps during May to accept private jobs.

During the last six months of 1935 the CCC authorized strength was 500,000, although enrollment reached a peak of 483,000.

Plans to extend state coöperation with the national park service and the CCC were announced by Fechner and Secretary Ickes today after the President signed into law a bill permitting states to make agreements for the joint development of parks and recreational areas.

2 ARE DROWNED AS SMALL PLANE FALLS INTO SURF

Pilot and Owner Injured in Sea Crash.

Daytona Beach, Fla., June 28.—(AP)—Two persons drowned and a third was injured when a small plane fell into the surf here today. The dead are Al Stanley, 29, band leader of Montgomery, Ala., and Miss Mary Lee Butler, 20, night club employé of Daytona Beach.

They were trapped in the cockpit of the two seater plane and drowned before lifeguards or bathers could reach the wreckage 400 yards off shore.

Strobe Lander, pilot and owner of the plane who was brought ashore with a broken nose and facial cuts, said the plane went into a tailspin.

Cadet Flyer Killed.

Marysville, O., June 28.—(AP)—An army pursuit plane crashed on a farm nine miles southwest of Marysville today, killing its youthful pilot, Flying Cadet Joseph F. Feaganes of Selfridge field, Mich.

John Thiergarten, on whose farm the plane fell, said it was flying low toward the southeast, apparently at full speed, when it suddenly veered into the ground, bounced nearly 500 yards, and then struck again with such force that the motor was torn loose.

Two Die in Rented Plane.

New York, June 28.—(AP)—Two men were killed today in an airplane crash near Massapequa, N. Y. The victims, Joseph Franco, 24, and Anthony Trinkea, 22, both of New York City, were flying in a small airplane rented at Roosevelt field.

Missing Women Flyers Found.

Camas, Wash., June 28.—(AP)—Two Portland women flyers who crashed 15 miles northeast of here yesterday were hiking out of the mountainous area today when found by searchers.

Louis Robinson and an aviator found the women, Mrs. Alyce Pashburg and Irma Westover.

A. C. Cooper, a storekeeper of Grass Valley, Wash., started for Portland with them. He passed through here shortly before 7 p. m.

Police Chief Fred Lee said he was informed one of the women had a sprained back, but did not know which. He saw the women in the car but did not talk with them.

The flyers took off from Vancouver, Wash., yesterday for Spokane, Wash., to participate in air races there.

Plane Salvage Hopeless.

Burlington, Vt., June 28.—(AP)—Manager Harold Pugh of the Burlington airport said today prospects of salvaging the plane that dived into Lake Champlain yesterday, carrying three men and a woman to their deaths were virtually hopeless.

Local officials had identified only two of the victims. They were Frank Sagelebeni Jr., 31, of Brooklyn, N. Y., pilot, and Stephen Kaye, Woodside, Long Island, N. Y.

Thomas Meighan Improves After Operation on Throat

HELP OF PARENTS URGED FOR SAFE AND SANE FOURTH

Parents were urged yesterday by the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness to be especially vigilant this week in keeping torpedoes, cannon crackers, and other dangerous forms of fireworks out of the hands of their children.

The society, according to Miss Audrey M. Hayden, secretary, will conduct its campaign for a "safe and sane" Fourth of July all this week and at the next session of the legislature will seek passage of a state law prohibiting the sale or use of fireworks.

Last year there were 449 July 4th accidents in Illinois, Miss Hayden said, of which 60 involved injuries to the eyes. She said 23 per cent of all eye accidents suffered by children are due to fireworks.

Under a new law sale of fireworks is permitted between June 27 and July 5 in cities or towns which have no ordinances to the contrary. Chicago, Evanston, Oak Park, and many smaller communities of Cook county forbid their sale, but some twons permit it, and as a consequence the explosives are brought into Chicago.

Trafic regulations for the second annual outdoor show and entertainment to be held tomorrow night at the Grant park band shell, 11th street and Columbus drive, were announced yesterday by Otto K. Jelinek, park trafic engineer. The show, sponsored by Mayor Kelly's Keep Chicago Safe committee, will include stage and radio stars and a symphony orchestra.

Under the trafic regulations no parking will be permitted on Columbus or Leif Ericksen drive or on 12th street between those two thoroughfares. The parking space south of Soldiers' field, however, will be available to motorists. Capt. Ed Redd will be in charge of the trafic detail.

Mayor Kelly will explain at the program the mechanical inspection stations for automobiles to be placed in operation in the city Wednesday in accord with the new compulsory automobile inspection law.

How long should a man's legs be?

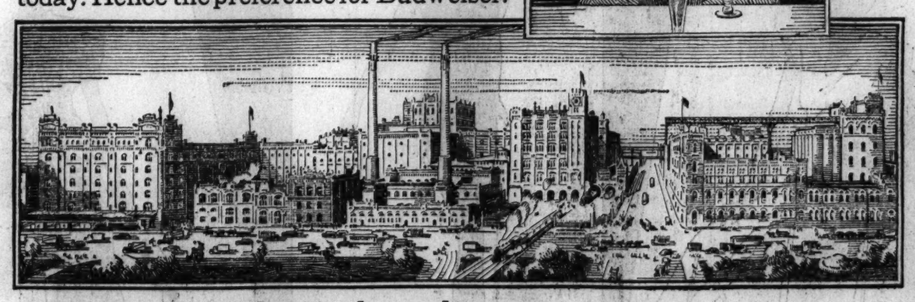

Long enough to reach from his body to the ground, said Lincoln. How big should a brewery be? Big enough to supply the demand, say we. How big should the demand be? . . . That's the public's say-so. Anyway, the public has said so often and so consistently, "Give me a bottle of Budweiser," that we had to build the largest brewery in the world to meet the demand. A hundred and ten buildings covering seventy city blocks! When you're in St. Louis, come and see us. Our guides will show you through. We know you like to buy Budweiser, but you may drink it here—on us

Styles change . . . customs change . . . but good taste never changes. People who know and understand beer always prefer a dry flavor . . . a mild suggestion of tartness. It was true centuries ago. It is true today. Hence the preference for Budweiser.

Come and see Budweiser brewed! Millions of people have visited this huge and efficient institution. Some of its individual departments are larger than most breweries. It can fill, seal and pasteurize 2,799,300 bottles a day.

TABER SETS U. S. DEBT BY JAN. 1ST AT 40 BILLIONS

Sees Treasury Stripped by Farley's Vote Drive.

Washington, D. C., June 28.—(AP)—Accumulated government liabilities of approximately 40 billion dollars by next Jan. 1 were predicted today by Representative John Taber of New York, ranking Republican on the house appropriations committee.

Taber made the forecast in a statement declaring the treasury would be "stripped" by that time "to meet the exorbitant election demands of Gen. Farley" [Postmaster General James A. Farley, Democratic national chairman].

Stating there had been spent by the Roosevelt administration since March 4, 1933, approximately 25 billion dollars, Taber said "it is manifest that the only safety for the people is the retirement of the Roosevelt administration."

Recapitulating the recent congress' allowances out of the treasury, the New Yorker said they totaled upwards of 20 billions—"the largest of any peace-time congress."

Ten Billions in Last Session.

The session just ended, he estimated, appropriated $10,129,710,521, all of which, he said, comprised direct new appropriations except $1,505,957,521 in so-called permanent annually recurring appropriations allowed without hearings, and approximately 375 millions of previously allowed but unexpended funds.

In the first session of the 74th congress, Taber said the over-all total was $10,459,756,227, of which $2,200,101,127 was in the automatically recurring permanent appropriations and nearly 1 billion dollars in reappropriations.

Explains Difference in Sums.

"The reason the appropriations for the second session are lower than those for the first session is that there was about three billion dollars more appropriated last year for so-called relief," he explained.

"Of course, last year's appropriations were intended to cover a twelve-month period, while this year it is openly stated that the wasteful and inefficient relief for which we have appropriated funds in the second session will all be expended by Jan. 1.

"If we were to continue fraudulent relief appropriations on the same basis that they have been carried on under the Roosevelt administration after Jan. 1, next, for the rest of the fiscal year 1937, a deficiency bill of 2 billion 500 million dollars for that purpose would be in order by January 1, because the treasury will be stripped by that time to meet the exorbitant election demands of Gen. Farley."

SMITTY—A STRANGE STORY.

CALLS FARMERS OF 25 STATES TO HOLIDAY SESSION

'United Front' Is Goal of Leaders.

St. Paul, Minn., June 28.—(AP)—A call for formation of a "united front" among farmers went out tonight to agricultural groups of 25 states.

It came from headquarters of the National Farmers Holiday association, storm center of the violent rural "strikes" that paralyzed movement of farm products in the midwest in 1932 and 1933.

Groundwork for the union—intended to include all farm groups which have as their chief objective 'production for use'—will be laid at the holiday association's annual convention starting here Tuesday, the association announced.

Foreclosures on farm homes, the cause of the "strikes" of a few years ago, will be another prime topic for action at the meeting, John Bosch of Minneapolis, president of the association, said.

This question "is just as pressing now as ever," he asserted, adding:

"The number of farm foreclosures is increasing instead of decreasing. During 1933 and 1934, there was no advantage in foreclosing, as there was no farm income.

"In 1935 there was a crop, and every creditor tried to collect everything the crop produced. There has been a gentle rise in the value of farm lands, and creditors are seeking the opportunity to cash in."

The drouth situation also was promised a full share of attention. Bosch said "our object is to get the federal and state governments to begin immediately the buying of feed supplies to furnish farmers."

Rush Machinery to Start Job Insurance Plan in Wisconsin

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., June 28.—[Special.]—A huge new piece of machinery to administer Wisconsin's unemployment insurance act, first of its kind in the nation, is being rushed to completion, preparatory to begin functioning on Wednesday, July 1.

On that date some 37,000 industrial employers in the state will become responsible for the employment of 400,000 workers, to whom will go benefit payments in the event of part and complete layoffs. Because Wisconsin already had an unemployment compensation act when the federal government went into the field of social legislation last year, payments in this state will become a reality fully 18 months ahead of any other state in the nation.

Law Passed in 1932.

The Wisconsin law was passed during the special 1932 legislative session. As it stands today, after numerous emandments and administrative revisions, the minimum benefits cannot go below $5 a week and the maximum above $15 a week for thirteen weeks. Liability of the employer, however, extends over a period of 26 weeks in one year.

Thus, if a worker is laid off and promptly finds another job, he is not eligible for benefits from his first employer. But if his second job does not last long his first employer is still liable if 26 weeks have not elapsed.

Since the law's primary motive is to guard against the hazards of job insecurity and fluctuations in unemployment, its administration includes an elaborate system of job finding under which there will be "waiting periods" before benefits become payable.

$11,000,000 Accumulated.

Benefits under Wisconsin's law have been accumulating since July 1, 1935. When it goes into effect Wednesday it will be backed by nearly 11 million dollars in cash.

Since the federal social security act is designed merely to encourage, or force, as many states as possible to adopt their own plans, subject to federal approval, Wisconsin employers will have to pay only 10 per cent of the federal pay roll tax. The federal act provides for a gradually increasing pay roll tax on employers, but with 90 per cent to be waived in the event of an approved state system.

The national security board's stamp of approval to the Wisconsin plan was the first to be given a state setup.

Raushenbush Heads Setup.

Heading the vast machinery being created to administer the act is Paul A. Raushenbush of the state industrial commission. Twenty-two employment offices will be fully staffed Wednesday, with additional ones to be opened if the demand arises. Every employé laid off must register at one of these offices for work as part of the plan to require a conscientious effort to obtain work before benefits are paid out.

Individual cases will be investigated by a staf of examiners, 34 of whom were certified last wek by the bureau of personnel. They will be interviewed tomorrow and 30 will be given jobs. From 100 to 125, it is estimated, will be sent into the district offices to handle the clerical work.

FIND OLD FILES GIVING ACCOUNT OF CIVIL WAR ERA

A wealth of original material dealing mainly with the civil war period has been discovered by federal research workers in musty files in storerooms on the sixth and seventh floors of the United States courthouse, Dr. Russell H. Anderson, regional director of the nation-wide survey of federal archives, announced yesterday.

Dr. Anderson described the thousands of letters and documents as "fresh sources for a significant period of American history, revealing certain phases of the exciting struggle t keep the union intact." Some of the material, he said, may result in a revaluation of historical viewpoints and judgments.

Official correspondence of five Indiana governors—Dunning, Willard, Wright, Lane, and Morton—covering the period from 1835 to 1865 is in the files. The bulk of the material thus far analyzed pertains to the administration of Gov. Oliver P. Morton, who helped establish the Republican party on a national basis after the break up of old party lines in 1854.

A preliminary survey of the files also showed many human interest documents and reports from various civil war fronts.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

Plow Corn Again

June 28, 1936.

CORN cultivation is the next thing on the work schedule at the Tribune's Yorkville Experimental farm. The cultivators have been idle since hay harvest began three weeks ago. With all the first cutting of hay in the barns, the men plan to start again tomorrow cultivating corn. They likely will keep the cultivators going until all the corn is "laid by."

Most of the corn on this place will be cultivated four times this year. All except ninety acres that was planted late got two cultivations before hay harvest. Twenty acres of that was plowed once. The other seventy acres was planted after the ground became quite dry and many of the kernels failed to sprout. The farm manager estimates that this planting has so far made only about half a normal stand.

Weeds Doing Well.

Many of the kernels of the late planted corn still are sound and may come up yet if the ground gets a soaking rain. Some of them started to sprout and then withered from lack of moisture. This late corn will be given its first cultivation this week to clean out the weeds, which have made a better growth than the corn. The men say they will have to "plow blind," since it will be difficult to see the rows because of the meager stand of corn and the comparatively rank weed growth.

The 375 acres of corn on the Yorkville farm that received two early cultivations is practically free from weeds, but will be given another cultivation this week in an attempt to stimulate the rise of moisture from the subsoil. Care will be taken not to disturb the corn roots, which are making a widespread growth between the rows in their search for moist earth. The cultivator shovels will be kept well away from the plants and will be set so as to give a shallow cultivation.

48 Lambs Weaned.

The forty-eight spring lambs on the Yorkville farm were taken away from their mothers last week and put in a separate pasture to be weaned. They are being fed oats and alfalfa hay and are grazing in timothy pasture. Thirty-three of these lambs were dropped in March and the other fifteen in April. All the best ewe lambs from this bunch will be saved for breeding. The wethers and cull ewes will be finished for market next fall.

There are fifty-seven breeding ewes in the Yorkville flock—forty-four aged ewes and thirteen yearlings that have never been bred. They now are cleaning up some odd lots and small pastures about the place that have grown up to sweet clover and blue grass. The ewes have been given no feed since the lambs were taken from them.

Drouth Killing Clover.

Clover seeded this spring in oat and wheat fields at both the Yorkville and Wheaton farms is beginning to die from lack of moisture. In some of the oat fields on the Yorkville place the young clover plants have practically all dried up and disappeared. The farm managers fear that harvesting the grain crops may allow the hot sun to finish killing what clover is left if the drouth continues until harvest time.

Pastures at the Yorkville farm are making poor growth but the farm manager says there still is plenty of grazing for all live stock on the place.

Only 128 days remain in which to save your country.
What are you doing to save it?

FIVE LONG DAYS.

Mr. Roosevelt's acceptance speech attempted to remove from the voters' minds the memory of the five-day carouse of his pay rollers in convention. There could have been no doubt in his mind that the proceedings had left a bad impression, particularly upon those who had listened in their homes to the broadcasts. The enthusiasm had been patently phoney; it had been bought and paid for. Not a few conspicuous members of the party had refused to attend, knowing what was to happen; others, jealous of their reputations, took pains to make their early departures conspicuous. Hundreds more of the delegates had left Philadelphia in disgust, but they left quietly because they did not dare risk the loss of their meal tickets. The convention had been off to a bad start with Fat Jim Farley's opening speech and, impossible though it seemed at the time, the tone had steadily deteriorated.

Obviously Mr. Roosevelt felt called upon to save the situation if he could. He wanted the public to forget that the Barkley who acted as temporary chairman was the Barkley who, in the same rôle four years before, had denounced Republican extravagance and had pledged his party to demobilize the federal burocracy. Mr. Roosevelt had also to erase the impression left by the other headliner, Senator Robinson, who as permanent chairman had denounced The Interests which he said had egged on the Republican party to create the depression. Mr. Robinson named no names, but every one in the hall and most of those outside knew how long and how faithfully Mr. Robinson had served precisely the corporations he was condemning; as a lawyer he has acted for nearly every substantial corporate interest in need of representation at Little Rock, including gigantic power companies, railroads, banks, and security houses.

Mr. Roosevelt tried to blot all this sham, all this hypocrisy, all the pay rollers' venality from the minds of his listeners. It is doubtful if a Demosthenes could have succeeded against the handicap imposed by the five long days of debauchery. Mr. Roosevelt conspicuously failed. His phrases were feeble imitations of those which had flamed from T. R.'s lips. When the earlier Roosevelt stood at Armageddon and battled for the Lord even his opponents recognized the sincerity of his words. He chose them because they expressed vividly what he thought and felt. The later and lesser Roosevelt's phrases were calculated to conceal, not to reveal, his purpose. His highfaluting rhetoric was intended to make the people forget that in truth he is the pay rollers' candidate.

Mr. Roosevelt employed the oldest trick of the demagog. He sought once more to frighten the ordinary man into thinking that only Roosevelt stands between him and the rapacity of brutal and selfish exploiters. That was Huey Long's trick, it is Tammany's trick, it gave Chicago gangster government for a decade; it has been employed again and again to lure men to their own political degradation.

The Roosevelt who spoke at Philadelphia is the same Roosevelt who instituted the economy of scarcity, enforced by cracking down. He talks of faith, but has none in the orderly processes of the American government. He talks of hope, but he has condemned millions of his fellow citizens to the legion of misery. He prates of charity, but uses the billions at his disposal to enlist an army of pay rollers whose true nature was strikingly revealed in the behavior of his brigadiers in the convention.

The convention, the platform, and the speech of acceptance leave no doubt about the point at issue in this campaign. The voters must choose between Gov. Landon, who stands for the continuance of an American republic of free men, and Mr. Roosevelt, whose objective, for all his noble words, is a Roman empire with its circuses, its debauched prætorian guard, and its doles of bread to quiet the hopeless millions among his subjects.

AN EXAMPLE FOR OUR OCEAN MARINE.

We are not a nation of progressive shipbuilders—and yet we are. On the open sea the fleets of the United States rank low in total tonnage and number of ships, but there is nothing in the world to compare with our landlocked Great Lakes fleets or inland waterway craft. Yet it is in these waters that nature interposes the greatest natural restrictions. True to form, American industry not only thrives but progresses under difficulties. The vessels that navigate our inland waterways have been marvels of efficiency for years, but their operators, who are in constant struggle with navigation limitations that do not exist in the open sea, continue their battle to cut carrying costs. Experiments are made with Diesel power to reduce engine and fuel weight so as to increase cargo capacity in shallow water. Welding to curtail hull deadweight tonnage is explored. The lighter metals are considered for ship construction. The builders know that the trafic will dry up if they fail in their never ending battle with costs. No minimum is considered irreducible.

It would appear a natural conclusion that the momentum gained in this inland struggle with nature would extend to the high seas, where fewer limitations exist. Paradoxically, the operators of the overseas merchant marine have become "copycats" in following designs developed in foreign shipyards. Our marine architects can make headway in their struggle against natural handicaps, yet throw up their hands in a man made competitive field.

Is it because they lack courage? An affirmative answer would be distinctly un-American. Has shipbuilding reached the ultimate? We must admit that the best efforts of today will be considered crude within another half century and outmoded within a generation. Is it lack of incentive? Partly. When shipping leaves our shores it enters an atmosphere of socialism, government control, and subsidy—the byproducts of defeatism. What the American merchant marine needs is a new crowd imbued with the spirit of the inland waterways.

ACCIDENT FACTS.

The 1936 edition of Accident Facts as compiled by the National Safety council has now been received. Primarily it shows that disregard for the rules of safety cost the United States the lives of 103,000 citizens and three and one-half billions of national wealth during 1935.

As might be expected, automobiles killed the most, 37,000, although accidents in homes ran a surprisingly close second. A total of 31,500 people fell down stairs, from roofs, or out of windows—were fatally cut or burned. Public accidents, such as drownings and heat prostrations, deaths by freezing, and falling on icy pavements, poisonings and careless handling of firearms caused the third important classification, 18,000 in number. Occupational accidents—suffered while the victims were engaged in gainful employment—claimed 16,500 lives.

It is somewhat surprising to learn that the American citizen is safer at work or at play than when he is at home, provided he can dodge the automobiles en route. More permanent injuries result from domestic hazards than from automobiles, and in the matter of temporary injuries home accidents account for nearly half of the ten million total.

There is, nevertheless, a ray of sunshine in the record for those who are leading safety first campaigns. During the year 1913 there were 78,133 deaths from accidents not involving motor vehicles. During 1935, with a 25 per cent increase in population, the corresponding figure had fallen to 63,000. In the same period motor fatalities increased from 4,227 to 37,000. With the substantial progress being made in all other classifications, those combating the highway menace should take heart.

Downward tendencies in certain types of accidents seldom prove that people are becoming more cautious because of safety publicity. They proceed rather from the elimination of hazards through the installation of machine shields, better wiring systems, safety drills, and life guards. The automobile problem must be attacked in the same manner through a demand for safety highways that will segregate the different types of trafic.

IN FEAR OF THEIR LEADER.

Democratic office holders in Wisconsin and candidates who wish to become office holders have revealed their distrust of President Roosevelt despite the lip service the organization gives him.

A spokesman for the Wisconsin delegation at the Philadelphia convention presented a demand that the convention do something about Democratic officials coming into the state and knifing the party by giving aid and comfort to the enemy, personified in the two La Follette brothers.

The demand referred to offending senators and congressmen, but Wisconsin hoped the President would take a lesson from it. The Democrats know he has hurt the party there more than all the senators and congressmen who ever set foot in the state.

President Roosevelt, even politically, has been the poorest friend the Democrats of Wisconsin ever had. His conspicuous affection for Senator La Follette reëlected the radical senator and dragged his brother Philip into the governor's office. Roosevelt defeated John M. Callahan and Albert G. Schmedeman, the party's choice in the primary for senator and governor.

Right now the party is in confusion for fear of what the President may do to help reëlect La Follette at the expense of the Democratic candidate for governor.

The Democrats always have been the secondary party in Wisconsin at best and their opportunity to consolidate the gains of the 1932 landslide has been stultified by the favors the head of the party has given its bitterest opponents.

The plain fact is that, so far as Wisconsin is concerned, the President is not even a party Democrat, to say nothing of the fact that he has discarded the principles upon which the party was founded. He has been advised, whether correctly or not time will tell, that the radicals have the popular vote sewed up and can deliver it to him. It seems expedient to woo them, which in truth is more to his taste.

It isn't the double crossing by the senatorial Democrats that worries the party leaders in Wisconsin. They will feel safer if the President himself will just stay neutral.

Editorial of the Day

VAGUE AND OTHERWISE.

[Buffalo Courier and Express.]

Norman Thomas, Socialist condidate for President, is of the opinion that the Lemke-Coughlin Union party has some "noble aspirations" but "vaguely promises the impossible."

The Democratic party platform in 1932 promised many things that were possible. Mr. Roosevelt accepted that platform "100 per cent." After March, 1933, both Mr. Roosevelt and the party deliberately repudiated them. Along with the forgotten man it ranged the forgotten promises.

There is a vast difference between "vague promises" of the "impossible" and positive promises of the possible. From the first you don't expect much. From the latter you do expect something less than absolute reversal of pledged policies. There may be excuse for failure to perform the impossible. There is no excuse for failure even to try to keep promises to perform the possible. The one may represent poor judgment, but the other represents bad faith.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office

SATURDAY NIGHT Mr. Roosevelt accepted the nomination. On the 23d day of July or thereabouts I suspect that Mr. Landon will too. But he's taking more time to think it over than Mr. Roosevelt did. They're mighty cautious out there in Kansas. They always look into every proposition mighty carefully to be sure they're not contracting for lightning rods or signing away the oil rights on their farms. It's an old Kansas custom.

MR. FARLEY made answer to Alice Longworth the other night. Mrs. Longworth had written in her daily report of convention doings that Mr. Farley was escorted by siren motorcycles and a police escort every time he went across the street to buy a package of cigarets. So Mr. Farley told us breathless radio listeners, "I have never used tobacco in my life." Which made me expect that Mr. Farley would have a plank in the platform quoting the old time and dearly loved poem of our school days:

"'I do not use tobacco,'
Said little Robert Reed;
'I do not use tobacco,
For 'tis a filthy weed;
It stains your toes,
And scents your clothes,
And makes a chimney of your nose.'"

If Mr. Farley got that plank in the platform it's too much trouble for me to look), then some good Democrat could set it to music and it could be sung at all Democratic rallies. But, gosh! Mr. Farley, think of all us cigaret smokers! And think of all the strong he-men out in the tall grass and the uncut timber who chew plug tobacco. There's a great army of us, Mr. Farley, and if you make us mad we're going to vote against you.

DEFINITIONS.

Death is most variously defined.
If every living thing should name it,
No two would choose the selfsame term
And none could tell which best became it.

The pigeon would pronounce it "hawk,"
The cobra "mongoose" and the deer
Would speak of hunter and of hound;
The fish would call it atmosphere.

I, too, can tell you what it is.
Belovèd, death is anything
That would divide our hearts, our hands,
No matter what its fashioning.

ADELAIDE LOVE.

MONDAY MORNING! That's the day I'm afraid to look at the newspapers. I don't want to read the list of those injured in auto accidents over the week end. I wouldn't like to see my name among those that have been killed. But I would rather read it there then to read that I had been arrested for driving while intoxicated. That is something I just couldn't bear.

"SELASSIE Appeals to League of Nations."—Headline. Selassie? Selassie? Now who is Selassie? Seems to me that I heard the name before the Democrats had their convention in Philadelphia, but that seems to have knocked out all memory of him. Let's see, did he make a speech or something at the convention or did he walk out or what? Selassie? Well, as the days go by maybe memory will return. Selassie? Maybe he's a race horse or a new cocktail.

Though none have names, I cannot choose
But write a triolet to say
A hundred girls I love and lose
Within the course of every day.

CLOSER AND CLOSER TO JULY FOURTH and the firecracker demons. Likewise the idiots who shoot revolvers promiscuously around in the air. The American Legion points out that only 4,044 American soldiers were killed in the Revolutionary war and 6,000 wounded, while in the last thirty years alone 4,290 persons have been killed and 96,000 maimed in celebrating that eventful conflict. But the soldiers in the Revolutionary war did not peek down toy cannons to see why they wouldn't go off nor did they blow on the fuses of cannon firecrackers to make them burn faster. Well, everything has been said that can be said to make people leave fireworks alone on the Fourth. The rest is in the hands of the Fool-Killer. It's a great day for the Fool-Killer, the Fourth of July. But it's also mighty hard on that poor bird that always gets it in the neck—the Innocent Bystander.

FIRST WAS CHAOS. . . .

Poised in constant doubt between
Two slender lights, we pray
That either symbol may unscreen
The certainty of day.
This night that never lifts nor fails
In black intensity,
Does it know phosphorescent trails
To far security?
The sounds that throng the sightless air,
These shapes that bear no name,
Is there not fusion for them, there,
By one brief touch of flame?

AND NOW as the tumult and the shouting at Philadelphia die away we walk out and are delighted to find the sky is blue, the sun is shining and the little birdies are singing up in the trees just like they used to do. And the flowers are blooming and everything seems pretty much the same after all. It's a pretty tough world and even the political conventions don't spoil it very much. And not for very long. R. H. How to Keep Well By Dr. Irving S. Cutter

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Cutter will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual disease.

WHAT IS PAGET'S DISEASE?

ONE afternoon in the autumn of 1856 Sir James Paget, then England's most distinguished surgeon, was consulted by a patient whose disease was to make him famous. The man complained of pain in the thighs and legs, that was increased whenever he indulged in exercise. He gave a history of perfectly healthy parents and grandparents, all of whom had lived to ripe old age. Neither gout nor rheumatism had been known in the family. When 46 years old he had noted some slight aching in his legs. Gradually with the lapse of time his limbs became "less serviceable" and about a year later he noticed that his left shin was distorted. Meanwhile his general health was unaffected. At the examination Surgeon Paget found that the left half of the large bone of the lower leg was broad, flat, nodular, and uneven.

Three years later the patient was examined again, and the same bone [tibia] had increased in size with a definite forward curve. The left thigh bone was also enlarged and was arched forward and outward, so that the left knee could not be brought into contact with the right one. There was some widening of the bones of the pelvis. The patient stated that his hats had become too small, and examination disclosed a markedly overgrown right side of the skull. Notwithstanding these changes the patient suffered relatively little, lived an active life, and engaged in the pursuits of a country gentleman.

This was the first identified case of what is today known as Paget's disease or osteitis deformans, and was reported by Sir James with other cases of like character 20 years later. The disease is one of the most curious that affects the bony skeleton and it appears in middle life or later. It is characterized by an extensive bending of the long bones [thigh bones in particular] and by irregular deformities of the flat bones. Men are more susceptible than women.

Minor and obscure symptoms may be complained of long before the slightest evidence of deformity appears. These may simulate rheumatic attacks. Sometimes periods of stiffness and discomfort on walking become manifest. Pain, weakness, and difficulty in locomotion are cardinal signs. The symptoms develop so slowly and gradually, however, that the diagnosis is rarely possible until the disease is well advanced.

As the condition progresses the entire skeleton may be involved. The bones become uneven, irregular, and overgrown, and contain areas that are spongy in some parts and ivory-hard in others. Certain portions of the skull may exhibit the characteristic increase—in fact, the only signs of the disease may appear in an enormously thickened and enlarged cranium. In advanced cases shortening in stature—sometimes as much as six inches—may be observed. Not infrequently, however, the changes are limited to one side of the body or to one or two bones, and may become stationary, producing but slight deformity. Since most of the afflicted are past middle life, the signs of old age become increasingly evident. The hair is scant and the nails are thicker and more brittle.

The exact cause of Paget's disease is unknown, although a tendency to gout, rheumatism, arthritis, and trouble with the endocrine glands are thought to influence its onset. There seems reasonable ground also for believing that some upset in calcium metabolism is primarily responsible. For this reason special diets including irradiated foods, sunbaths, and rest are suggested.

Just how the parathyroid glands, which lie close to the thyroid in the neck and control calcium metabolism, affect the condition is not clear, although Paget's disease has been produced experimentally in animals by feeding great quantities of parathyroid extract. It is possible that some relief may be hoped for in the future as our knowledge of gland therapy increases. The adrenals may play a part also, and feeding the outer portion of these structures [cortex], plus a large amount of calcium, has been reported to be successful in arresting the progress of this distorting malady in a few cases.

The final solution awaits more investigation into the problem of why calcium [lime] wanders in such strange ways about the body. Possibly our chemists will point the way.

TREATING ULCERS.

B. F. writes: A recent report claims remarkable powers for allantoin in the healing of old ulcers, burns, etc. Is this something new? Is it of any value?

REPLY.

Several years ago the suggestion was made that maggots should be used in the treatment of old ulcers, particularly those associated with infection of bone [osteomyelitis]. The healing effect was thought to be due to a material called allantoin, which the maggots excrete. This substance is also found in many plants and is a constituent of "clown's wound wort," which is mentioned in Nicholas Culpepper's "The English Physician" [1652]. Other writers, in describing this plant, stated that it possessed strong healing properties, particularly in long standing ulcers. Chemically, allantoin can be prepared by the alkaline oxidization of uric acid.

ULTRAVIOLET RAY.

J. A. writes: 1. Is the ultraviolet ray harmful for more than a three to six minute period?

2. Does a sun lamp of any kind increase the white corpuscles in the blood?

3. Is there a sun lamp made at present which can be used safely for any great length of time?

REPLY.

1. This depends on the erythema [redness] of skin produced by the lamp. The council on physical therapy of the American Medical association accepts for home use a lamp that will produce an erythema in one hour at twenty-four inches distance. However, it is important to note that it is not the prescribed dosage.

2. No.

3. No.

SUNBURN RASH.

C. T. writes: Whenever I get a sunburn, no matter how light, it turns to an itchy rash as soon as the sun goes down and remains that way over a period of weeks. What causes this and what can I do to correct it?

REPLY.

Some individuals are more susceptible to sunburn than others. For this reason you must observe great caution in acquiring a tan. In your case coating the skin lightly with cocoa butter will help. This should be done before and after exposure to direct sunlight. Ointments that contain a small amount [2 to 5 per cent] of bismuth subcarbonate are recommended.

DAY BY DAY IN THE MAKING OF THE CONSTITUTION

BY JAMES MADISON.

[Father of the Constitution and Fourth President of the United States.]

Philadelphia, Pa., June 29, 1787.—In convention. Dr. Johnson of Connecticut: The controversy must be endless whilst the gentlemen differ in the grounds of their arguments. The two ideas embraced on different sides instead of being opposed to each other ought to be combined; that in one branch the people ought to be represented, in the other the states.

"It Is a Miracle We Are Here."

Mr. Gorham of Massachusetts conceived that a rupture of the Union would be an event unhappy for all, but surely the large states would be least unable to take care of themselves. The weak therefore were most interested in establishing some general system for maintaining order. What would be the situation of Delaware—for these things he found must be spoken out and it might as well be done first as last—what would be the situation of Delaware in case of a separation of the states? Would she not then lie at the mercy of Pennsylvania? Would not her true interest lie in being consolidated with her and ought she not now to wish for such a union with Pennsylvania under one government as will put it out of the power of Pennsylvania to oppress her?

Massachusetts was originally three colonies, old Massachusetts, Plymouth, and the province of Maine. An incorporation took place; all parties were safe and satisfied. The case was similar with Connecticut and New Haven. The dread of union was reciprocal, the consequences of it equally salutary and satisfactory. In like manner New Jersey has been made one society out of two parts. The apprehensions of the small states ought to be appeased by another reflection. Massachusetts will be divided. Pennsylvania will not increase.

Mr. Madison agreed with Dr. Johnson that the mixed nature of the government ought to be kept in view, but thought too much stress was being laid on the rank of the states as political societies. He entreated the gentlemen representing the small states to renounce a principle which was confessedly unjust and if admitted must infuse mortality into a constitution we wished to live forever. He prayed them to ponder well the consequences of suffering the confederacy to go to pieces. The weakness and jealousy of the smaller states would quickly introduce some regular military force against sudden danger from their powerful neighbors. The example would be followed by others and would soon be universal. Throughout all Europe the armies kept up under the pretext of defending have enslaved the people. It is perhaps questionable whether the best concerted system of absolute power in Europe could maintain itself in a situation where no alarms of external danger could tame the people to the domestic yoke.

Mr. Hamilton of New York observed that individuals forming political societies modify their rights differently with regard to suffrage. Examples are found of it in all states. It has been said that if the smaller states renounce their equality they renounce at the same time their liberty. The truth is, it is a contest for power and not for liberty. Will the men composing the small states be less free than those composing the larger? The state of Delaware having 40,000 souls will lose power if she has one-tenth only of the votes allowed to Pennsylvania having 400,000, but will the people of Delaware be less free if each citizen has an equal vote with each citizen of Pennsylvania? Some of the consequences of a dissolution of the Union and the establishment of partial confederacies had been pointed out. He would add another of a most serious nature. Alliances will be immediately formed with different rival and hostile nations of Europe that will foment disturbances among ourselves and make us parties to their own quarrels. This was a critical moment for forming a government. As yet we retain the habits of union. We are weak and sensible of our weakness. Henceforward the motives will become feebler and the difficulties greater. It is a miracle we are now here exercising our tranquil and free deliberations on the subject. It would be madness to trust to future miracles.

[On the question of agreeing that the representation in the first branch of congress should not be that of the confederation (state equality) the vote was 6 to 4, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, and Delaware no, Maryland divided.]

BUSES VS. STREET CARS.

Chicago, June 25.—I believe that there can be no adequate argument against the sixth plank of The Tribune's platform, "Install Modern Street Cars." In a recent letter Mr. P. Latsis favors modern buses, and lays down a number of reasons for doing so. He asks why modern street cars should be installed. The answer is simply that modern street cars should be installed because they will increase a service that is essential to the city, and will benefit a greater number of people than any other method of transportation.

The chief factor in favor of the street car is that vehicle's peak overload capacity. I wonder if Mr. Latsis has ever had the pleasure of trying to stand on a bus, be it modern or otherwise, with his cranium against a hard roof and people trampling over him. If he has he will agree that at that moment, at least, he has wished all buses were at the bottom of the lake.

As for buses moving faster than street cars, I can only say that I doubt that statement, with the exception of the limited stop buses.

How can a bus ride possibly be smoother than a street car ride? A bus is on a shorter wheelbase than a street car, and must follow the depressions and rises in the street. Constant jarring is the ride that a bus gives over most of our streets. A street car ride is comparatively smooth, being over, for the most part, well laid and smooth tracks. The older cars sway sideways, it is true, but the newer front entrance Clark street cars are bothered little by this, and truly modern street cars would conquer this tendency entirely.

Has Mr. Latsis ever taken the trouble to look at the deep gouges made in the boulevards by the buses? He is in for a revelation if he should do so. Heavy buses in hot weather do injure the pavement whether the bus be modern or ancient. The modern street car will not make any loud noises, while any auto engineer will tell you that it is extremely difficult to design motors and transmissions for buses that will be permanently quiet.

Finally, the matter of noxious gases created by many buses is a real problem. The number of buses required to move the rush hour crowds would cause a dense cloud of exhaust gases to spread over the loop area, which, if not dangerous, would be extremely unpleasant. This same number of buses [I can't imagine how many would be required] would cause trafic tangles and street clogging to an amazing extent.

Too few of us really appreciate the amount of service given to us by our street cars. There can be no truly good substitute for such service at anywhere near the nominal fare asked. The buses with a higher fare give less frequent service covering a much smaller number of routes and lacking all night service.

PORTRAIT.

Wheaton, Ill., June 24.—It's really strange how peculiar it makes me feel to have a fellow man point an oratorical finger of scorn in my direction and paint me as some sort of a monster for failing to agree with him as to political policy.

So generally has this been done in the past few years by supporters of the party in power that I have often stopped to wonder whether after all I was the unreasonable creature they were describing. I surely am opposed to the New Deal; hence their descriptions of opponents should fit me as well as any one else. But when I try applying them I'm actually amused to find how poorly they fit.

Take for instance just a few of the labels they seem to be giving me as an opponent—arrogant partisan, vested interest, entrenched greed, fat hog of privilege, self-satisfied parasite, privileged class. They make me laugh.

Instead of being all those things I'm just an average young American who wants to keep on having a voice in government and sees the impossibility of this under the New Deal administration if continued.

JAMES V. WILSON.

DROUTH AND GRASSHOPPERS.

Naperville, Ill., June 27.—While thousands of middle west farmers have been fighting one of the greatest battles against insects and drouth the Democratic New Dealers in Philadelphia have taken credit for everything under the sun except these terrible conditions existing on the farmlands. For over four days grasshoppers in "typical prairie states" have been doing great damage to crops. Yet at the end of these four days no government aid that amounts to anything has been given prostrate farmers. If New Dealers have money to throw away on several million shovels they had better use some of this money to fight conditions which will make 1934 look like a very wet year. Farmers cannot alone take up the battle against a horde of insects that may even grow to such proportions that crop failures and shortages will make any AAA plan look foolish.

JAMES MARTIN.

WHAT DID YOU EXPECT?

Chicago, June 26.—After listening to four days of oratory from Philadelphia I am wondering why the Democrats didn't have Senator Barkley deliver his address and then all others who felt moved to speak simply rise and say "Ditto." Then for the rest of the time they could have put on some good vaudeville shows, with somebody now and then rising to cry "Franklin Delano Roosevelt" as a signal for an outburst of "spontaneous" applause. There has been practically no variation in the speeches, either in theme or words.

UNSIGHTLY PREMISES.

Chicago, June 26.—[Friend of the People.]—Can't something be done about the lot opposite our home? The owner pays no attention whatever. He has rented it to a coal dealer, who has made a junk yard out of it. There are two garages on the rear of the lot, in which he keeps an oil truck and a coal truck, constituting a real fire hazard. Now he is building another garage of old signboards right under our kitchen windows, so close to the other garage he must drive over our sidewalk at times and even into our yard to make the turn. Here are a few things in the lot: Three garages, derricks, trailer, gasoline engine, sawbucks, boxes, barrels, loads of old lumber, old signboards, old iron, and what not. He also has a large gate which swings out over the sidewalk so people passing are compelled to walk out on the street when it is open.

H. J. R.

Complaint regarding above premises has been investigated and our inspector reports the use of a lot for storage purposes which is a commercial use in a district zoned for apartments. A notice has been served on owner to remove all material and equipment stored on this lot and to bring premises into compliance with the ordinance. A reasonable amount of time has been given in this notice and if same is not complied with the department will proceed as the law directs.

SEPARATE MAINTENANCE.

River Forest, Ill., June 26.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Will the recent decision of the Illinois Supreme court upholding the law limiting [1] alimony payments to two years affect parties who are now paying alimony under divorce granted two years ago, payments to be made for some time still to come? 2. I am writing for a party who was a resident of Illinois but now lives outside the state. Alimony payments were agreed upon by parties and confirmed by the court. Any information would be appreciated.

W. M.

1. The court said nothing about alimony payments. It merely sustained a statute relating to payment of separate maintenance before divorce.

2. In our opinion the statute and the decision would have nothing to do with your facts.

YOUTH DIES; HIT BY CAR FLEEING BOOKIE HOLDUP

Police Still Fail to Tie Up Raid and 3 Accidents.

Albert Klautsch, 19 years old, 3651 Wabansia avenue, a Western Union messenger boy, died yesterday of injuries incurred when he was struck early Saturday evening by an automobile in which three robbers were escaping after the holdup of a race horse handbook at 540 St. Clair street. At least 24 hours after the youth was fatally injured the police records failed to mention the handbook robbery in connection with the messenger's death.

The escaping robbers were involved in two other accidents. Duke Eyre, alias St. Clair, 40 years old, 4038 Arthington street, reputed operator of the handbook, was in the Henrotin hospital with a broken right arm and right leg. Robert O'Brien, 122 South Central avenue, a truck driver employed by the Thomas J. Webb company, 628 Randolph street, was knocked from his seat when his truck was struck by the robbers' car.

Real Investigation Promised.

The death of Klautsch made it certain that an investigation would follow. The handbook robbery had proved embarrassing to Eyre as well as to police, and the three accidents which occurred in the flight of the robbers were placed on the police record books as unrelated events, but Coroner Frank J. Walsh declared yesterday there would be a real investigation at an inquest today at the Presbyterian hospital, where the messenger died. He said the robbers, if caught, would be charged with murder.

It was said Coroner Walsh plans to take a coroner's jury to the bedside of Eyre in Henrotin hospital, put him under oath, and then ask him what happened. He is reported to have said—before the fatal accident to Klautsch—that he knew the robbers. As pieced together, the sequence of events was as follows:

At 5:20 p. m. Saturday two men entered the handbook, which was operated in a room in the rear of Mike's barber shop at 540 St. Clair street. They left a companion at the wheel of an automobile which bore license plates numbered 776009—a car stolen from John Pryor, 4549 Calumet avenue, on Thursday.

Twenty Patrons Held Up.

Inside the two men at revolver points took $200 from the cashier—said to have been Eyre—and unreported sums from the 20 patrons. As they left, Eyre ran out after them and jumped on the running board of their car, yelling for police. The bandit car sped west in Grand avenue, with Eyre on the running board, still shouting. A bureau squad car commanded by Sergt. Albert Schuetz took up the chase.

At Michigan avenue [lower level] and Grand avenue Eyre fell or was pushed from the car, breaking an arm and a leg. The bandit car turned north in Wabash avenue and then turned east into the first alley north of Grand avenue. There the automobile struck Klautsch. Sergt. Schuetz's squad picked up the unconscious youth and took him to the Presbyterian hospital.

Sidewipes Truck and Flees.

The bandit car swung back on Grand avenue and then to the lower levels of Michigan avenue, where it sidewiped the truck driven by O'Brien. After that it was lost to sight.

Eyre's story to the police was that he was an automobile salesman, injured while demonstrating a car.

Shortly after the three accidents the room back of Mike's barber shop was divested of all horse race betting equipment and word went out that the book would move elsewhere.

33D DIVISION VETS END REUNION; PICK CHICAGO FOR 1937

World war veterans of the 33d division yesterday concluded their 10th annual convention at Aurora. The veterans voted to hold their 1937 conclave in Chicago. After fighting over again the battles in which the Illinois men played an heroic part, the veterans gathered yesterday in the First Methodist church at Aurora for memorial services to the men they left in France. The Rev. Henry Cluver of Belleville, past chaplain of the Illinois department of the American Legion, appealed to the veterans to continue their "last drive" toward peace.

CLARA, LU 'N' EM, BACK ON THE AIR, ELICIT COMMENT

Fio-Rito's Musical Setting Wins Praise.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

It was pleasant hearing again the homely voices of Clara, Lu 'n' Em after an absence of six months from the air lanes. They came back last Friday evening to NBC with Ted Fio-Rito doing a handsome job in presenting a musical setting for them. Starting a new program with many new stations added to their former network is particularly difficult. It is necessary to acquaint new listeners with characters known for years to many others.

Possibly for this reason the chatter of the girls seemed to lack a little of the sparkle and spontaneity that used to characterize their morning programs. Perhaps they had overrehersed. It's as tough to jest about rent [and housing] as it is about death and taxes. Dealing in real estate, for some reason, smacks too much of Evanston and not enough of Peoria, Des Moines and Mount Pleasant whence the girls came. In the future may their chatter have a more trivial flavor!

Stanley Hickman, tenor soloist, may well become a favorite of fans. Fio-Rito's music is as refreshing as it should be on a program sponsored by a refrigerator concern. Fio-Rito, it is said, will play at the Terrace Room of the Hotel Morrison when it reopens late this summer. Charlie Lyon, fresh from handling the conventions for NBC, did a neat job as master of ceremonies.

Fortnight ago it was pointed out in this column that while scores of sponsors were rushing madly to Hollywood many good Chicago programs were begging for patrons. Among those cited was "Morning at McNeills" at NBC. Now comes word that an Iowa packing concern is to sponsor this show within a month. Since it will be presented over a big network in the afternoon it may be renamed "Teatime at McNeills." Program features Don McNeill, comedian; Gale Page, songstress; Charles Sears, tenor, and Joseph Gallichio's orchestra.

Richard Himber's Champions have abandoned their Friday evening spot and will be heard over WMAQ at 8:30 Mondays beginning. . . . Truman Bradley will begin his new program of editorial comment over WBBM at 11:30 this morning. . . . George Givot is starting auditions for new talent for his Radio Circus at the College Inn of Hotel Sherman this afternoon. Both amateurs and professionals are eligible.

TEACHERS' GROUP WILL CONSIDER CLASS FREEDOM

Portland, Ore., June 28.—(AP)—Academic freedom and the personal beliefs of school instructors bulked large on the program as teachers from throughout the country came to Portland today for the 74th annual conference of the National Education association.

The question of teaching the facts of communism and other controversial political philosophes will come before the resolutions committee Thursday night.

The teachers also will hear a debate in which the Republican, Democratic, and Socialistic viewpoints will be argued.

Participating in the debate will be Paul V. McNutt, Democratic governor of Indiana; Burton L. French, former Idaho congressman, a Republican, and Norman Thomas, Socialist.

Arlington Park to Draw Horse Lovers Today

Race Opening Is Occasion for Many Parties.

BY JUDITH CASS.

FOR the last four days society has watched horses being put through their paces in the horse show ring on the Onwentsia club grounds, and some might think that to watch horses again today would not be any one's choice, but he would be mistaken, for most of those who filled the boxes and grand stands at the Lake Forest horse show will be out at the freshly painted Arlington Park Jocky club this afternoon to watch the opening program of races.

This is Arlington's eighth season and, judging by the heavy advance sale of boxes, this will be the most brilliant one for some years.

Luncheon Parties to Precede Races.

There are to be many luncheon parties at the Post and Paddock club, the largest being one at which Laurance H. Armour, the club president, and Mrs. Armour will be hosts. Some of the out-of-town exhibitors at the horse show are staying over for the races this afternoon so there will be a number of people at the luncheon tables on the terrace of the Post and Paddock or in the boxes in the inclosure whose faces are not among those seen regularly at the park where society spends so many afternoons during the thirty day racing season each summer.

Among those who have taken boxes for the season in the Post and Paddock section are Mr. Armour, Kenneth Smith, James S. Kemper, Harry H. Lobdell, Leeds Mitchell, Warren Wright, Robert F. Carr, Alfred Ettlinger, Leonard Florsheim, Thomas E. Wilson, Donald R. McLennan, Vincent Bendix, A. Watson Armour, Walter Schultier, Charles S. Pearce, B. H. Rader, Silas H. Strawn, John Hertz, Neil C. Hurley, Armin Brand, Britton I. Budd, Herbert Stern, Lawrence Stern, Otto W. Lehmann, Weymouth Kirkland, J. Clarke Dean, and A. D. Lasker.

Jane McWhinney Engaged to Wed Californian.

At a large tea yesterday afternoon at their home in Prospect avenue, Highland Park, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Andrew McWhinney announced the engagement of their daughter, Jane, to Robert Ruttan Wilson of San Francisco, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Alling Wilson. The announcement came as a great surprise to all of the young people as well as all of Mr. and Mrs. McWhinney's friends who heard the news yesterday, for no one had suspected the romance.

Miss McWhinney and Mr. Wilson became acquainted on a cruise to the orient last winter, so none of her Chicago friends knew the young man although many of them had a chance to congratulate him at the party yesterday. He arrived on Saturday from San Francisco to spend a week with the McWhinneys.

Miss McWhinney attended Rosemary Hall, the Burnham school in Northampton, and Smith college. She is a member of the Chicago Junior league. Mr. Wilson is a graduate of the University of California. After the wedding next fall he will take his bride to California to make their home.

Marjorie McCord Philips Weds Lincoln F. Brigham.

From New York, where Alvin Carr McCord is, comes the marriage announcement of his daughter, Marjorie McCord Philips, to Lincoln Flagg Brigham. The wedding took place in New York on June 24. Mr. McCord does not spend much time in Chicago now, for his business keeps him in New York and Detroit quite a lot of the time. The former Marjorie McCord lived in Dorset, Vt., when she was Mrs. Judson Philips. The Philips-McCord wedding took place in 1924 in Chicago. The late Mrs. McCord was the former Emily Rowe.

A PEDESTRIAN stopped by to exclaim over the comfortable conditions under which he saw some WPA men working Saturday. There were eight or ten of them in an open truck, driving south on the outer drive, and each of them sat under a little green tree, that protected him from the sun. . . . In all fairness, it probably should be pointed out for you who like to carp that they probably were going out on a tree transplanting job.

LARRY ADLER, suave and sunburned, who makes a harmonica sound like a symphony orchestra, is back tootling to packed houses at the Chicago theater after eighteen weeks in London and a trip home on the maiden voyage of the Queen Mary. A little oddment he reports concerns the abandonment of tails among theatrical performers observing mourning for the late King George of England. British performers decided that it would be a sartorial sin to wear a black tie with full dress, so all artists, Americans appearing in London likewise, replaced tails with dinner jackets. The women wore black or mauve exclusively.

ANOTHER incident Adler tells that illustrates the extent of the mourning for the late king was the expensive experience of one of the cinema companies. At the time of King George's illness a picture entitled "Where is George?" which naturally did not refer to his majesty, was being exploited throughout the British Isles. When the king's condition took a turn for the worse and it became known that death would be only a matter of days, the company changed the name of the film to "The Hope of His Side," and sent battalions of men throughout the land to tear down all the "Where is George?" posters. They also had to recall all press books—an advertising manual prepared on each picture for exhibitors, the usual cost of which is $15,000; had to reprint all stills with the new title and to make other immediate changes which resulted in an immediate loss of $75,000. It was all done quickly and quietly, without even attracting comment from the theatrical press.

Adler, whose theatrical engagement extended through such momentous events in England as the jubilee, the illness and death of the king, and the weddings of the duke of Kent and the duke of Gloucester, played two command performances, one for the then prince of Wales at the Embassy club and the other for King Gustav of Sweden at the Monte Carlo villa of Countess Constantine of Greece.

IN the morning mail: "In regard to horse-hair snakes. I am going on 60 years old and have kept myself convinced that you can turn a hair from a horse's tail into a snake and am now too old to convince otherwise. Here's the way to do it: Pull a hair from a live horse's tail. Take it to a pond [not a tub]. Drop it in the pond and be sure you have a lucky stone in your pocket. When you go to bed at night put the lucky stone under your pillow. In the morning put the lucky stone in your pocket before you put your pants on. Keep this up for seven days and seven nights. Go to the pond, and there's your snake.

New 'Scandals' Comely, Comic, and Bountiful

Willie, Eugene Howard, and Helen Morgan Stars.

GEORGE WHITE'S "SCANDALS."

A revue with music by Ray Henderson; dialog by George White, William K. Wells, Howard A. Shiebler; given in the Grand Opera house June 28, 1936.

THE PRINCIPALS.

Willie Howard	Eugene Howard
Helen Morgan	George W. Dewey
Jane Cooper	Earl Oxford
Estelle Jayne	Stanley Twins
Lois Eckhart	Claire McQuillen
Richard Lane	Fred Manatt

and others.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

George White, the "Scandals" man, contender for the Broadway revue championship for nearly twenty years, brought the twelfth edition of his gay and costly entertainments to the Grand Opera house last night. This will be Chicago's premier summer show—and the only one that the legitimate stage will offer until August; therefore let the customary cheers ring out. It's good and handsome and comic; its principals are frolickers of fame and its chorus girls are blithe and lovely young alumnæ of the dancing academies.

This is a bountiful affair, with a program that catalogs twenty-five episodes by title and with changes of setting past computation. When the curtains part for the first full-stage number—"Life Begins at Sweet Sixteen"—one gets the impression that about 400 of Mr. White's ingénues are present, draping themselves around and festooning themselves upon the world's largest apple tree. There are only thirty, but they are an eyeful, and as the show runs on they present themselves for admiration in numerous changes of costume.

Willie Howard and his stalwart brother Eugene, inseparables of revue clowning for many years, are the chief comedians, appearing with vigorous humor in a series of sketches that run true to the revue tradition without infringing upon any copyrights. These dramatized jests and wisecracks are Broadwayish of taste and free of speech, but they contain nothing to defy the liberalism of revue customers. Willie Howard is at his best in a single-handed contribution in which he represents a French professor giving a radio lesson—a fantasy in dialect during which not a single French word is spoken by the alleged expert.

Helen Morgan, returning to the legitimate stage for the first time since "Sweet Adeline," so far as Chicago is concerned, makes a third star for the program. She is decorative in her exotic, half melancholy way; she sings in her characteristic style without putting the familiar cabaret sob into her voice; and often, joining in the song-and-dance activities of her associates, she reveals that there is a gay Helen Morgan as well as a moody one.

The other principals are players of talent in various lines of activities. George Washington Dewey, an excellent Negro singer, leads the most elaborate number of the show as a caricature of the Harlem evangelist, who calls himself Father Divine with "God" as his subtitle.

Earl Oxford pairs off with Miss Morgan in the ambitious songs and deports himself like a revue tenor who is likely to be grabbed by the movies some fine day. Jane Cooper is an extra special tap dancer with a face and a figure to supplement the appeal of her rhythms. The Stanley Twins, blonde with coronet braids, illustrate with precision the familiar routine of cart wheel and high kick dancing. A trio of colored men, named Sam, Ted and Ray, execute an Ethiopian ceremony in dancing to much applause. The tenor, who is probably Sam, has something new to show in shuffles. Estelle Jayne, utility comedienne in the cketches and soubrette in the song-and-dance stuff, is also an effective contributor to the general gayety.

Good Morning!

Again the screen demonstrates that the way to inject a little excitement into life is to take a trip. Airplane, bus, choo choo train—all offer infinite thrill possibilities, according to the movies.

On the "Florida Special," a crack train bound for the playground of the ritzy, some queer things happen!

An eccentric and fearful millionaire is the figure about whom the plot revolves. His presence on the train—with a fortune in unset gems, known to be concealed somewhere about him, his niece, or his secretary, . . . is the reason why certain unscrupulous folk are aboard . . .

Mr. Stafford disappears. . . . His secretary—who you are to discover is in collusion with one bevy of crooks—is killed. His niece, pretty but mercenary, believes she has the jewels—for Stafford has given her a sealed package to care for. . . .

The charming train hostess, Jerry Quinn; a nice chap, Wally Tucker, who had once been—but is no more—engaged to Stafford's niece and had started the trip in a state of inebriation; his pal, Bangs Carter, a newspaper reporter who'd come along to take care of him, and Police Sergeant Harrigan—who thought he was to have a vacation but thought wrong—finally accomplish a neat job of outwitting. . . .

I won't tell you what happens to the millionaire because that's really a surprise with a lot of kick in it.

There's nothing remarkable about "Florida Special" from any viewpoint—but it's a pleasantly diverting little show that's been capably directed and is peopled with folks you candy to.

See you tomorrow.

Four Spectacular Downtown Events Planned by Parks

The Chicago park district announced plans yesterday for a series of four spectacular events this summer on the downtown lake front. The first, a Buckingham fountain dance festival, is scheduled for July 17, 18, and 19; Aug. 6 brings a three ring circus to Soldiers' field. A "Carnival of the Lakes" fills the week of Aug. 16 at Burnham park lagoon, and a Labor day folk dance review in Soldiers' field closes the season. All of these spectacles are free to the public.

The Buckingham fountain festival, built around the fable of Undine, the water sprite, will use the services of Erika Thimey as principal and of a corps of 300, mostly girls who have been trained in various park centers. Waterproof costumes have been designed and are being executed in oil silk, rubber, and cellophane by the Chicago park district's costume studio. The choreography is the work of Miss Thimey; the music has been drawn from two Gluck scores, "Iphigenia in Aulis" and "Orpheus and Eurydice."

Catholic Laymen's Retreat Conference Closes with Dinner

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

How acids of modern life are being neutralized at spiritual country clubs which are sponsored by the Catholic Laymen's retreat movement was told last night at the closing dinner of the sixth national conference of the movement at the Palmer house. About 1,200 laymen and clergy from all parts of the country were present.

"So-called modern progress," said Representative Clare G. Fenerty [Rep., Pa.], "has substituted psychology for prayer, relativity for reality, inferiority complexes for sin, sumptuary laws for strength of will, social welfare for family discipline, auto-suggestion for conversion, reflex action for revelation, spiritism for confession, and astronomical intimidation for the fear of God."

Other speakers were the Very Rev. Raphael C. McCarthy, S. J., of St. Louis university, St. Louis, Mo., and Attorney Joseph Scott of Los Angeles, Cal.

Prior to the dinner, Cardinal Mundelein presided over a service of holy hour at Holy Name cathedral. Earlier in the day the sessions of the conference were held at the Franciscan retreat house at Grayslake. Bishop William D. O'Brien represented Cardinal Mundelein at last night's dinner.

Leo Cunningham of San Francisco, Cal., was elected president of the movement to succeed Daniel E. Morrissey, Chicago business man. Next year's conference will be at San Francisco.

Henry Hadley Given Ovation at Federal Concert in the Loop

Henry Hadley, distinguished American composer ["The New Earth," "Azora," "The Atonement of Pan," etc.] received a rousing ovation from audience and orchestra at yesterday afternoon's Great Northern theater concert by the federal music project's Illinois Symphony orchestra. Dr. Hadley appeared as guest conductor and composer, scheduling his own "Herod" overture, "Streets of Pekin" suite, and "The Culprit Fay." The post-intermission section of the program was devoted to the "Tristan und Isolde" prelude and "Love Death," and Liszt's "Les Preludes."

Slim Budgets Can Provide Smart Dresses

New Material Welcomed to Wardrobes.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Persistent complainers, fussing over the lack of smart daytime clothes priced for small budgets, can now begin a few songs of praise for a new collection. For a sum away under a ten dollar bill any one, but especially these pessimists, can choose amazingly good looking dresses made of a trick material. It is a dull textured, cool fabric that resembles soft silk, but will keep you as cool as cotton. Also it tubs like cotton.

There are enough different styles to please the most pernickity shopper. Two piece affairs with the short sleeved top cut with a short, youthful peplum. A one piece outfit with a double row of tiny buttons from shoulders to hemline the same color as the dress [the soft shell pink number with this double button trim is especially attractive]. The one piece outfits have short puffed sleeves, high round collar and flared skirt line. A sapphire blue one piece dress has a strawberry red ascot tie and a row of strawberry buttons down the center front, the strawberries in color with green hulls for contrast.

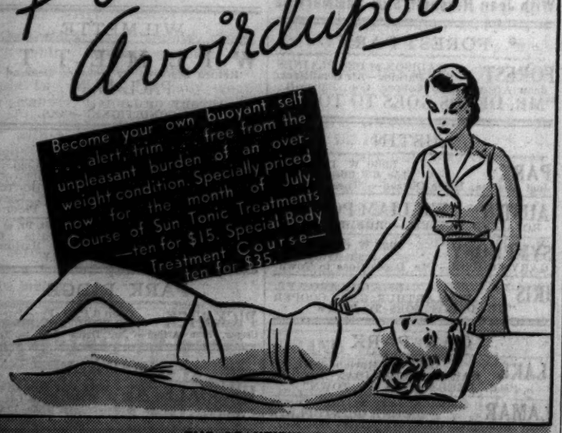

There's a sunny yellow dress with a chest pocket and an orange chiffon handkerchief tucked in the hip pocket, and a split pointed collar at the high neckline. It looks like a sophisticated pinafore frock, and ought to be perfect with a big hat, short gloves, and other cool summer accessories.

The colors are especially interesting, love bird green, plenty of pinks, all kinds of blue, smart supercool whites, and stunning yellows.

Fashion photograph . . . White stitching trims the split short cap sleeves and the curved edges of the lapels of the dull black one piece dress. A narrow white belt, a row of chalk white buttons, and an embroidered white motif on the high chest pocket relieve the all-black for a smart contrast. With this slim cool dress, a white half-a-hat of shantung linen weave, short white fabric gloves, new white sharkskin costume bracelets, and the large, interesting black linen handbag striped with white. The entire costume is available in a Chicago shop.

SHERIDAN ROAD

By Helen Topping Miller

SYNOPSIS.

Eden Faraday, young secretary, opens the door of a taxi and finds a man murdered. She is taken to the police station, where she meets Jack Garnett, newspaper cameraman, and Owen Field, assistant district attorney, who arranges her release. Eden had been mistaken for Gracie Lincoln, a gunman's widow. The man murdered was a notorious gangster, Grappi. Eden's mother, Bridget Faraday, sells gowns and is in love with suave Sidney Creighton. Eden and her spoiled young sister, Robin, and brother, Coburn, depend on their peppery grandmother. Because of rumor that Eden can identify the murderers Owen Field has her guarded. An attempt is made to kidnap Eden, but Field and his men rescue her. Field takes her to his mother's home, where she is kept secluded. Jack Garnett climbs roofs to talk to her from her window, and enlists her help in solving the mystery. Raquel Rusak, an older woman, is trying to force Coburn Faraday to marry her. While at a roadhouse with Raquel, Coburn sees his sister, Robin, come in with Sidney Creighton. Eden is brought home by Owen Field after the inquest.

INSTALMENT XIII.

A SECRET MISSION.

Eden brushed her hair thoughtfully. There was something back of all this—something Robin was concealing. If she inquired too closely, became too admonitory, Robin would cease confiding in her, become a furtive and contemptuous stranger in the household, as Coburn was.

Yet there had been something angry and anxious and tormented in her mother's eyes that Eden had ached to see.

If only she could talk to her mother as she talked to Gran! But the easy Irish heritage of loquacity had not been given to Bridget. She could not surrender her pedestal, emerge from her maternal remoteness. She might long to do so, but the ability was denied her. That she was unhappy could be noted in her voice. Eden had a sharp, unpleasant hunch. She looked at her little sister sharply.

"Have you been seeing Sidney Creighton?" she asked. "Is that the answer to all this?"

She hoped for Robin's amused denial, but instead the girl sat up, small, pretty mouth stiffening.

"Don't be antediluvian! Can I help it if the old fools like to look at me? What should I do? Shave my head and put on horn-rimmed spectacles?"

So that was it! Eden felt a sharp distaste. Why must these hidden, murky streams flow in the tender veins of these young things she wanted so much to love?

"You could go to school as you are expected to do and associate with people of your own age and class—you could make some small effort at being a lady," she said severely, "you could be sweet and desirable but instead you wish to be cheap. I think it's very ugly."

"And a lot I care what you think! You're living in a world that doesn't even exist! You go on being mauve and sugary and doing your duty—and what does it get you? Not a putrid thing. They buried Louisa M. Alcott years ago and the grass is thick on her grave. I'm going to get what I can out of life and I ask no favors."

There was no one on guard, apparently, when they went out.

"If that were true it would have a very gallant ring," Eden kept her calm, "but it isn't true. You do ask favors. You ask mother and me to feed and clothe you. If you want to live in this new and exciting world you boast about you should discover some way to do it without making demands on other people. You can't be free, Bobs—not at other people's expense. That isn't freedom—that's cheating."

"Alright then," Robin's eyes flashed, "that can be arranged too. Remember you asked for it."

"Don't be melodramatic and ridiculous, dear child. It doesn't go with eyes like yours."

"Leave my eyes out of it." Robin wriggled to straighten her frock, flounced to the closet and began to shake out an evening dress. "I'm going out. And I'm not wearing any of your clothes either."

"Thanks so much," Eden went on brushing calmly, but her fingers were trembling.

Gran interrupted the scene by putting her head in at the door.

"That man's here to see you, Edie. That young feller who was here before—the one you sent to see me when you were at Field's."

Jack Garnett. He was sitting on the edge of the couch, his weather-worn hat in his hands.

He had, Eden noted, had a hair cut. His trousers were pressed, his shoes shined.

His lean brown face was lighted by the same whimsical smile.

"I like him," Eden thought.

Garnett had come, he said, to take her to see the man he had told her about. He had a car downstairs. They could go out through a rear door.

"The police are watching this house, probably. They're a grand lot of boys—they're doing a good job, but until I get something they can use I'll get along faster to go alone, and not get into arguments with them. So—just to be regular I brought a press badge for you."

"But Owen Field warned me about going out at night," Eden lowered her voice so that no one else in the apartment would hear.

"He said it would be unsafe."

"I'm giving you my word that you'll be safer with me than you would with Field himself. Do you suppose," Garnett asked gravely, "that I'd let you go if I thought there was any danger? I could bring this fellow here to tell his story, perhaps—but that would be risky. He might be stopped and questioned—something might happen to him. And too much depends on it."

He stood near to her and she was surprised to see how tall he was. Older, too, than she had thought at first. His voice was deep, deeper than Field's—and there was an honesty in it, a deep humanity that was strong, with gentleness underneath. A ragged newsboy would trust him—and so would an austere judge.

"If this man you are talking about has a story to tell he should go to Martin Burke."

Garnett smiled at this. "We think alike, don't we? But we have to be clever. The police have had some tough going in this town and they've been ridden a lot by the newspapers. They wouldn't understand what we're trying to do and they're looking for somebody to arrest. Burke himself couldn't protect this fellow if the police got hold of him—and there are things I can't do. Later, perhaps I can explain better, but just now—well, we have to protect this boy. If certain people suspected that he was going to talk—well, he'd be glad to be in jail, that's all. And none of his family would be safe. And he hasn't done a thing—nothing except let the wrong people befriend him. You can't know what it means to be hunted like a rat—never believed——"

Eden thought she knew that trapped, hunted terror a little. She remembered those iron cold fingers hard against her lips. She said, finally, "I'll go—but you're responsible to Martin Burke if anything goes wrong."

"Nothing will go wrong. Put on plain clothes and a hat that covers your hair. Can we get away without your family asking too many questions?"

"Mother has gone back to the shop. It's the last of the month and she is closing her books. My sister is going out and I'll tell Gran something——"

"Tell her we are sneaking out to a movie. We'll need a couple of hours."

There was no one on guard, apparently, when they went out at the rear of the building and reached the car Garnett had parked in the alley. Eden had darkened her eyebrows and changed the outline of her lips so that she felt like a stranger—a bold stranger too—as they drove northward through the lighted streets.

Sheridan road! From her childhood it had been a symbol of success, security. They passed the Field house, dark and sullen looking. Further on was the place where Sidney Creighton lived ornately, in bachelor luxury.

"Pull up the robe—we'll be out on the prairie in a little while and the wind will be tough," Garnett advised.

They swooped through a black underpass and out again into a dark stretch of suburban road.

Miss Marion Huntress of Washington, D. C., will attend her future sister-in-law as maid of honor. The bridesmaids include Miss Virginia Ashcraft, cousin of the bride; Miss Mary Young, Miss Beatrice Norton, Miss Dorothy Glidden, Miss Suzanne Fitch of Biltmore Forest, N. C., and Mrs. George P. Jack Huntress of Washington will serve his brother as best man, and ushering will be Benton Huntress, another brother; George Lewis, William Rodenberg, Thomas Adams of Washington, Edward Hutson of Huntington, W. Va., and John Summers. After a wedding trip to Bermuda Mr. and Mrs. Huntress will return to be at home until autumn in Mr. and Mrs. Ashcraft's home on the south side while the Ashcrafts are in their summer home at Lakeside, Mich.

Blanche Plamondon Smith Weds Charles W. Bishop.

Charles W. Bishop and his bride, the former Miss Blanche Plamondon Smith, will sail from New York Wednesday for a month's honeymoon in Bermuda. The daughter of the J. Henry Smiths of Grosse Pointe, Mich., and the son of the Horace M. Bishops were married in the Church of SS. Peter and Paul, Grosse Pointe, Saturday.

The bride wore a white satin robe which had been her mother's bridal grown and the duchesse lace which formed the low square yoke of the gown had belonged to her grandmother, Mrs. Charles Plamondon. The bride was attended by her sister-in-law, Mrs. J. Henry Smith Jr. of New York, as matron of honor and by her sisters, Miss Mary Letitia, Miss Betty, and Miss Sally. After the wedding a reception and breakfast were held in the home of the bride's parents.

The Smith family lived in Chicago until about seven years ago, and the bride's aunts, Mrs. Allen B. Ripley and Miss Marie Plamondon, were among the Chicagoans who attended the wedding.

Mr. Bishop and his bride will be at home at 1040 Vineland avenue, Detroit, after Aug. 3.

Members of the Chicago Junior league will be driving out to the Onwentsia club this morning for a meeting to be held there at 10:30 o'clock. Those who have made reservations will remain at the clubhouse for luncheon and possibly to swim in the pool afterward. Mrs. Charles H. G. Kimball, president, Mrs. Gordon Lang, and Miss Elaine Blackman will be some of those to discuss the business on hand. This will be the last meeting of the league until fall.

Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman to Go West in July.

Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman's usual late June departure for Santa Barbara is postponed this year because of a recent stay in the hospital, but she hopes to leave for the west between July 15 and 25.

Mrs. D. Mark Cummings also is out of the hospital now, enjoying life as a convalescent at her home in Lake Forest, which she calls Ioka. She is looking forward to a visit this week from her daughter, Mrs. Curtis Munson, who has come from Washington, D. C., frequently since her mother's operation.

Mrs. Richard T. Crane Jr. still is in the Passavant hospital, where she has been for several weeks, having rushed home from her summer place, Castle Hill, at Ipswich, Mass., when she was taken ill. Her daughter, Mrs. William A. Robinson, came with her and still is here. Mrs. Crane is convalescing nicely, but has no plans for leaving the hospital as yet.

Mrs. Cyrus G. Hill is another who has had a hospital siege but who is at home now, feeling very well and very busy getting ready to take her three little daughters up to Charlevoix, Mich., next week for the summer.

Mrs. Frederick L. McNally is having a little rest in the Passavant hospital, but it wasn't just to rest that she went there, for she has a sprained leg and also has had a tonsilectomy.

Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson is still in a hospital in New York, but she is expected to join her family soon at Northeast Harbor, Me., where the Ryersons have taken a house for the summer.

Joan Crawford Meets Famous Oriental Star

Visitor Gets Prop Needed in New Movie.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., June 28.—[Special.]—Evidently Joan Crawford had never heard that it's Japanese etiquet to make a gift of any article which a guest permits the Japanese person to know the guest would like to have.

That is, Joan didn't know it until yesterday afternoon. She knows it now.

Miss Sachiko Chiba, Japanese motion picture star who is well known through the orient—so much so that English speaking press agents term her "the Greta Garbo of Japan"—had been brought onto Miss Crawford's set of "The Gorgeous Hussy" at Metro studio as a visitor.

Miss Chiba was a demure picture, prettier than the loveliest cherry blossom that ever saw a tree, in kimono of rose and white, silk slippers of salmon pink and silver, with parasol of white silk bordered in rose color designs.

"O, what a beautiful parasol," the American actress exclaimed in the process of making small talk after the amenities of introduction. "Do you like it?" Miss Chiba asked, smiling. "O, I think it is lovely. Can you tell me where I can buy one like it?"

Miss Chiba smiled again. "May I delight myself by presenting it to you?" she asked and handed the parasol to Joan, who was taken aback. But the little lady's tone was so gracious and pleased that there was nothing to do but accept it.

A moment later as they sat on canvas set chairs side by side, Joan mentioned Miss Chiba's dainty salmon slippers. "I wonder where I could get some slippers like those?" she said, and then caught herself, remembering.

But the Japanese beauty was taking off her slippers.

"O, now—but——" Joan was expostulating.

Luckily, Miss Chiba's slippers, which seemed certainly no larger than size three, proved too small for Joan, who drew a sigh of relief. Miss Chiba said: "You must permit me to forward some as soon as I get back to Tokio next month."

Joan looked thoughtful. A minute later she had one of the set boys fetch a beautiful black satin beaded bag from her dressing room. It was a bag specially created by Designer Gilbert Adrian for use in this picture.

"I hope you will give me the pleasure of accepting this example of our American workmanship," she said to Miss Chiba. The latter smiled, bowed and accepted.

But while international and feminine pride was thus being placed on an even keel the prop men and the assistant director were groaning out of earshot. They either have to find a double for Adrian's bag, which does not exist because Adrian creates only one of everything, or they must try to induce him to design a new one so that no interruption can occur in the time allowed for filming the scene with the bag.

HAROLD TEEN—STILL HER BIG, BRAVE AND HANDSOME

Simplicity Is Paramount

MISS' FROCK.

Above all, you want sports dresses to be comfortable and simple. They must be easily laundered and equally simple to press. The princess fashion subscribes ideally to these requirements, since it buttons from neckline almost to the hem, and therefore opens out flat on the ironing board and facilitates pressing.

The princess dress illustrated today has a charming little shirtwaist collar and a pert bow. There is nothing to this dress, you might say, and indeed you are correct in your opinion, but the simplicity of the frock is one of its chief charms, since it is created in sizes suitable for slim young figures.

Style No. 2822 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20 years. Size 16 requires 3¼ yards of 39 inch material, with ⅞ yard of 35 inch contrasting.

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Are there any little boys or girls who'd like to go to a baseball game? Sounds almost as funny as asking if kids like ice cream and cake, but I mean it!

Every week this summer I'm going to have a party for boys and girls, and one of the parties is to be out at Cubs park, where, thanks to P. K. Wrigley, 100 lucky boys and girls will see the Chicago Cubs play the Brooklyn Dodgers on July 9.

I want to find 50 boys and 50 girls who are real, honest-to-goodness baseball fans and who'll have a grand time seeing this game. If you think such a description fits you, all you have to do is write a letter and let me know about it, and if you can convince me that a ticket won't be wasted on you, maybe you'll be one of my happy group.

Remember when you're writing to do it all by yourself, and don't forget to tell me your name, address and age. Please don't ask for invitations for brothers or sisters or little friends. If they want to come have them write their own letters, and send 'em along with yours.

I'm going to read all your letters next Thursday—so if you intend to be a winner, be sure that you write in time to have your note reach Sally Joy Brown, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago, by that date.

BY MARY MEADE.

Not so many years ago cookbooks specified that cabbage should be cooked for an hour or two hours. That's why so many people still won't eat it! Cook the vegetable for five or ten minutes and you have a delicately flavored dish which appeals to both eye and palate. But cook it longer than that, and the vegetable begins to develop an unpleasant flavor and, worse than that, an unpleasant odor.

Cabbage with Sour Sauce.

¼ cup vinegar
¼ cup water
2 quarts shredded cabbage
1 onion
1 tablespoon salt
1 teaspoon sugar
Pepper

Cut bacon in small pieces, and cook until crisp. Add vinegar, water, cabbage, onion, and seasonings. Place in pan and cook until the cabbage is just tender. Do not overcook.

CABBAGE WITH MUSHROOM SAUCE.

Toss chopped cabbage into boiling salted water and cook until barely tender. Drain and serve with a white sauce made from 1 cup of cream of mushroom soup, 1 tablespoon butter, and 1½ tablespoons flour.

Cabbage and Tomatoes.

1 cup strained tomato pulp
1½ cups bread crums
1½ cups grated cheese
Salt, pepper
2 cups chopped cooked cabbage

Mix tomatoes with 1 cup of the crums and 1 cup of the cheese. Add seasonings. Place alternate layers of cabbage and tomato mixture in buttered casserole, sprinkle the remaining cheese and crums on top, and bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees] for about 20 minutes.

Usually to make slaw you simply shred the cabbage finely, and moisten it with a cooked salad dressing or French dressing. However, many persons prefer a cream and vinegar dressing.

According to CULBERTSON

REBIDS BY THE NO TRUMP BIDDER.

When your partner has responded to your opening no trump with a jump take-out [three of a suit] his bid is forcing to game and may be a slam try. But the opening hand should not carry the bidding past game without great additional values, leaving it to the responding hand to take the initiative in slam bidding.

After a forcing take-out, raise your partner's major suit if you hold four trumps, or A K x or A Q x.

Bid four no trump over the forcing take-out if you hold a maximum no trump bid [about five honor tricks].

An alternative bid, if the forcing take-out is in a minor suit and you have a five honor trick hand including A K x or A Q x of partner's suit, is to raise the minor suit to four.

Show any biddable suit you may hold if it is higher ranking than the suit in which the forcing take-out is made.

Informative Bidding.

A shrewd declarer often can glean more information from the bidding of an opponent [assuming that the opponent is a sound bidder] than from that of his own partner. In today's hand a daringly bid slam was fulfilled by an even more daring play predicated entirely by an opponent's bidding.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
3 cl. [1]	3 sp.	4 ht.	Double
4 sp. [2]	5 dl.	Double	5 sp.
6 cl.	Pass	Pass	Pass

[1]. A two-way three bid.
[2]. An asking bid.

South's slam bid was questionable. He knew that five spades could be punished, but, on the reasoning that he was vulnerable while the opponents were not, he decided to gamble for the maximum. East deserved credit for not doubling six clubs. His pass was a valiant effort to conceal his probable trump trick.

West opened the queen of spades and, before playing from either hand, declarer gave searching consideration to the bidding. It was obvious that West, who could be no stronger than queen high in either of his suits, must have terrific distribution to justify his two bids, the latter one at the five level. The most likely distribution for such bidding was 6-6-1. What was the "1"? Declarer saw an almost certain way to find out, and promptly launched his plan.

He won the first lead with the spade ace and led a heart up to dummy. When West followed, declarer went up with the ace and, as per his analysis, played East for all five missing trumps! He led dummy's singleton and played the nine spot from his own hand! The soundness of his reasoning met with just reward.

Obviously, had West ruffed the heart lead, declarer would not have lost a heart trick; and with West ruffing, East could not have had more than four clubs.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: With both sides vulnerable, is it sound bridge to incur a 500 point penalty as a sacrifice against opponents' sure game?

Answer: Yes, unless you are playing a cut or pivot game, and your current partnership is inferior to the opponents'.

28 Teams Survive Preliminaries in Contract Contest

Play in the finals of the national contract pair championship contest was started last night at the 46th annual congress of the American Whist league, held in the Stevens hotel. Twenty-eight teams which survived the preliminaries are competing. The leading team in the qualifying rounds is composed of Edward Hymes Jr. and M. D. Maier of New York. Another high score team has as members Louis Haddad of Chicago and Oswald Jacoby of New York, whose pairing was suggested by Ely Culbertson. The contest, which is directed by Andrew J. Mouat, will end tonight.

Ideal Figure Has Graceful and Soft Lines

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Every once in a while some one writes to ask me about the ideal figure and what its proportions are. And every once in a while some gymnasium, or school, or press agent with a particular girl in mind, presents us with the perfect measurements for bust, waist, hips, ankle girth, etc. But traditional figures have undergone change.

The same rule applies to the figure today as applies to the face. The face, as you know, can be fairly homely, and still not be deprived of admiration. But the figure today certainly does not have to conform to standard measurements.

Loretta Young's figure is her own lovely flowing line. Dolores del Rio's and Joan Blondell's silhouettes belong to their own respective selves. And yours is yours and about all that is asked of it [which isn't so little, either], is that you keep it trimmed down, with enough fatty tissue to give it form and pleasing contour.

An undulating silhouette perhaps best describes the current ideal, presenting extreme neatness and trimness, and bearing an alive, eager carriage. You may be five feet one, or five feet nine, and have as ideal a figure as you will need, providing it suggests health and a good foundation for clothes with the grace to carry them off well.

If any one were to demand a briefer description, a three word summary of the good modern figure, I'd say "a clothes horse" line. However, this doesn't mean the flat elongated line of fashion illustrations. It means the line of silhouette that would show to advantage in a bathing suit, which qualification in turn implies no scrawny lines, hollows, and the like, which might easily be hidden behind clever dress architecture.

All Fireworks Are Dangerous for Children

Fourth of July Negligence Invites Tragedy.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Plans for celebrating the Fourth without any fireworks at all, or if there is a clamor for fireworks, for having them set off in a neighborhood or community display, may still be made.

The reason for this yearly concern about Fourth of July accidents already may have been brought home to you. If it hasn't, some extracts from investigations that have been made will show you why we feel as we do. To quote:

"But now comes Dr. Cofer, a medical man and surgeon of long experience—an experience in which burns and battered bones, and even death are daily occurrences—and finds in the casualties of the Fourth of July a similarity to the casualties of the world war.

"You will, therefore, not be surprised to learn that at least 7,738 persons were injured and at least 30 killed as the result of the celebration of last year's Fourth with the use of fireworks and accompanying paraphernalia, such as matches, bonfires, and so forth."

For you own protection, and the protection of your children, would you like to know which type of fireworks have done the most damage?

Ordinary firecrackers cause two out of every three casualties. Next comes the terrible cherry bombs. After those the torpedo ranks next in damage done, and then come the cannon crackers.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Already, though we haven't had a great deal of extremely hot weather, the anguished cries of women who have damaged their hair by too much sun are beginning to reach our ears.

The cause of the trouble dictates the cure. Too much sun takes the oil out of hair. When this happens, the hair becomes dry and brittle, luster vanishes and even the color is affected. This can all be prevented, of course, if you are temperate about toasting yourself when you're hatless and if you have enough forethought to arm yourself for what sun your hair does get.

There's brushing—still the world's best hair beautifier; redouble your efforts in this direction. Then there are hot oil treatments. Have these before your shampoos all through the summer if you're planning to lie on the beach or to go in for active outdoor sports.

And there is also a good product designed expressly to protect the hair. This is a light oil, made by some well known hair specialists. We recommend it for women who find that the sun makes the hair drab. Some blonde hair gets straw colored and even dark hair has been known to streak.

This can be used just as a brilliantine would be—applied to the surface either with the palms of the hands or with an atomizer. It does a good job of protecting, and because it's light it won't make the hair greasy—provided, of course, that you use it properly. Remember that a little bit does the trick; don't douse the hair with it.

It has a nice, clean, rather lemony fragrance; it's colorless and can be used on either light or dark hair.

STAKE RACERS OPEN SEASON AT ARLINGTON

Inaugural Handicap Draws Field of 22.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Part of the job of making every one feel at home this afternoon at the opening of the Arlington Park Jocky club's racing season will be taken over by the horses themselves in the running of the feature race on the day's program—the $2,500 Inaugural handicap.

In that race, even the most casual visitor at Arlington Park is bound to feel a glow of pride over his personal knowledge and familiarity with the horses that will make up the field. The name of every horse in this race has been a headline name at one time or another.

Who hasn't heard of Nellie Flag, Whopper, The Fighter, Count Arthur, Toro Nancy, Erin Torch, Billy Bee, Whereaway, and all the other starters? My goodness, yes! That's one we picked to win last year.

If this Inaugural handicap is a fair indication of what Arlington Park will offer during its thirty day meeting, then Chicago, for the next month at least, is in for the finest racing that will be offered in America.

Whereaway Looks Good.

The winner of the Inaugural? Well, my personal guess is Whereaway, for this 4 year old son of Stimulus-Bobolink has improved more than any other horse in the country during the last two months. He is fully capable of showing the rest of them the way home in the 7 furlong gallop.

Yet, for that matter, every other horse in the race can do it. That makes horse racing and is what makes Arlington's opening day topliner one of the biggest puzzlers offered anywhere this year.

The overnight field included 22 horses, and Racing Secretary Charles McLennan yesterday expected a starting group of at least 15. The early support went to Warren Wright's entry of Pharosay and Nellie Flag, to Hal Price Headley's entry Whopper and Preëminent, and to Mrs. Ethel V. Mars' color bearers, The Fighter and Whiskolo. The favorite will wind up at 3 to 1 or more, for the Inaugural is a wide open battle.

The stake race is supported by one of the most attractive cards ever offered at Arlington. The Barrington purse at a mile, and the Arlington Heights purse over the same route bring into action some more of the best horses in training. Among them are Carvola, Dnieper, Bow and Arrow, West Main, Wise Duke, and Silversmith.

Everything Is Ready.

In an eleventh hour rehersal yesterday afternoon, all of Arlington's new modern race track equipment was sent into action for a final test.

The "Eye in the Sky" was turned on and allowed to picture one horse beating another by the margin of an inch. The new totalizator registered bets, odds and money wagered in a swift and uncanny manner. Workouts during the morning showed the track is approximately two-fifths of a second to the mile faster than it was last year, and yet it still carries a safe surface cushion.

It was even demonstrated that the cocktails tasted better in the new club house cocktail lounge than they did at the old stand a year ago.

With but a few exceptions the turf colony at Arlington was mobilized completely last night. It is more of an intersectional gathering than any other track, wherever situated, has been able to attract. The finest horses from every part of this country and Canada in charge of the best horsemen in the land have come not only to seek the rich purses but to test a horse from one section against one from another part of the country.

$10,000 Stake on Saturday Card.

A second stake to be decided during the opening week of the season is the $10,000 Stars and Stripes handicap to be run Saturday. This race is expected to bring A. G. Vanderbilt's champion Discovery back to the scene of some of his greatest triumphs while winning the championship last year.

HAGEN, LAFFOON WIN FOUR BALL TEAM TOURNEY

Toledo, O., June 28.—(AP)—Walter Hagen and Ky Laffoon won the Inverness four ball team play tournament today, staving off a last minute drive by Ray Mangrum and Craig Wood. Hagen and Laffoon suffered their only defeat in the tourney in the last match by Mangrum and Wood, 3 up, but they had built up enough of an edge in the six previous rounds to finish at the top.

Mangrum and Wood clicked into second place, with Harry Cooper and Horton Smith finishing third. First place was worth $1,000 to Hagen and Laffoon, and they added another $100 for the low best ball score, 9 under par 62. The final standings and prizes:

Hagen and Laffoon, plus 13, $1,100; Mangrum and Wood, plus 11, $800; Smith and Cooper, plus 9, $700; Denny Shute and Vic Ghezzi, even, $600; Henry Picard and Johnny Revolta, minus 3, $500; Lawson Little and Jimmy Thompson, minus 7, $400; Armour and Cruickshank, minus 11, $300; Jimmy Hines and Willie Klein, minus 12, $200,

DINGHIES OFF TO A FLYING START IN TRIBUNE'S REGATTA

Chicago Corinthian dinghies starting their race once around the course in the Chicago Tribune's regatta at Montrose harbor yesterday. It was the first dinghy race held in Lake Michigan waters. The dinghies, small boats in which passengers and crews ferry from yachts to the shore, do not have sails, but the skippers put them on their little craft for sport. It beats rowing and is much more exciting. [TRIBUNE Photos.]

The winners in the Tribune's regatta receive their prizes from Sheldon Clark, regatta committee chairman and commodore of the Yachtsmen's Association of America, in the presence of other regatta officials. Left to right, they are: David C. Zimmerman, commodore of Lake Michigan Yachting association; George R. Clark, race committee chairman of Chicago Corinthian Yacht club; David Root, winner of Chicago Corinthian dinghy race; Miss Marion Hofstetter, winning lady skipper; Paul Hansen, winner of snipe class; Sheldon Clark; Roger Friskey, skipper of winning junior team; Edmund Spence, Clearwater, Fla., winner of the prize for the entrant who came the longest distance to compete; Leeds Mitchell Jr., winner of the Dyer dink and dinghy winners' match race; Hank Worthman, winner of sailing canoe race.

11 Year Old Skipper Heads Winners in Tribune Regatta

Roger Friskey, the youngest skipper in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE sailing regatta for small boats, was the outstanding winner of the meet, held yesterday off Montrose harbor. The event, in which nearly sixty canvas craft and more than double that number of men, women, and boys as crews competed, opened Lake week, devoted to voyaging and yachting on inland fresh water.

It was in the junior race, sailed in dinghies, that Skipper Friskey, 11 years old, and his crew, John [Dinty] Hayford, 10, starred. The pair, one of the Sheridan Shore Yacht club's two teams in the event, defeated eight other teams of older boys and girls. Friskey and Hayford are experienced sailors. Dinty Hayford has sailed since he was a baby. He is the son of Max Hayford, former Northwestern university swimming captain.

Hansen First Winner.

Second in the junior race went to Philip Q. Upton, skipper, and Don Goldman, crew, from the St. Joseph River [Mich.] Yacht club. Upton, the Great Lakes Star class champion, also sailed F. F. Garlock's North American Dinghy association class D dinghy, with Goldman as crew, to third place in the race for that class.

The first race in the regatta was won by Paul Hansen and Milton Hansen in their Wilmette harbor Snipe fleet entry, Kristina. Moby Dick, Fleet Captain Percy Wilson's sloop, was second. Mrs. Wilson, who acted as her husband's crew, also competed in the Lady Skipper race. Fuzzikin, Ed Spence's entry from the Clearwater [Fla.] Yacht club, with Hobart Todd of Oak Park, Ill., as crew, finished third. Fuzzikin's owner-skipper also received the prize for bringing a boat from the greatest distance to compete.

Dinghy Capsizes, Continues Race.

Commodore Hank Worthman, former international sailing canoe champion, who capsized and righted his boat to sail on to victory last August, sailed smoothly through the fleet yesterday. Worthman, who is head of the western division of the American Canoe association, defeated his racing partner, Commodore A. R. [Nap] Prager. Prentice Shethar was third. All three place winners represent the Columbia Canoe club.

Eighteen Chicago Corinthian dinghies sailed under the flags of three yacht clubs. Liane, Charles Sprague's 10½ footer from the Michigan City Yacht club, skippered by David Root, vice commodore of the club, with Frank Sprague, the owner's son, as crew, won the event in 1 hour and 20 minutes. The race was sailed once around the mile and a half course.

Talking It Over

[Copyright: 1936: By The Chicago Tribune.]

THE Louis-Schmeling bout was consistent in at least one respect. . . . It has given rise to the usual rumors that follow an unexpected outcome of a sports event. . . . For several days after Al Singer knocked out Sammy Mandell to win the lightweight championship a few years ago nearly every one in Rockford, as well as in many other centers, was convinced Mandell had been drugged. . . . Louis' fans seem to have more endurance, however, than Mandell's. . . . There has been no letup in the inquiries that have swamped this department. . . . Here are a few of the questions we are requested to answer authoritatively and unequivocally every evening: Is it true that Louis was drugged? Is it true that his cooks put poison in his soup? Is it true that pieces of steel and concrete were found in Schmeling's glove? Is it true that Louis' handlers double crossed him? Is it true that marital difficulties upset him emotionally? Is it true that he and Mrs. Louis quarreled until 3 o'clock in the morning the day of the match? Is it true what they say about Dixie?

First of all this department desires to make clear that as a result of its fan mail the last ten days it wishes to agree with all people at all times on all things. . . . So our answers have been yes and no to all inquiries. . . . It probably will do no good to have the facts revealed, but Mr. Louis and this department are of the opinion that the only thing wrong with Mr. Louis was that Mr. Louis forgot to duck. . . .

In fairness to a young couple who are trying to get along, if the rest of the world will please let them, the rumors about marital strife need a little airing. . . . There is a story widely circulated on the south side that on the evening before the Schmeling match Joe intercepted a letter addressed to his wife, the former Marva Trotter, from an old suitor, Joe Gibbons, 6552 Vernon avenue, Chicago, a driver for the Jackie Cab company. . . . This letter is alleged to have thrown the fighter into a rage and "those in the know" say he and Marva quarreled until the early hours of the morning. . . . Therefore, they contend, Louis was unable to concentrate about the business at hand—a match with Schmeling. . . .

The two individuals who know whether the story is true or not deny it emphatically. . . . They are Mr. and Mrs. Joe Louis. . . . "It's ridiculous," said Marva. . . . "If I had gotten a letter, do you think I would have told Joe about it the night before the fight? Joe is moody that way. When anything worries him he doesn't talk about it much. He just broods. I know that my welfare and his are more important to him than any fight. He has told me that." . . . Mrs. Louis admits, however, that the night before the bout her Joe came to see her in New York. . . . "It was the night they postponed the fight," she said. . . . "It was raining. Joe had been to dinner on Edgecomb place. I was supposed to go, but didn't want to go out in the rain. He came over to where I was staying nearby. He didn't remain long, not more than half an hour, and we had no dispute of any kind," she added. . . .

From Sheridan Bruseaux, a south side detective, this department learned that Joe Gibbons, the taxi driver, took out a license to marry Marva in 1934 before she became engaged to Louis. . . . Gibbons and Mrs. Louis both admit this is true. . . . Gibbons claimed that his mother in New York had spent nearly $1,000 in furnishing an apartment for them. . . . When Marva decided to marry Louis the taxi driver demanded a monetary settlement from her and, according to Gibbons and his attorney, Harry Levy, she paid him $300 to forget the whole affair. . . . Mrs. Louis has confirmed this arrangement. . . . "It was something Julian Black [Louis' manager] had settled through his attorney, Irving Mollison," she recently told a reporter from this department. "I didn't know anything about it until Joe Gibbons told me about it at a dance given by the Cute Kittens club in the spring at Bacon's Casino, 49th street and Wabash avenue. It seemed a lot of money to pay him, even if it was only $300, just to get him not to molest me, but I left all this to them." . . . The Cute Kittens club is made up of colored girls from Englewood High school. . . . Marva was graduated from Englewood in 1933. . . . She says that their meeting at the Cute Kittens dance was the first time she had seen Gibbons since her marriage to Louis. . . . "He told me he wanted to see me," Marva said, "but I told him I couldn't talk because every one was watching me. He said I had broken his heart, that he was in love with me and didn't want to hurt me, but wanted to see me about something. I kept asking him what it was. I said that I was in love with Joe Louis, that I was married and couldn't call him or see him at all." . . .

Marva said she had received three letters from Gibbons. . . . The first came last February. . . . He also sent her flowers when she was sick, about that time, with a card "From a friend." . . . She said she knew it was his. . . . She said she gave the first letter to Julian Black and destroyed the other two. . . . Asked if she had shown the letter to Joe, she replied: "No, but I told him about it." . . . She insisted she had received no letter from Gibbons recently. . . . When a reporter inquired if she ever had talked to Joe about the $300 payment to Gibbons, she said: "No. But I am sure Julian must have told him all about it at the time." . . . She said she didn't think she had been out with Gibbons more than half a

SOX TRIUMPH, 4-1, AFTER LOSING TO SENATORS, 12-9

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The White Sox yesterday bounced back behind Sugar Cain's gorgeous pitching to beat the Washington Senators, 4 to 1, after a humiliating collapse before 23,000 in the first game of the double-header, in which the Senators scored twelve runs in the last five innings to win, 12 to 9, in the tenth.

Ben Chapman opened the second game with a home run and that concluded the Senators' scoring for the day. The Senators did not get a runner on base from the fourth until one was out in the ninth, when Stone doubled for the sixth Washington hit.

The Sox made only four hits themselves, but they were aptly placed. Two errors gave them the trying run in the first inning; a walk and successive doubles by Rip Radcliff and Larry Rosenthal were good for two runs in the third inning and the final run was chalked on Rosenthal's second homer in two days. The run in the first inning was the only one which Rosenthal did not drive in.

Kennedy Bogs Down.

After holding the Senators to two singles and no runs in the first five innings of the opener, during which time the Sox piled up a 4 to 0 lead, Vern Kennedy began to bog down. The Senators made two runs in the sixth and the Sox countered with one run in their half. Each team made a run in the seventh. The Senators then tied the score with three runs in the eighth.

The Sox scored three runs in their half of the eighth to go ahead, 9 to 6, but the Senators came back with three more in the ninth to tie the score once more. Two of the runs, both unearned, came in after Manager Jimmy Dykes had summoned Babe Phelps and his goose ball with familiar results. Ossie Bluege greeted Jimmy's boy with a single for those two tying runs, but if Jim had moved a little faster on his feet he might have saved his pet reliever with a game salvaging stop.

The Goose Ball! They Love It!

In the tenth the Senators showed the fervor for the goose ball that recently has been displayed in one eight run inning staged by the Athletics and a six run session by the Yankees. They scored three runs in the tenth, after two were out, on a double by Lewis, a single by Kuhel, and a homer by Stone.

FIRST GAME

Newsom walked Haas, Bonura, and Appling with two out in the first inning. He threw three wide ones to Piet, but he also threw three strikes to whiff Tony.

Piet also terminated the second inning, but only two died on base this time, not to mention the fact that four scored before Tony did his terminating. After Dykes had been thrown out by Bluege, Grube was credited with a single after Kress had lost his pop fly in the sun. Kennedy fanned, but Radcliff lined a double to right, Grube stopping at third. Rosenthal walked, filling the bases, and Haas and Bonura got their second passes, forcing in Grube and Radcliff. Appling singled to right, Rosenthal and Haas scoring and Bonura reaching third. Piet then flied to Chapman.

Kennedy Hits Double.

Kennedy led off the home sixth with a double to the score board in left center and went to third while Radcliff was grounding out. Rosenthal walked, then Haas singled to left, scoring Kennedy. Bonura flied to Travis and Appling forced Haas.

With one out in the Washington

Lead Cardinals by One-half Game.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 28.—The Cubs put on their championship regalia today and went parading back into first place, from which they were unceremoniously removed by the Cardinals on May 8. They regained the coveted position when they dazzled 32,786 spectators and wrecked the Giants 3 to 0, in the front half of a doubleheader. Then, to strengthen their lease on the post and at the same time provide the eastern tour with a fitting finale, they triumphed again, 6 to 0. They lead the Cardinals by one half game.

The double victory carried out the scheme the Cubs established when they opened the eastern swing with intentions of proving they were going to crush for all time the notion they couldn't win on the road. They took two at Philadelphia and the first two at Brooklyn to stretch their winning streak to 15 games. The Dodgers broke the streak in the final. Three victories were accomplished in four starts at Boston, and three out of four here. That's 10 victories and 3 defeats in the east, and 21 victories in the last 24 games.

Sixth Victory for Larry.

The first battle principally was a matter of Larry French's southpawing and a few thunderous hits off bats wielded by the champions. While on his way to his sixth victory and his second shutout of the year, French had his customary stormy moments. Twice the Giants thought they had him cornered with two runners on the bags with one out. Once they had three on with one out. French leaped over these obstacles with the grace of a greyhound.

There was nothing announced about it being oldtimers' day, but this didn't discourage the aged Gabby Hartnett from lending a hand in the promotion of the French cause. Old Gabby figured in the first run off the talented Carl Hubbell by tripling. He figured in the third and last run by peeling off his season's fifth homer against Fred Fitzsimmons in the eighth. In between these two happenings Augie Galan and Frank Demaree promoted the second run off Hubbell, who was brilliant enough to strike out seven in his seven innings of futile labor.

Lee Stops 'Em Cold.

The champions carried the same brilliancy, the same consistency, into the second fight of the afternoon. There was no French present to keep the enemy in check, but there was an able substitute in Bill Lee. Not unlike French, the stately Lee had his moments. He either pulled out by himself or his infield turned in amazing tricks that convinced the patrons they had best cheer the champions, give the Giants the razz or go home before the finish. They did all three.

FIRST GAME

The Cubs' first run in the second inning of the opening game was slightly tinged with luck. Hartnett led off with a fly to deep left, but Moore, as he started to sprint for the ball, slipped on the soggy turf. Hartnett made three bases on it. An instant later Demaree rammed a real triple to right center and Gabby scored. After Stainback had been tossed out, the Cubs encountered a bit of bum luck in the shape of a great defensive play. Cavarretta flied to right and Demaree tried to score, but was doubled on Ott's bulletlike peg to Danning, who skilfully blocked the runner off the plate.

French Gets in Trouble.

French met up with his first serious obstacle in the fourth. With one out, Whitehead singled and stopped at third on Ott's double which caromed off the tip of Herman's glove. An intentional pass to Leiber filled the bases. The Giants faded on Leslie's short fly to Demaree, and Danning's tap to Hack, which was good for a forceout at second.

French was up to his neck in complications again in the fifth. Bartell and Hubbell singled with one out. A pop foul off Moore's bat and Whitehead's roller to Hack concluded this troublesome incident. It was almost the same in the seventh. Jackson and Bartell singled with one gone and when Galan fumbled the latter hit the runners moved to third and second. Mancuso swung for Hubbell and popped to Herman, who later threw out Moore. These were the last hits off the Cub southpaw.

Gabby Hits No. 5 Home Run.

Hartnett was kept out of the picture in the sixth, but Galan and Demaree took care of the production of the Cubs' second run. Galan started it with a double that zipped down the third base line. Hartnett tried to horn in on the sport, but his hard drive was knocked down by Hubbell, who threw him out. Demaree then singled to center and Galan scored.

After this the Cubs notched only two hits, one of them being Hartnett's No. 5 homer which dropped into the upper tier in right while

TIGERS DEFEAT ATHLETICS, 10-4; SWEEP SERIES

League Champs Back in Form Behind Auker.

Detroit, June 28.—(AP)—Elden Auker pitched Detroit to a 10 to 4 triumph over the Philadelphia Athletics today, giving the Tigers their fourth straight victory and a sweep of the series.

Auker allowed 10 hits, the same number granted by the two opposing pitchers, Kelley and Naktenis. Wildness of the Philadelphia moundsmen, combined with some good walloping by the Tigers, gave Auker his sixth victory of the season. Five batters who walked later crossed the plate. Goose Goslin hit his eleventh home run of the season with two runners on base in the fourth inning.

TERRY AND THE PIRATES—PLAGUE PANORAMA

Dean Pounded, Dodgers Beat Cards, 5 to 1

Brooklyn, June 28.—(AP)—The lowly Brooklyn Dodgers fired an 11 hit barrage at Dizzy Dean today and handed him his fourth defeat of the season, 5 to 1, snapping their own five game losing streak at the same time.

Rookie Buddy Hassett, the Dodgers' first baseman, was cast in the hero's rôle, hammering out a homer, triple, and single off Dean. Fred Frankhouse let the Cardinals down with five hits.

PIRATES, 11—4; BEES, 2—6.

Boston, Mass., June 28.—(AP)—The season's largest crowd at National league park, 18,133 saw the Bees outplay the Pirates, 6 to 4, in the second game of a double-header today, after being crushed, 11 to 2, in the opener. The Bees closed their stand against the west with seven victories and seven defeats.

Cy Blanton's performance in the opener, in which he limited the Bees to four hits, two of them in the last inning, was his sixth victory.

The Pirates found tough going against Cantwell in the second game, however, and were trailing, 6-1, going into the ninth, when they finally solved the Boston pitcher's delivery and knocked him out.

Cubs Blank Giants Twice; Lead League

SECOND GAME

The Giants opened the second battle by graciously presenting their guests with a run. Coffman walked Herman with one out and Galan bounced a hit over first, but neglected to stop and was thrown out at second by Ott. O'Dea then bounced to Leslie and Coffman covered the bag on the play, but Leslie threw wild. O'Dea went to second and Herman scored on the error. The next Cub run was Herman's third homer, which plunked against the upper eft field façade with one on in the third.

Jurges Makes Great Play.

Jurges prevented Lee from surrendering a run in the second. Jackson tripled after two were out and Jurges ended the inning with a dizzy stop and throw from deep short on Bartell's clout. Lee had another close call after two were out in the third. Whitehead and Ripple singled, and the dangerous Mr. Ott plunked one for distance. Luckily it headed for the open space in right center, instead of close to the foul line where the distance is short. Gill was able to get it.

When Smith showed up for work in the fifth the Cubs made it 3 to 0. Galan walked with one out. O'Dea hoisted a fly to left and Moore caused the crowd to titter when he dropped the ball. Demaree singled and Galan scored. Demaree then retired because his left ankle was troubling him as the result of banging into Danning at the plate in the second inning of the first game.

O'Dea, Stainback Hit Doubles.

SKINNY WEAK RUNDOWN FOLKS
New Sea Plant IODINE Strengthens Blood and Glands—Adds Lbs. Quick!

Thousands of skinny, weak, worn-out, rundown men and women who are nervous, sick and ailing hardly realize their principal trouble is very frequently iodine starved glands. When these glands, particularly the glands which control weight and strength building, lack natural iodine (do not confuse this with ordinary chemical iodine which oftentimes is toxic) even diets rich in fats and starches fail to add weight and produce strength and energy. That's why skinny, worn-out, tired folks often have huge appetites and yet the food they eat does them little good. Only when the system gets an adequate supply of iodine can you regulate metabolism—the body's process of converting digested food into firm flesh, new strength and energy.

With Kelpamalt, a mineral concentrate made from a huge 90 foot sea plant, you may be sure of your needed ration of plant iodine in easily assimilable form. 1300 times richer in iodine than oysters, Kelpamalt mixes with your food and helps your food do you good. It stimulates the glands which produce the juices that enable you to get the good out of fats and starches—the weight building foods. With proper assimilation of nourishment you build rugged strength, increase nerve force, banish fatigue and add weight.

Try Kelpamalt for a single week and notice the difference. See flattering extra pounds of "stay-there flesh" appear in place of skinny hollows. Notice how much better you feel and if you do not gain strength and weight the first week the trial is free. Your own doctor will approve this way. Seedol Kelpamalt costs but a few cents a day to use. Get it today

Lyons Faces Bridges and Tigers Today

Ted Lyons will pitch the opener against the aroused Detroit Tigers at Comiskey Park today. He will be opposed by that distinguished pain in the Chicago neck, Tommy Bridges.

The world champs will linger four days at this port.

SOX TRIUMPH, 4-1, AFTER LOSING TO SENATORS, 12-9

The Sox had one run home and the bases full when the home seventh ended. Piet opened with a single to left, went to second on Dykes' cut, to third on an infield single by Grube, and scored while Kennedy was forcing Grube. Radcliff singled to right, Kennedy taking third, and Rosenthal walked, loading the bases. Haas then bounced out to Kuhel.

Senators Tie Score.

Kennedy was touched for three runs and a tie in the eighth. With one out Stone singled to right and stopped at second on Travis' single to left. Kress walked, filling the bases, then Bluege doubled over third, Stone and Travis scoring and Kress stopping at third. Appling threw out Millies, Kress scoring the tying run. Newsom fanned.

The Sox made three runs in their eighth. Bonura, Appling, and Piet loaded the bases on successive singles. Bonura scored and other runners advanced on a wild pitch. Grube singled to left, his third hit, scoring Appling and Piet.

The Senators tied the score with three more runs in the ninth. Appling made a great play back of second to get Chapman's high bouncer and throw him out, but Lewis singled to right. Kuhel flied to Rosenthal for the second out. Radcliff dropped Stone's fly for an error after a hard run, Lewis scoring and Stone reaching second. Travis drove a single off Appling's glove and stole second. Kress walked after a three and two count, loading the bases. Phelps came in and threw three balls and a strike to Bluege, after which Ossie rolled a single past Dykes into left, Stone and Travis scoring the tying runs. Millies forced Bluege.

There were two out in the tenth when the Senators started shelling Dykes' boy.

SECOND GAME

Chapman got the second game under way with a home run into the lower deck of the left field stands. Lewis flied to Radcliff, Kuhel fouled to Sewell and Stone flied to Radcliff.

The Sox tied it up without the semblance of a hit in their half of the first inning. Radcliff was safe on Kress' fumble and Rosenthal walked. Millies threw wild to Kuhel, trying to catch Rosenthal napping, and Radcliff hustled over to third. Kreevich hit into a double play, Radcliff scoring; then Bonuera fouled to Millies.

The Sox took the lead in the third. Cain walked, then Radcliff registered the first Chicago hit, a double off the right field wall, Cain stopping at third. Rosenthal dumped a double into short left, scoring Cain and Radcliff. Kreevich whiffed and Bonura flied to Travis. Appling, after fouling a dozen pitches, was thrown out by Kress.

Rosenthal made his homer with two out in the seventh.

SUTTER DEFEATS JOHN IN COLLEGE TENNIS SINGLES

Dey, Seward of Stanford Win Doubles Title.

Ernest Sutter of Tulane swept into the national intercollegiate singles championship yesterday with a smashing straight set victory over Vernon John of Southern California, 6-4, 6-4, 6-4.

The 21 years old college junior thus comes into the same title that his brother Cliff won in 1930 and 1932. It marks the first time in the 52 year old history of the tournament that two members of the same family have won the championship.

Stanford Pair Wins.

The coast gained an even break in the day's play when the No. 2 seeded team of Ben Dey and William Seward of Stanford defeated Normal Bickel and Norbert Burgess, Big Ten champions, in straight sets. The scores were 9-7, 6-2, 6-3.

In the opening set the local pair had a 4 to 2 lead when Seward broke service and the coast pair took the next three games for a 5 to 4 lead. They settled down and started to pop placement after placement, coupled with a series of hard overhead smashes, to sail through the next two sets. Seward's strong backhand smashes played an important part in the Indians' victory.

Sutter's bid for the intercollegiate title was his second, as last year he went to the semi-finals where he lost to Wilbur Hess of Rice institute, eventual winner of the title. Yesterday's championship was his third of the year. A month ago he won the Southern invitational intercollegiate title and two weeks ago captured the Southern championship.

Sutter, seeded No. 1 in the original field of 82 players, set a consistent pace all the way, winning all of his matches in straight sets. In his march to the title he defeated the following players: Rugg, Northwestern, 6-2, 6-3; Lott, Pennsylvania, 6-2, 6-4; Whitman, Princeton, 6-1 6-0; Law, Stanford, 11-9, 6-2; Mulloy, North Carolina, 6-0, 6-2; Potts, North Carolina, 6-4, 6-3, 6-2; John, Southern California, 6-4, 6-4, 6-4.

Thirty Games Go to Deuce.

Despite the conclusiveness of the score, yesterday's match was no sinecure for the southerner. Twenty of the 30 games went to deuce, but Sutter was able to apply the pressure whenever needed. He quickly discovered John's major weakness, his backhand, and played that whenever hard pressed.

Sutter outscored John, 44 placements to 25, while the Trojan hit 43 out of bounds to 39 for Sutter. John netted only 29 times to 33 for the southerner. Sutter piled up 116 points to 99 for John.

ARLINGTON PARK.

ARLINGTON PARK, out on the Northwest highway, opens its gates today for a thirty day racing period, which comprises five full weeks ending Aug. 1. Arlington Park is the high spot of the local season. It sets the pace and measures the class of Chicago racing because it attracts the leading stables and the most notable equine performers in the country.

This track is operated on a "non-profit" basis which is not quite what it sounds. It seeks profits not for distribution to its gentleman sportsmen stockholders, but profits to be poured back into improvements and into greater comfort and better attractions for patrons.

Post and Paddock club, strictly a membership affair, has no exact counterpart in the Chicago field. It furnishes society frills for the race meeting.

Like all race tracks in America, Arlington Park suffered curtailment of revenue during the depression. Such curtailment delayed some of the elaborate improvements originally planned, principally landscaping of the type which has made Hialeah famous. It was not allowed to interfere with anything pertaining to racing proper. Thus, visitors today will see operation of the "Eye in the Sky" camera, which accurately pictures nose finishes, and a new totalizator board in the infield, an improvement over the one destroyed by fire during the off season.

In its racing Arlington Park stake entries include the great juveniles in training. Its Classic enlists the remaining noncripples of the 3 year old division. Its running may determine the title among those of that age. Bold Venture, Brevity, others have been retired by training mishaps. Granville, Mr. Bones, Hollywood, Rushaway, other untried contenders reaching peak form will match steps for the title on July 25.

Other important stake events are: Inaugural handicap, June 29; Stars and Stripes handicap, July 4; Hyde Park stakes, 2 year olds, July 11; Arlington Lassie stakes, 2 year old fillies, July 18; Arlington Classic, 3 year olds, July 25; Arlington Futurity, 2 year olds, Aug. 1; Arlington handicap, Aug. 1.

NORWEGIANS WIN INTERNATIONAL SOCCER CROWN

The Norwegians defeated the Vikings yesterday, 3 to 2, to win the International Major Soccer league championship. The Vikings scored in the first half minute, Peterson taking the ball on the run to beat Martins. Fifteen minutes later Peterson again found the net.

The Norwegians scored after five minutes of the second period when Overland drove hard past Harkinson. With only twelve minutes left to play Mattson, from a long solo run, tied it up with a brilliant goal and in the last minute Overland put the Norwegians in front to win.

Other scores:

Viennas, 6; Chicago Sport Club, 0.
Calumet Park, 3; Hungarian Culters, 0.

Water Polo Stars Drill in Lagoon

Teams and individuals from California, Detroit, and New York arrived in the city over the week-end to begin final workouts for the national Olympic water polo and diving meet Friday, Saturday, and Sunday at Burnham park lagoon, directly east of Soldiers' field.

By Wednesday the list of 12 water polo teams and 20 divers will be completed. The Illinois Athletic club is sponsoring the meet.

The I. A. C. team, captained by Ralph Breyer, has been working in the lagoon for several days. The favorites, the Olympic club of San Francisco, the Los Angeles Athletic club, and the New York Athletic club, will drill this week. The starting I. A. C. squad probably will be Jerry Miller, George Wagner, Pal Lauer, Al Schwartz, Roger Debenham, Mike Howlett, and Breyer.

Three of the I. A. C. squad—Breyer, Schwartz, and Lauer—are Olympic veterans. They have been schooling younger players to block the under water maneuvering which many teams employ to temporarily incapacitate opponents.

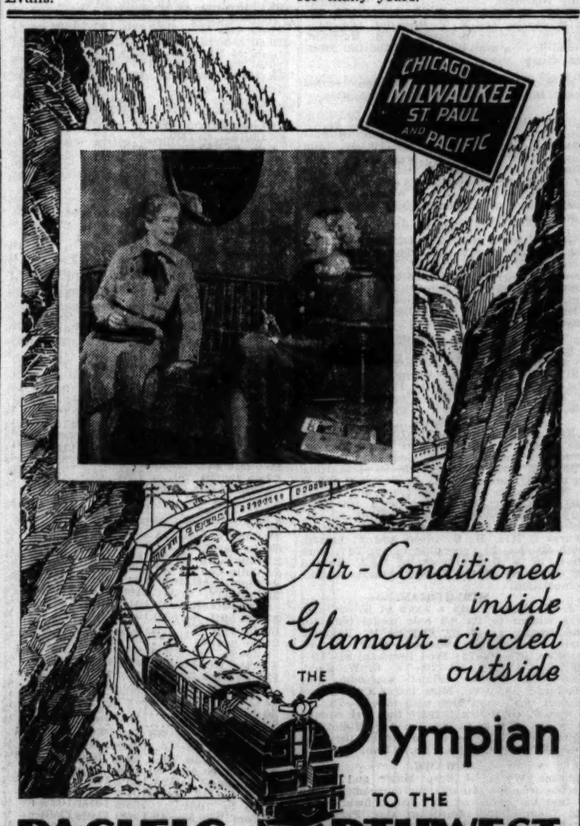

All of the divers entered in the spring boards and platform events will be quartered at the I. A. C. by tonight. Johnny Riley of Los Angeles has been practicing here for three days. He is a brother of Mickey Riley, America's most famous diver for many years.

Jay Berwanger to Help Coach Maroon Frosh

Jay Berwanger, star half back of the University of Chicago football team, will return to the Midway this fall as a freshman back field coach, Director of Athletics Nelson Metcalf announced yesterday. Coach Clark Shaughnessy also plans to have him do some coaching of the varsity back field men.

Berwanger, now employed by a Chicago rubber company, recently decided that he would not accept an offer to play professional football. Most sought after player in the country, he refused large offers to carry the ball on the pro gridiron to go to work. He is now working in a factory, cutting molded rubber into strips as part of a training course.

Mitchell Wins Again.

Leeds Mitchell Jr. of the Chicago Yacht club, who won his first race in his new Star boat, Adara, Saturday, repeated yesterday in his Dyer dink in the North American Dinghy association D class. Stewart Ahrens, in James Scott Kemper's boat, Geromi, was second.

The widest range of club representation and age was found in the lady skippers' race. Miss Marion Hofstetter, who gained her sailing experience on Robert S. Dole's sloops, Patience, and more recently, Vanity, won the event on Commodore Robert R. Borgfeldt's snipe class sloop, Hussy.

The wind, which had been from the north during the previous events, calmed down during the lady skippers' race. Before the yachtswomen had half sailed, half drifted to the first buoy the regatta committee radioed the coast guard picket boat Old Chicago to time the first three as they rounded the buoy and declared the race ended at that point. The coast guard and other craft then towed in the becalmed fleet with their women skippers and male crews. Mrs. Virgil Lewis of the St. Joseph River [Mich.] Yacht club followed Skipper Hofstetter around the buoy to take second.

The special award for the best appearing boat in the regatta went to Bill Park's snipe from the Wilmette fleet, Silver Hind.

Cee-Bee Capsizes.

TWO MARKS FALL AS SWIMMING MEET CLOSES

New York, June 28.—[Special.]—A record breaking 300 meter medley relay race in which Mrs. Eleanor Holm Jarrett again led her Women's Swimming association team to victory, and the 880 yard free style championship, which went to Mrs. Lenore Kight Wingard, brought the four day women's national swimming and diving meet to a close today.

The W. S. A. won the team championship with 48 points. The Washington Athletic club of Seattle tied the Carnegie Library club of Homestead, Pa., for second, with 17 points apiece, and the Miami Beach Swimming club was third with 11.

Seven records were broken during the meet, four by Mrs. Wingard, three by Mrs. Jarrett.

SNYDER BREAKS TRACK RECORD AT RIVERVIEW

All track records were broken last night at the new Riverview auto speedway, including the thirty-five lap feature event, in which Jimmy Snyder of Chicago defeated Pat Warren, Los Angeles, by a yard. The main event was a thrilling race throughout as Snyder and Warren roared around the course. Snyder got up in the last few yards to win in the record time of 9:36. Marshall Lewis took third money, and Hay Richards finished fourth.

dozen times and that her real boy friend ever since grammar school was Bobby Robinson, 6539 Eberhart avenue, son of a woman teacher in the public schools. She has seen Bobby only once since her marriage, Marva stated. . . . "Joe Gibbons didn't like Bobby Robinson," she remarked airily. "He was jealous because he wasn't in our set at school. He got out that marriage license without me having a thing to do with it, just to convince me he was in love with me. He didn't furnish any flat for me. How could he? He's a cab driver. Nobody believes his mother did, either." . . .

Joe and his wife, who have been vacationing for the last week at Stevensville, Mich., where Julian Black has a summer home, expect to return to their Chicago apartment early this week. . . . The only thing definite about Louis' future, according to Black, is that he will fight again and in all probability his next appearance in the ring will be in Los Angeles against Hank Hankinson, King Levinsky, or Charley Retzlaff. . . . Joe denies that he was poisoned, drugged, double crossed, that Schmeling had iron bolts in his gloves, or that he quarreled with his wife on the eve of the battle. . . . "I was in perfect condition, mentally and physically," he said. "I made a mistake when I dropped my hands at the end of the second round and Max scored with his first damaging punch, a right to the jaw. I assure you I won't drop my hands again. What do you mean, am I goin' to fight again? Heck, I've just started. I've just been given my first lesson. If I were to fight Schmeling tomorrow the result would be different." . . .

After making himself clear that he had no alibis except inexperience to offer for his defeat Joe went back in the house to eat some more turkey and ice cream.

Boy, what's the latest score on the Cubs?

Ten Years Ago Today—The University of Washington won the annual Poughkeepsie regatta. . . . The Navy was second. . . . Pete Latzo, world's welterweight champion, knocked out Willie Harmon in the fifth round. . . . State's Attorney Crowe announced that there would be no betting at the new Homewood track. . . .

SAGILIO MEETS ARON TONIGHT AT MARIGOLD

Former Golden Glovers Box at New Weight.

The Card

Milt Aron vs. Frankie Sagilio [10], 146.
Tommy Howell vs. Harold Brown [8], 141.
Pete Lello vs. Tod Kelly [4], 135.
Carl Fashnaugh vs. Eddie Moran [4], 135.

Frankie Sagilio, Cicero welterweight slugger, will meet Milt Aron in a ten round bout tonight at Marigold Gardens, one of the most attractive held at the north side arena this season. The weight is 146, more than either ever weighed before. In his latest start, June 22 at Milwaukee, the Dubuque youngster came in at 144¾ against Ralph Leslie, whom he knocked out in two rounds, while Sagilio scaled 142 when he defeated Toots Bernstein in ten rounds at Marigold June 1.

Both fighters are products of Golden Gloves, Aron winning a sectional crown in 1932 and again in 1933.

Three other Golden Glovers on the card are Tommy Howell, former Danville sectional title holder; Pete Lello, Chicagoland monarch, and Harold Brown, member of the 1934 inter-city team. Howell and Brown meet in an eight round attraction, their third engagement since April 20. Harold won both previous scraps by a narrow margin. Lello will make his professional debut in four rounds against Tod Kelly, north side lightweight.

STEEL INDUSTRY TO FIGHT LABOR UNION EFFORTS

Will Resist Outside Organizers.

Outside efforts to unionize the greater number of the approximately 500,000 persons employed in the steel industry will be resisted, according to a statement issued by the industry last night through the American Iron and Steel institute. The statement declared that the industry will oppose any attempt to compel its employés to "join a union or to pay tribute for the right to work."

EUGENE G. GRACE.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, has been behind a movement seeking to bring employés of the steel industry within the ranks of organized labor.

Among the companies in the institute are the United States Steel corporation, Bethlehem Steel corporation, Republic Steel corporation, Jones & Laughlin, National Steel corporation, Youngstown Sheet and Tube, and Inland Steel company. Eugene G. Grace, president of Bethlehem, is president of the institute.

The American Iron and Steel institute pointed out that employment in the steel industry this spring has been the highest on record for any peace time period in its history. It stated that wages in the industry have been increased three times since 1933 and now are from 6 to 7 per cent higher than they were in the peak year, 1929.

Statement by Institute.

In one of its rare statements direct to the public the Iron and Steel institute gave its position in the following words:

"A campaign to unionize the employés of the steel industry has been announced. In order that the employés and the public may know the position of the steel industry in the face of the threatened drive, the industry makes this statement through the American Iron and Steel institute.

"Persons and organizations not connected with the industry have taken charge of the campaign.

"There are many disturbing indications that the promoters of the campaign will employ coercion and intimidation of the employés in the industry and foment strikes.

"The objective of the campaign is the 'closed shop,' which prohibits the employment of any one not a union member. The steel industry will oppose any attempt to compel its employés to join a union or to pay tribute for the right to work.

"No employé in the steel industry has to join any organization to get

Steel Output Rises to New High for Year

Steelworks operations last week set a new 1936 record, reaching the highest rate since May, 1930, the magazine Steel said yesterday. Output rose to 71½ per cent of plant capacity, a gain of one point over the previous week.

Large orders for structural steel and railroad car construction were major factors in the rise, according to Steel. Producers will enter the third quarter with a large accumulation of specifications to cushion the tapering-off in July. This week operations will decline because of the July 4 holiday, Steel said.

Operations have held an average of 62.6 per cent in the first six months of this year, compared with 47 per cent in the same period last year, according to the journal.

Shape awards totaled 35,000 tons, a substantial increase, and last week's awards for railroad car construction were the best since the week ended May 23, according to the magazine.

High Rate Maintained.

"After seven consecutive weeks at 100 per cent of capacity, tin plate producers see no sign of seriously reduced activity," Steel said. "Leading producers of strip last week began declining additional orders at second-quarter prices as heavy backlogs piled up. The need for rebuilding semi-finished stocks, which have been drawn upon heavily, became more apparent."

Although orders for sheets showed a slight decline because many mills closed their books on second quarter business, deliveries against contracts will be extended well into July, Steel said. One leading producer reported 75 per cent of the orders placed the first three weeks of June had been for current consumption and eastern mills noted only a small amount of buying at third quarter prices, according to the journal.

Record Equals 1930 Period.

Steel's survey of the first half of 1936 shows that in most products the record of the first half of 1930 was almost equaled.

The market tone of scrap last week was slightly stronger, although the scrap index remained at $12.47 for the third consecutive week. Steel's iron and steel composite rose 2 cents to $32.79, while the finished steel index remained at $52.20.

Operations in the Youngstown district were up 2 points to 80 per cent of plant capacity last week; eastern Pennsylvania, 1¼ to 47; Birmingham, 4 to 58½; Cincinnati, 4 to 80, and Cleveland, 2½ to 84½. Pittsburgh declined 1 point to 66, New England 3 to 80 and others were unchanged.

Marshall Field May Pick McKinlay Successor Today

Directors of Marshall Field & Co. are expected to act today to pick a successor to John McKinlay, who recently submitted his resignation. McKinlay's resignation becomes effective July 1. James O. McKinsey has been chief executive officer of the company since his election to the chairmanship late last year.

Hudson Second Quarter Shipments to Total 38,300

Second quarter factory shipments of the Hudson Motor Car company will total approximately 38,300 units, William R. Tracy, Hudson vice president, said yesterday. This will be an increase of 33 per cent over the first quarter and 34.5 per cent above the second quarter of 1935.

CONVENTION HAS LITTLE EFFECT ON STOCK MART

Traders Differ as to New Tax.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 28.—So far as the market averages show, last week's political actions at Philadelphia left little mark on speculative sentiment in Wall street. Stock prices moved up to a new high for the period the day after the convention opened, but receded later to finish the week at a net fractional loss. Observers could detect little political influence on either move.

The convention activities had been pretty generally anticipated even to the "glittering generalities" and New Deal indorsements of the platform. The document's failure to attack the courts, its non-commital pronouncements on the money question and its treatment of the national deficit, particularly dove-tailed with advance predictions.

A drop in the betting odds indicated a growing belief that the New Deal is not slated for the election day "walkover" forecast for it only a few weeks ago.

Differ on Tax Act Effects.

Opinion on the market effects of the new tax act differed widely. In some quarters there was a disposition to think that the measure would augment the buying of leading issues on the theory that companies which have been in the habit of ploughing back earnings into plant and which have been putting income into surplus will, henceforth, in all probability, make more liberal disbursements to their shareholders. In other words increased regular dividends and many more extra disbursements can be expected in the coming months, if the predictions of these market analysts materialize.

Other observers were just as convinced that the effect of the tax law would be detrimental from the market's viewpoint, their theory being that many corporations will be unable to resume or increase their dividends even though profits might otherwise warant such action, because of indenture agreements made when bonds or preferred stocks were sold.

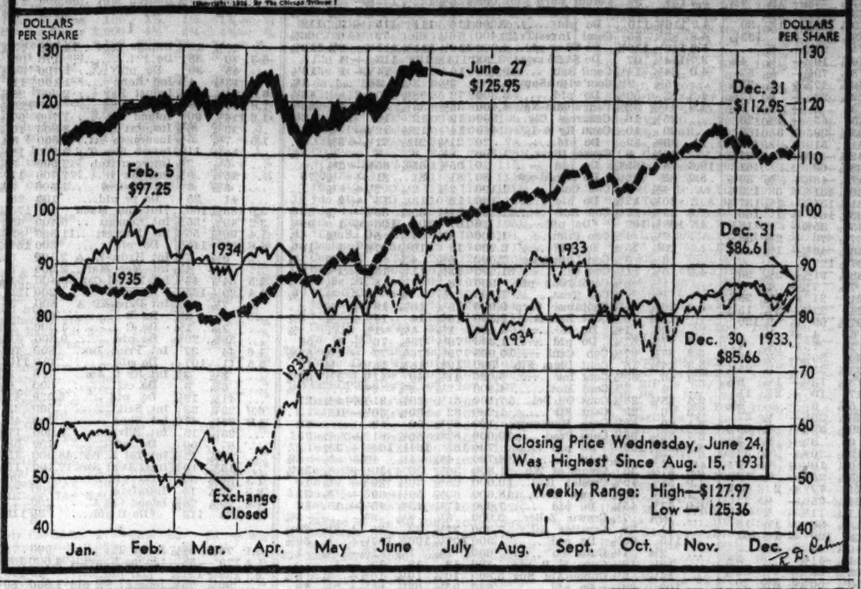

Trade statistics continue to favor the upside of market operations. Steel output, as reported by the Iron Age, was unchanged from the preceding week's high level, but railway freight loadings ran nearly 22 per cent above those of the corresponding week of last year.

Electric Power Gains.

The electric power industry continued to "hit on all six." An increase of 9.1 per cent in the latest gross returns enabled American Power and Light, for instance, to jump its net 67 per cent.

Some encouragement was found in the two reductions made by the Bank of France in its discount rate. It was assumed that these reflected a substantial improvement in the French financial situation and indicated that the French franc would remain tied to gold for a while longer, at least.

CHICAGO WHOLESALE AND RETAIL APPAREL TRADE REPORTED FIRM

Chicago retail and wholesale markets last week cashed in on a heavy inquiry for all kinds of summer apparel, the Chicago Association of Commerce reported. Some sources asserted department store trade in seasonal clothing was the best in years.

Several of the larger stores added temporary workers. Millinery, shoes, accessories, and sporting equipment were well received.

Wholesalers welcomed what was described as a more cheerful mood in rural areas, reporting the receipt of a good volume of repeat orders.

C. C. DAVIS LAYS INCREASED FARM INCOME TO AAA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 28.—[Special.]—A 317 page defense of the outlawed Agricultural Adjustment administration was issued today by Chester C. Davis, former AAA head and now a member of the federal reserve board.

The report, submitted to Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, purported to show that "the turning point in the fortunes of agriculture" came with the adoption of the New Deal scheme of paying bounties for plowing under.

According to Davis' yardstick, the annual cash income from farm production increased from $4,377,000,000 in 1932 to $6,900,000,000 in 1935. There was no yardstick for determining how much of the increase resulted from the artificial boosting of prices by New Deal currency tampering, but the records in the Davis report showed that 25 per cent of the upswing was accounted for by the cash rental and benefit payments of the AAA.

Davis admitted that exports of farm products from this country were shrinking while imports were on the increase, but he averred that the matter of volume was insignificant.

1936 Gasoline Taxes Reach New High at $789,114,152

New York, June 28.—[Special.]—Collections of state and federal gasoline taxes last year reached an all-time high level of $789,114,152, according to a compilation made public today by the American petroleum industries committee. This is about $54,000,000 more than was collected in 1934. Of last year's total $616,851,671 was paid in state gasoline taxes, while the remainder, $172,262,481, went into the federal treasury.

1934 BUSINESS TAX YIELD LESS THAN DURING '30

Total Collection Put at $594,334,000.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 28.—[Special.]—Corporation taxes for 1934 showed a gain of $171,266,000 over 1933, but the total collection of $594,334,000 for business done in 1934 fell far below the figure for 1930 and prior years, according to an analysis made public today by Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr.

The studies, based on returns filed up to Dec. 31, 1935, showed that the aggregate gross income of all reporting corporations amounted to $100,134,350,000 as against $83,642,421,000 for 1933, an increase of $16,491,929,000, or 19.72 per cent. Statutory net income of the corporations for 1934 amounted to $4,264,917,000, or an increase of $1,278,945,000 over the preceding year.

Bears Biggest Share.

Manufacturing of all kinds bore the biggest share of the corporate income and excess profits tax burden in 1934, paying a total of $265,184,000 into the federal coffers. Of this amount metals and allied products paid $74,414,000, the chemical group, $45,170,000, and food and kindred products, $42,258,000.

Transportation and public utilities poured $126,260,000 into the treasury, while trade accounted for $93,938,000.

In spite of the highly publicized program of the New Deal toward taxing excess profits, plugging "loopholes," and other strenuous measures, the levy on 1934 corporate income failed to produce as much revenue as was collected for the degression year of 1930. Corporate taxes paid for 1930 totaled $711,704,000, while for the previous year the collection had amounted to $1,193,436,000.

528,882 Corporate Returns.

The treasury studies for 1934 showed that 528,882 separate corporate returns were filed for the year and of this number 145,089 represented net or taxable income.

The statutory net deficit of corporations reporting no net income amounted to $4,150,694,000 in contrast with $5,533,339,000, or a decrease of $1,382,645,000, over 1933. The statutory net income of corporations reporting net income exceeded the statutory net deficit of corporations reporting no net income by $114,223,000.

$200,000,000 WHEAT CROP BEING HARVESTED IN SOUTHWEST REGION

Kansas City, Mo., June 28.—(AP)—Binders, combines, and threshers hum a merry tune over the southwest these days—the song of a golden harvest worth an estimated $200,000,000 to wheat farmers in the nation's bread basket.

Although below normal for many sections of the old southwest dust bowl, this year's harvest is reported the best in five years over the area generally. Farmers grin broadly as they view price quotations in excess of 80 cents a bushel. Many await dollar wheat before selling.

Harvest began in Texas and Oklahoma two weeks ago and spread fanwise as it moved northward, leaving fields of yellow stubble. Today virtually all grain south of central Kansas and Missouri has been harvested, either by binders or combines. Threshing outfits are at work in many places, throwing chaff to the windward and dropping grain into wagons as sweating "hands" toil under a blazing sun to feed the bundles into the whirling teeth of the separators.

Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma, Texas, and Nebraska have a crop officially estimated June 1 at 240,000,000 bushels, half the country's total production. On the basis of 82 cents a bushel, such a crop would bring farmers approximately $200,000,000.

Milwaukee Co. to Give 800 Employes Wage Dividend

Milwaukee, Wis., June 28.—[Special.]—A dividend on wages to 800 employés, including piece rate and hourly workers, was announced today by the Ladish Drop Forge company, with reports of a profitable operation for the fiscal year. The dividend will be paid Oct. 1 to those who have had at least six months continuous work with the company. The amount will depend upon length of service. The company has added more than 200 new employés to its pay roll in the last three weeks.

Seaboard Air Bondholders to Get Interest Payment

Baltimore, Md., June 28.—[Special.]—The Safe Deposit and Trust company of Baltimore, as depository for the underlying bonds of the Seaboard Air Line railway, has notified holders of certificates of deposit that payment of six months' interest will be made on or before July 7, on the deposited bonds to registered owners as of the close of business July 1, 1936.

Wheat Eases Despite More Crop Damage

Wheat prices in the Chicago market declined moderately last week, despite a background of highly unfavorable crop conditions in the spring wheat producing belt of the northwest.

The paradoxical action of the market in losing ground in a period when all observers agree that the crop is deteriorating was attributable to a number of factors.

The condition of spring wheat has declined steadily since the beginning of June and the market has followed an upward course. As the reports of damage continued to flow in last week they lost their potency as market influences and prices reacted, partly due to profit realizing by speculators.

New Highs Attained.

Before the selling developed late in the week all future contracts in wheat on the Chicago markets were quoted at new high prices for the season. At its best price December wheat was ½ cent a bushel below the dollar mark. It closed the week 4 cents a bushel below this figure at 95½ cent a bushel.

Showers fell in some sections of the northwest late in the week but they were regarded as of small consequence. A total crop failure is said to be certain in some parts of the Dakotas and eastern Montana. The drouth has moved eastward and is now taking its toll of the crop in the fertile Red river valley in eastern North Dakota and western Minnesota.

Prospects Down 50 Per Cent.

Some estimates suggest that crop prospects in the Dakotas have deteriorated more than 50 per cent in the last four weeks. The more pessimistic appraisals suggest that the combined harvests of the two Dakotas will not be much larger than the 22 million bushels harvested in the disastrous crop year of 1934 when total production of spring wheat fell below 100 million bushels. The 1935 Dakota crop amounted to 83 million bushels of a total harvest for all spring wheat of 143 million bushels.

Temperatures of 100 degrees accompanied by high winds have brought damage in the last few days to sections in the northwest which only recently have had rains.

Damage was also reported last week to late winter wheat in parts of Kansas and Nebraska. Extreme heat and dry weather proved injurious to the grain.

Railroad Credit Corporation to Make $735,881 Payment

The Railroad Credit corporation tomorrow will make its twenty-ninth liquidating distribution to participating railroads, amounting to $735,881, E. G. Buckland, president, announced yesterday. This will bring the total amount distributed to 51 per cent of the fund, or $37,529,916.

U. S. TO REVAMP FEDERAL GRAIN BUYING AGENCY

FCA Will Lend to 'Co-op' Members.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 28.—The Farm Credit administration announced today that the Farmers' National Grain corporation, an agency of the old federal farm board with headquarters in Chicago, would be refinanced.

C. E. HUFF.

Details of the refinancing plan as well as the assets and liabilities of the corporation were not made public. The announcement of Gov. W. I. Myers of the FCA was merely that regional stockholder members, including local farmers' coöperative elevators and members of such elevators, would purchase $3,000,000 of new capital stock in the corporation.

The corporation will continue to function under the old setup. The Rev. Clarence E. Huff, who was president of the corporation in the Hoover days, still holds that position.

FCA Will Lend Funds.

Officials of the FCA said a part of the $3,000,000 additional capital would be loaned to the regional coöperative associations to enable them to purchase the stock. FCA would furnish the funds.

"Under the terms of the compromise which has been worked out between the corporation and the administration, the corporation will turn over its assets and liabilities to the government," the announcement stated.

"Then, as a result of refinancing, the corporation will retain grain inventories, exchange memberships, current accounts receivable and other current grain operating assets, and certain elevators and warehouses, together with liabilities offsetting such assets. This will permit the coöperative to continue to operate under its present corporate structure and without interruption of its operations in connection with the new crop.

Gives Reasons for Change.

"It was the policy of the federal farm board, under which the corporation was established in 1929, to lend funds only through the national organization and not to make loans direct to regional stockholder members or local elevators, thus holding Farmers' National Grain corporation responsible for all funds that were re-loaned to the regionals and locals for regional and local purposes.

"Because of the depression many of the assets upon which funds were reloaned through the National have depreciated to a point where they will not entirely repay the loans advanced thereon. Also, due to the decreased volume of business, because of drouth and the generally unfavorable marketing factors of the past three years, operating losses have been incurred by the corporation which approximate the earnings made during the preceding years of heavier grain production and marketing."

STEEL INDUSTRY TO FIGHT LABOR UNION EFFORTS

Announces It Will Resist Outside Organizers.

or hold a job. Employment in the industry does not depend upon membership or nonmembership in any organization. Advancement depends on individual merit and effort. These are fundamental American principles to which the industry will steadfastly adhere. The steel industry believes in the principles of collective bargaining and it is in effect throughout the industry.

"The overwhelming majority of the employés in the steel industry recently participated in annual elections under their own representation plans and elected their representatives for collective bargaining. The elections were conducted by the employés themselves by secret ballot. One of the purposes of the announced campaign is to overthrow those plans and the representatives so elected.

Recovering from Depression.

"The steel industry is recovering from six years of depression and huge losses, and the employés are now beginning to receive the benefits of increased operations. Any interruption of the forward movement will seriously injure the employés and their families and all businesses dependent upon the industry, and will endanger the welfare of the country. The announced drive, with its accompanying agitation for industrial strife, threatens such interruption.

"The steel industry will use its resources to the best of its ability to protect its employés and their families from intimidation, coercion, and violence, and in aiding them in maintaining collective bargaining free from interference from any source."

Explains Company Plans.

The institute explained that collective bargaining is in effect in the industry chiefly through the medium of employé representation plans. It disputes the allegation of union workers that these plans are so-called "company unions" and are dominated by employers. The institute declares that representatives of employés for collective bargaining under the plans are elected by secret ballot in elections conducted and supervised by the men themselves, with no interference from the management.
